In some of the cases in which detention was followed by release, the condition was imposed that the goods should be re-shipped out of India.

4. It may be inferred from the comparative number of cases reported from each port that more vigilant attention to the administration of the Act was given at Bombay and Karachi than at other ports. The inference is supported by the interesting report of the Collector of Customs at Bombay.

5. Now that the requirements of the Act are generally known and understood, it is probable that the number of cases in 1891-92 will be smaller than they were last year.

ORDER,—Ordered, that the foregoing Resolution and the papers read in the preamble be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information, and that copy be forwarded to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, and Bengal, and the Chief Commissioner of Burma.

No. 130, dated the 27th April 1891.

From—The Collector of Customs, Calcutta,

To—The Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces.

With reference to your docket No. 305 B., dated the 20th December 1890, forwarding a copy of instructions for the guidance of Customs officers in the working of the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, IV of 1889, issued by the Government of India, and calling for a yearly report, I have the honour to forward herewith a statement in the prescribed form showing the number of cases dealt with during the past official year 1890-91.

2. There were altogether 302 cases of detention, all of which were ordered without information having been given, the infringement of the Act being discovered in the examination of goods. Out of this number 252 cases consisted of unstamped or partially stamped piece-goods, 16 were false trade descriptions, and 34 were goods marked with the name of a British or British Indian trader made abroad and not showing the country of manufacture.

3. The piece-goods detained consisted of all descriptions—cotton, flax, silks, and woollens. In some cases the goods were not stamped at all; small penalties were imposed, and they were allowed to be stamped and then passed. In other cases the length was stamped in numerals only without the word "yards." These were passed after this word had been added without a penalty being imposed. Generally speaking, importers of piece-goods, which are the largest items in our list of imports, have complied with the requirements of the Act, and at its introduction I have not thought it advisable to impose heavy penalties, the less so that the obligation to make good the stamping involved much trouble and expense.

4. The goods in the 16 cases of false trade descriptions consisted of champagne, brandy, port, vermouth, sherry, butter, vermilion, soap, imitation gold thread, perfumery, porter, and cigars.

5. In certain of these cases re-shipment was allowed; in others the false trade description was allowed to be removed by obliteration or by the addition of the name of the country of manufacture as the case might be and the goods then passed. The only penalty imposed was on an importation of 84 cases of brandy. This was a glaring case of fraud, the liquor being of an inferior character, cheaper than Hennessy's brandy is sold, and the bottles bearing forged Hennessy labels. These goods, imported by a native dealer from Egypt, were confiscated. The value was declared to be R500. In the 34 cases where the goods bore the name of a trader in the United Kingdom or British India, the goods having been made or produced beyond the limits of these countries, the goods were all passed without a fine after the country of manufacture had been placed on the goods or the name erased. These articles consisted of port wine, binoculars, clocks, sherry, montilla, Pilsener beer, quinine, rum, brandy, and champagne.

6. In deciding cases that come before me I have, as far as possible, followed the practice obtaining in England under the Merchandise Marks Act in force in that country. When importers have erred through ignorance or want of knowledge of the law, I have not imposed penalties in most cases, but have thought it sufficient to allow them to mark their goods so as to bring them within the terms of the Act and at the same time to warn them. There was a little friction when the Act first came in, but not more than was to be anticipated. This has now disappeared, and I do not anticipate any further trouble.

7. The introduction of the Act has thrown additional work upon this office, especially in the Appraisers' Department, but it is now easier than it was at the beginning of the Act. Merchants and dealers are gradually becoming acquainted with its provisions, and I think they have generally tried to comply with them.

BURMA.

No. 187—5 C., dated the 10th October 1891.

From—The Secretary to the Chief Commissioner, Burma, Financial Department,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, FINANCE AND COMMERCE DEPARTMENT.

In reply to your letter No. 3398, dated the 11th August 1891, I am directed to submit a copy of letter No. 224—8, dated the 10th September 1891, from the Chief Collector of Customs, Burma, reporting on the proceedings of Collectors of Customs in Burma for 1890-91, as required by clause 4 of the instructions to Customs officers under the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, 18·9.

No. 224—8, dated the 10th September 1891.

From—The Chief Collector of Customs, Burma,
To—The Secretary to the Financial Commissioner, Burma.

With reference to the instructions issued by the Government of India in December 1890, for the guidance of Customs officers in the administration of the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, IV of 1889, I have the honour to report that during the year ending 31st March 1891 the provisions of the Act were duly complied with in this Province, and that no proceedings were necessary under it, except in two instances when small consignments of Indian twist were detained because of short measurements, under section 4, clause 3 of the Act, and section III of Home Department Notification dated the 13th August 1889.

These consignments were subsequently, under the authority of the telegram from the Secretary to the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department, dated the 27th March 1890, allowed to be re-exported to the Straits Settlements.

BOMBAY AND SIND.

No. 7388, dated the 27th October 1891.

From—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bombay, Revenue Department,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, FINANCE AND COMMERCE DEPARTMENT.

Adverting to my letter No. 59-3, dated the 1st ultimo, I am directed to forward, for submission to the Government of India, the accompanying statement* furnished by the Commissioner in Sind showing the number of cases dealt with at the Karachi Custom House under the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, 1889, from April 1890 to March 1891, together with the reports and statements noted in the margin, submitted by the Collector of Land Revenue, Customs and Opium, Bombay, and the Commissioner of Customs, Salt, Opium and Abkari, regarding the working of that Act at the Bombay Custom House during the same period, and to state that the Commissioner in Sind has been requested to submit as soon as possible a short report explaining and commenting on the figures supplied by him, which will be forwarded to the Government of India on receipt.

(Margin: Memorandum from the Commissioner of Customs, Salt, Opium and Abkari, No. 4035, dated 8th August 1891, with its accompaniments.)

2. I am to add that recommendations similar to those contained in paragraphs 18 and 19 of Mr. Campbell's report were in 1889 laid before this Government, but that acting on the advice of the Solicitor to Government they did not then deem it necessary to take action upon them. In the circumstances now reported, however, His Excellency the Governor in Council has sanctioned these recommendations, and has directed the employment of the Solicitor to Government to prosecute in test cases of importance to the public. These cases will be selected by the Collector of Land Revenue, Customs and Opium, Bombay, who has been authorized to use his discretion in instructing the Solicitor to Government to prosecute, and has been directed to report to Government the result of such prosecutions.

No. 5753 C., dated the 31st July 1891.

From—The Acting Collector of Land Revenue, Customs and Opium, Bombay,
To—The Commissioner of Customs, Salt, Opium and Abkari, Bombay.

I have the honour to submit the first Annual Report on the Administration of the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, IV of 1889. The report, which is for the year ending March 31st, 1891, is submitted in accordance with the orders of the Government of India received by me with Government Resolution No. 8960 of 15th December 1890, Revenue Department.

2. The information specifically called for by the Government of India in the 4th paragraph of the Executive Instructions is contained in Appendix A. For the sake of comparison I have given the figures for each of the years 1889-90 and 1890-91. It will be seen that the number of detentions under section 18, clause (d) of the Sea Customs Act, was slightly larger in 1890-91 than in the preceding year, but that there was a marked decrease in the number of detentions under clauses (e) and (f), and also in the total number of detentions.

3. The increase in the number of detentions under clause (d) was the result of the orders contained in Government Resolution No. 243 of 11th January 1890. Till the receipt of that Resolution it was not held in practice that English words impressed on foreign-made goods constituted false trade descriptions when the words were unaccompanied by a definite indication of origin. After the orders of Government on this point had reached me, I took steps to acquaint the mercantile community with the change of practice that was necessitated, and having given them what I considered to be a fair notice, I began to enforce the new orders on May 1st, 1890. The decrease in the number of detentions under clauses (e) and (f) is due to the requirements of the Custom House being better understood by the mercantile public.

4. Appendix B shows the extent to which the various officers adjudicated on offences against the Merchandise Marks Act in the exercise of the powers that have been conferred upon them by section 182 of Act VIII of 1878. It also shows the amount of fines levied.

5. During the year under review only two appeals were preferred against the orders of the adjudicating officers. Both appeals were made to you against decisions recorded by me. In one case my order was upheld; in the other case it was reversed. In 1889-90 of eight appeals in only two was it found necessary to reverse the original order. The fact that only ten decisions have been appealed in two years shows that persons against whom orders are passed are usually satisfied as to the justness of the penalties imposed upon them.

6 Appendix C shows the number of packages detained under the Act during the past two years, and the manner in which they have been disposed of. The packages are those dealt with in the cases appearing in Appendix A.

7. Appendix D shows the quantity of piece-goods detained under section 18, clause (f) of Act VIII of 1878. The large decrease in the number of pieces detained in 1890-91 compared with 1889-90 is due to the necessity of stamping the length on each piece having become commonly known. It is probable that ere long the import of piece-goods not having the length marked on them will practically cease.

8. This being the first time that an annual report on the working of the Merchandise Marks Act has been required, I have thought it advisable to prepare, for your information, summaries of a few of the more important cases. They are contained in Appendix E.

9. I will now make some remarks on the question how far the Merchandise Marks Act meets the end for which it is designed, i.e., the putting down of dishonest trading.

The Act is effective in so far as it renders it difficult and hazardous in most cases for importers to bring into this country goods that bear any marks or descriptions calculated to deceive the public as to the nature or value of the goods. Whether the Act puts any strong check upon dishonest trade practices within this country is less certain. It is easy for the importer to put false marks upon his goods when once they have passed the Custom House. It is true he may be prosecuted and convicted under section 6 of the Act, as may a person who sells goods bearing a false description under section 7, but it will seldom or never be worth the while of a private person to institute prosecutions in such cases.

10. I regret to have to state that the importation of labels which are obviously intended to be put to dishonest uses is by no means uncommon. One consignment of labels was clearly intended to be applied to bottles of country-made lime-juice and glycerine so as to show that the contents were made in London. Another consignment was to be used to show that packets of candles were of Dutch make.

11. I enclose two cards that were intended for use in the retail sale of thread. When thread is sold wrapped round cards like these, the purchaser will naturally suppose that the thread has been imported on the cards and has been passed by the Custom House officers as of German make and of the length marked on the card. It is easy to see how the public may be cheated by the use of cards of this kind. To lessen the danger of fraud from this source I have ordered that future consignments should be marked "Cards made in Germany" instead of "made in Germany" merely. But by importing blank cards or by having cards printed in Bombay this restriction can be easily evaded.

12. Paper for printing and some other purposes is sold by weight and is generally imported in bundles weighing 14 to 72lb. On weighment shortages of 1lb to 2lb per bundle have been found. Manufacturers have explained that these shortages are due to the wrappers being included in the specified weights. This plea has not been accepted, as, if the weight intended to be expressed by the stamping was gross weight, it should have been so specified on the packages. Since full weight has been required, we have, as a rule, found absolute accuracy of weighment. This shows that the public have been saved from a practice which was of the nature of fraud. It seems doubtful how long this satisfactory result will continue. One foreign manufacturer has taken to sending out his paper with spaces for the figure to indicate weight and number of sheets left blank. These goods we cannot stop, and as soon as they are passed the importer may add as much false weight as he deems advisable.

13. Objectionable practices have also been noted in the import trade in oilman's stores. Hams marked as weighing 18lb would weigh only 16lb, and bacon marked at 25lb would weigh 22½lb. Importers explained that dryage occurred after shipment. This explanation was not accepted. From the examinations that have been made of recent consignments it appears that the actual dryage in these articles is nominal. To evade the Act some importers have begun to bring in hams and bacon without any weight marked on their coverings.

14. Boxes of common washing bar-soap are generally stamped to contain 45lb. When we began to test the weights we found an average shortage of 8 per cent. In this case too the importers urged that the commodity dried between time of shipment and time of delivery. We now find that the actual dryage is trifling. The hardihood with which the plea of dryage has been put forward to explain the fraudulent marking of various articles is peculiar. It has actually been claimed that 2 or 3 per cent. should be allowed for dryage in the case of hardware articles, such as brass and copper nails.

15. The manufacturers of the very inferior brands of wines and spirits are now careful to describe the liquor they sell in such a way that it cannot be detained. One firm has just imported from London 50 cases of brandy described as "Guillaumat et Cie: Cognac made in France." The net value of this brandy is given in the bill of entry as R5½ per case of one dozen quarts. The Chemical Analyser cannot say whether this decoction is made of grape juice or not, so we have no means of stopping its importation. A great deal of inferior liquor sold as Champagne, Chateau Margaux, Chateau Lafitte, etc., is manufactured in Germany and shipped to this port. German-made liqueurs, valued at about R12 per dozen, have come in and are sold under the names of Chartreuse and Benedictine. It is only when these liquors bear descriptions on the labels or capsules that they can be stopped at the Custom House.

16. It appears desirable that in the interest of the public Government should undertake prosecutions under sections 487 and 488 of the Indian Penal Code, and sections 6 and 7 of the Merchandise Marks Act. Unless this is done it is morally impossible to put any effectual check on the sale of goods under false descriptions. We find that the quantity of goods that are brought to this port bearing false descriptions is rapidly decreasing, and it is believed that few such goods manage to pass the Custom House. At the same time we find manufacturers are beginning to send unmarked goods to this country where they previously sent marked goods, and there is reason to fear that in many such instances descriptions, which the Custom House would treat as objectionable, are affixed after importation.

17. In conclusion, I will quote the remarks made by the Select Committee of the House of Commons which reported last year on the working of the English Merchandise Marks Act, in so far as they relate to prosecutions:—

> "The non-official witnesses examined before your Committee were unanimously of opinion that prosecutions under the Merchandise Marks Act should in future be undertaken by the State. Your Committee recommend that the Solicitor to the Board of Trade, or the Solicitor to the Customs, should prosecute in cases affecting the general interests of the country, of a section of the community, or of a trade, there being in such cases no sufficient motive to induce any individual to incur the expense, responsibility or trouble of a private prosecution. Your Committee consider that State prosecutions should not be undertaken for offences against private property, such as forging or improperly using trade marks or trade names. The prosecutions in these instances should be left to the person, firm, or corporation aggrieved."

18. I venture to hope that the facts brought to notice in this report, the importation of labels (paragraph 10), the importation of the thread cards of which specimens accompany, the importation of paper (paragraph 12) and hams (paragraph 13) without any statement of weight, will satisfy Government that the remarks of the Select Committee apply with equal force to Bombay. I am satisfied that since the devices of importing separate labels and of omitting details of description have been discovered, their practice will rapidly spread to the profit of fraud and the loss of honest trade and of the community. If existing arrangements are not altered, the labour of the Custom House will be vain: the provisions of the Merchandise Marks Act will be a dead letter; and the attempt to guard the community from fraud will fail. As I am impressed with the benefits that follow the enforcing of the provisions of the Act and also with the ease with which its provisions can be practically enforced, I would earnestly recommend that the action of the Custom House be supplemented by public prosecutions. The Custom House is in a position to keep the police informed what classes of goods and what dealers are likely to infringe the provisions of the Act after the goods have passed the Custom House. The Solicitor to Government might be instructed to prosecute in a few test cases affecting the interests of the community or of a trade. I believe the supply of Custom House information to the police, regular police supervision, and occasional convictions, would crush the practice of false labelling and false description which, as it spreads in Bombay, is making the Merchandise Marks Act of no avail.

19. These remarks apply in the first instance to imported articles. My information is that both as regards yarn and cloth the local mills, or certain of them, act in a way which lays them open to the penalties laid down in sections 6, 7, and 12 of the Merchandise Marks Act. It appears that in the interests both of the public and of honest traders prosecutions should be authorised to prevent local manufacturers committing breaches of the Act.

No. 4035, dated the 8th August 1891.

Memo. by the Acting Commissioner of Customs, Salt, Opium and Abkari, Bombay.

Forwarded to Government, with reference to Government Resolution in the Revenue Department, No. 8960, dated 15th December 1890.

2. Mr. Campbell's report shows that the difficulties which were experienced at first in working the Merchandise Marks Act, have been almost entirely overcome, now that its provisions are thoroughly understood by the mercantile community.

3. The undersigned is of opinion that the remarks made in paragraphs 9 to 19 of Mr. Campbell's report deserve careful consideration. It was to be expected that unscrupulous merchants both in this country and abroad would devise means for evading the Act and passing their goods through the barrier of the Customs Act, and it is clear that to some extent they have been successful. The weak point in the present arrangements for the prevention of dishonest trading is the fact that there is no machinery to supplement the action of the Custom House, and to take notice of fraudulent trade marks and trade descriptions which have been applied to goods after they have passed through the Custom House. If in England people will not take the trouble to come forward and prosecute cases of this sort, still less is it likely that they will do so in this country, and the provisions of the law as to false trade marks and false trade descriptions will remain a dead letter outside the Custom House unless Government is prepared to take action. The undersigned is not in favour of Government undertaking prosecution in cases of imitations of private trade marks; these may be safely left to the parties concerned, but there are many cases which concern the public where Government might intervene usefully.

4. Again, there is no machinery at present in existence for enforcing the provisions of the Act against local manufacturers, and Mr. Campbell points out that there is reason to suppose that they at present evade the law. If it is desirable to check dishonest trading in imported goods, it is equally desirable to check the same practices in the case of goods locally produced.

Appendix E.

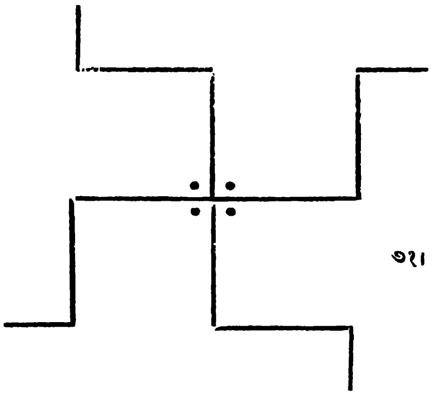
(1) Messrs. ——— ——imported eight cases of coloured satins per S.S Singapore from France in July 1889. The satins were found to have been made up into rolls after the Chinese fashion and wrapped in paper similar to that which is used for wrapping China silks. To make the deception complete, each roll bore some writing in Chinese characters, as well as a stamp in an oval with the word "Longchong" in English. I held that there could be no possible doubt that the Chinese label was introduced with a view to make purchasers believe that the goods were of China manufacture, the intention of the importers being to pass off cheap European goods as more costly Chinese goods. A fine of R500 was imposed upon the importers, and the goods bearing a false trade description were confiscated, subject to redemption on payment of a further penalty of R500. Both fines were paid and the goods passed into town after the removal of the objectionable labels. The importers appealed to you against my decision, but you informed them that you saw no reason to reverse or modify the orders passed in the case. Messrs ——— —— were not the only importers of French goods got up in imitation of Chinese goods. On my order being passed other importers of similar goods at once telegraphed to the manufacturers to stop further shipments. Goods of this description have not since been imported.

(2) Four cases of soap were imported by Messrs.— — ——— ——per S.S. Maria Theresa from Trieste in June 1889. It was found on examination that the boxes in which the soap was packed bore a false label in exact imitation of the registered trade mark of the well-known soap-makers, Messrs. A. F. Pears. The only alteration introduced was that, instead of A. F. Pears, the name Lyon and Adams, probably a fictitious firm, was introduced into the label. In another case of five packages of soap belonging to a native dealer imported in June 1889, for which the bill of entry was put in by a leading exchange bank, the small boxes of soap were found to bear counterfeit labels in imitation of Messrs A. F. Pears' trade mark. In each case I imposed on the importers a fine of R50 and confiscated the goods subject to redemption on payment of further penalties of R500. In neither case were the goods redeemed. In the case of the exchange bank Government ordered the refund of the substantive penalty of R500, on the ground that, as they had no knowledge that the goods to which their bill of entry related bore a counterfeit trade mark, the bank could not be held to be concerned in any offence within the meaning of section 167, clause 8 of the Sea Customs Act. In the other case an appeal to you was rejected.

(3) Messrs —— ————————& Co. imported from Trieste a case of shawls which bore the following mark : —



There was no doubt that both the mark and the figure ७१ (71¼) were stitched on the shawls in imitation of similar marks always seen on Indian shawls with the object of inducing the public to believe the shawls were of Indian make. Attached to the shawls were printed paper labels showing they were made in Austria. But as these labels could be easily detached, they were held not to justify the false trade description stitched into the shawls. The importers were fined R100 and the shawls were ordered to be confiscated. Penalty in lieu of confiscation was fixed at R400, provided the stitched marks were removed. The importers unsuccessfully appealed against Mr. Winchester's order first to you and then to Government. The fine of R100 was paid. The shawls were not redeemed and were sold as confiscated goods. Before delivery to the purchasers, the objectionable marks were removed. The shawls were invoiced at 11*s*. 2*d*. per piece. A similar shawl of Indian manufacture costs R50 to R75.

(4) Of four cases of German broad cloth imported by Messrs.———— - & Co., each piece had in large gold letters the words "Extra fine broad cloth No. 60000 :" on the reverse were the words "made in Germany." Besides being on the reverse, the words "made in Germany" were exceedingly indistinct and could be rubbed out with a wet finger. The cloth was confiscated. Redemption was allowed on payment of a penalty of R200, provided either the false English indication of origin was removed, or the name of the country of origin was stamped in the same manner as the other words. On a representation from Messrs.— —— - & Co., I declined to modify my order on the ground that the fact that a stamp "made in Germany" was impressed on the back of the cloth showed that the exporters were aware of the requirements of the Act, but had attempted to evade them by making an impression which could easily be rubbed out.

(5) Messrs.— --imported from Hamburg two cases of euphoniums, value R318. As these musical instruments were of German manufacture and bore the words "Euphoniums, Regulator, Patent" which indicated British manufacture in the absence of any indication of German origin, they were confiscated. An option was given of redeeming them on payment of a fine of R20 conditional upon a statement of origin being properly stamped upon them. Re-shipment was allowed as an alternative to confiscation but was not availed of.

(6) Mr.————imported from Boulogne among other goods thirty dozen pocket books with calendars inside them headed "Calendar for 1891." In the absence of an indication of French manufacture the heading was held an indirect indication of British origin. A fine of R10 was imposed on the importers and the pocket books were declared confiscated, redemption being allowed on payment of a fine of R50, provided the country of origin was stamped on the books. An option of re-shipment was allowed in lieu of confiscation, but it was not availed of.

(7) Mr.———- · imported per S.S. May Field from Antwerp, a consignment of steel bars and bundles of steels tamped with a "goldmohur" brand in English without a definite indication of origin in that language as required by the Act. Mr. Monteath, then Collector, imposed a fine of R100 and confiscated the goods with an option of redemption for R500, provided the country of origin was added after each stamp of "gold mohur" or that stamp was removed. The penalties were instantly paid, but a representation was made to the Collector asking him to reconsider his orders and remit the penalties. The Collector, considering that the action of the manufacturers in this case was not such as entitled them to special consideration, regretted his inability to do so. He subsequently decided that the afore-aid fines should cover a number of consignments of steel bars of "gold mohur" brand already on their way.

(8) A case of woollen shawls was imported by Messrs.—————per S.S. Clyde bearing two labels, on one of which appeared the name of "Mayer Bernhardt & Co., Hamburg," in English with an indication of origin "manufactured in Germany" in the same language. The name of "Mayer Bernhardt & Co.," with the omission of Hamburg, also appeared in Gujrathi and Balbodh characters without any indication of origin in those languages. On the other label were printed in two Indian languages descriptive expressions which in sense were the same as the English "all wool guaranteed." As all these expressions, with the exception of the first one, required a definite indication of origin to accompany them, the importers were fined in the sum of R20 and the goods confiscated, with an option of redemption on payment of R100 in lieu of confiscation, provided the labels were destroyed or on each label there was printed in all the characters used a distinct statement of origin. In this case the goods were passed on the removal of the objectionable labels.

(9) There were some importations of silver and gold lametta per S.S. Singapore from Marseilles. The reels in two cases bore an impression of the initials of E. C. Grammont. The letters E. C. G. were considered contrary to section 18, clause (e) of the Act. The importers were each fined R10, and the goods were confiscated, with an option of redemption on payment of a further penalty of R10. On representation that the stamping would entail excessive delay and trouble, the reels were allowed to be cleared without the name of the country of origin being stamped on them.

(10) Messrs.————imported per S.S. Peninsular from Boulogne two cases containing purses. In one case the purses had the word "Jubilee" printed on them in gold letters in English without any indication of origin in the same language. The other purses bore the Queen's head with the words "Victoria Regina Jubilee" without any indication of the country of origin. Mr. Monteath, then Collector, inflicted a fine of R20 and confiscated the purses with an option of redemption on payment of a further sum of R200, provided the country of origin was stamped on them. Re-shipment was offered as an alternative to confiscation.

(11) A consignment of five cases of steel files was imported by Messrs — - per S.S Singapore from Marseilles. The wrappers of these files had three separate labels attached, one below the other. The first label purported to be a caution to the buyers in French and English against inferior imitations. The second distinctly showed "The Iron Steel and File Works Co., Limited, at Saut-du-Tarn, France" in the French and English languages with the registered trade mark. On the third label appeared in French and English the expression "Société anonyme du Saut du Tarn"—"Refined cast steel flat pointed bastard files" So far as the labels went there was nothing which could be said to be in contravention of the Act. The files themselves bore on one side the registered trade mark and on the other in French "L. Talbot & Cie, Saut-du-Tarn" and just below this on the same level appeared the words "warranted cast steel". As "L. Talbot & Cie, Saut-du-Tarn" was not a definite indication of origin, a substantial fine of R20 was imposed by the Collector and the files were confiscated with an option of redemption on payment of a penalty of R100, provided an indication of origin was clearly stamped on them. As an alternative to confiscation re-shipment to the port of export was allowed. In this case Mr. Monteath noted, "the labels are, of course, unexceptionable, but as stated in other cases the important point where articles are ordinarily sold singly and bear marks is the mark on the articles themselves. Now, if one could read it, the stamp on the file "L. Talbot & Cie, Saut-du-Tarn" is no doubt a fair indication of origin, but I doubt if any body who had not seen the label could read it, and the stamp L. T. & Cie is still more illegible. On the other hand, the words "warranted cast steel" are very fairly legible. I have no hesitation, therefore, in holding that the files themselves contain a false indication of origin.

(12) In a consignment of two cases of cotton thread per S.S Kangra from Antwerp the labels stated that the reels contained 200 yards each. On examination 14 of the 16 reels did not come up to 200 yards. After granting the one per cent allowance provided by Government of India's Notification No. 1118, dated the 13th August 1889, the average deficiency came to 8½ per cent. I imposed a fine of R25 and confiscated the goods with an option of redemption on payment of a further sum of R50, provided the false description was removed or a true description substituted. Subsequently, on representation, re-shipment to the place of export was allowed.

(13) Messrs.— ———— ——— imported a consignment of 13 cases of needles. The numerical quantity shown on the brown paper wrapper of each packet was "M" (mille). Counting showed in four packets deficiencies of 300, 300, 200, and 400 needles. The Collector imposed a penalty of R100 and the needles were passed on removal of the objectionable labels. Another consignment of five cases of needles was imported by————per S.S. Melpomene from Trieste. The labels on the tins containing the needles showed their number to be 10,000. Twenty-nine of these tins were examined and found on an average 400 needles short. The Collector ordered a fine of R5 to be imposed and the tins confiscated with an option of redemption for R500 or export to the place of shipment. Subsequently on payment of the substantive penalty, the needles were re-shipped to Trieste. Another consignment of five cases of needles was imported by the same firm per S.S. Peninsular from London. The bundles of needles, which were of German manufacture, had labels stamped on them, setting forth that they contained 10,000 needles. When opened and counted each bundle was found to contain only 9,500 or 500 short. A fine of R100 was imposed and the goods were confiscated with an option of redemption on payment of R100. The needles were finally allowed to be re-shipped to Hamburg in lieu of confiscation or payment of the redemption penalty.

(14) Messrs. ——— imported per S.S. Imperator from Trieste jewellery packed in fancy cases marked inside "warranted sterling silver." The indication of origin was printed on small paper labels on the outside of the cases. An order was passed confiscating the goods with an option of redemption on payment of R100 provided the country of origin was properly marked. As an alternative to confiscation, re-shipment was allowed.

(15) Messrs. ——— imported per S.S. Malwa from London two cases of Albert chains labelled "warranted best nickel silver." As nickel is not silver, the description seemed calculated to mislead the public. The chains were confiscated and a fine of R20 imposed. On reference the Commissioner held nickel silver was too well known a name to be likely to deceive. The penalties were accordingly remitted.

16. One case containing Albert chains was imported per S.S. Bengal from London by Messrs. ———. Attached to the chains small labels bore the words "aluminium gold." Aluminium is a recognised trade term for a particular metal. The question arose whether knowing that no gold enters into the composition of aluminium the Custom House were justified in allowing the chains to pass. As the question seemed doubtful, the chains were passed without penalty. The importer was warned to advise his consignors in England in future either to omit the word "gold" or to substitute "metal" for "gold."

With reference to the concluding portion of paragraph 1 of my letter No. 7388, dated 27th October 1891, I am directed to forward herewith, for submission to the Government of India, a memorandum from the Commissioner in Sind, No. 5556, dated 17th December 1891, and its accompanying report from the Collector of Customs, Karachi, No. 2060, dated 14th idem, on the working of the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, IV of 1889, during the year 1890-91 in the Province of Sind.

No. 2060, dated 14th December 1891.

From—R. N. COGHLAN, Esq., Collector of Customs, Karachi,
To—The Commissioner in Sind.

With reference to paragraph 1 of Government of Bombay Resolution No. 7387, dated 27th October 1891, received under your endorsement No. 5178, dated 11th ultimo, I have the honour to report as follows:—

During the year 1890-91, 144 cases were disposed of under the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, IV of 1889, viz.:—

44 under clause D,
88 under clause F.

In 16 cases adjudicated under clause D, resulting in confiscation, the owners were ultimately allowed, in lieu of confiscation, to pay a small penalty under section 183 of the Sea Customs Act, the infringement of the law in these cases being omission to stamp the name of the country of manufacture on the articles imported; the remaining 28 cases were instances of first infraction of the Act, and the importers were mulcted in small sums and cautioned, and after compliance with the requirements of the law the goods were passed.

Twelve cases were dealt with, under clause E, resulting in the infliction, in 4 cases, of nominal fines, on payment of which the goods were passed after being duly marked with the name of the country of produce. In the other 8 cases, importers were warned of the provisions of the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, and after due compliance with the requirements of the law the goods were passed

Under clause F, there were 88 cases, 41 of which, being first offences, importers were warned and the goods allowed to pass after the lengths were stamped on the pieces. The other 47 cases were for second breaches of the law by the same importers; they were fined and allowed to remove their goods after stamping them.

For some time after the Indian Merchandise Marks Act came into force infringements of its provisions continued and were chiefly of a simple character, such as omissions of the country (the town only being given) of produce on continental goods bearing English descriptions or English names, also omissions of lengths on pieces of cotton and woollen goods These were due to ignorance or inadvertence on the part of the shippers.

In only two instances the lengths were falsely marked on pieces of cotton goods imported from the United Kingdom.

In conclusion, I would beg to observe that the provisions of the Indian Merchandise Marks Act appear to have been productive of much good in the interests of British trade in checking the fraudulent passing-off of goods produced on the continent as that of British manufacture. The law on the subject also appears to have become known to shippers from foreign ports, and breaches thereof are gradually becoming less.

KARACHI CUSTOM HOUSE;

The 27th May 1891.

R. N. COGHLAN,

Collector of Customs.

No. 5556, dated 17th December 1891.

Endorsed by the Acting Commissioner in Sind.

Forwarded as requested in Government Resolution No. 7387, dated 27th October 1891.

2. The original report was sent before Mr. James took charge.

3. This report does not go into detail (and more has been called for), but the Acting Commissioner has the honour to state that it is within his knowledge that the Collector of Customs, Karachi, has acted with much judgment and firmness in dealing with these cases and has personally taken great pains to prevent any unmerited hardship at the first introduction of the law.

4. The Commissioner does not feel called upon to express an opinion as to the benefit from the Act to British trade. He has been informed by a large wholesale importer that the stamping of goods "made in Germany" has opened the eyes of native merchants to the fact that an immense proportion of the cheap showy shoddy which they are addicted to on account of its cheapness, and which they used to order from London, is really of German manufacture, and they are now going direct to Germany for it. This, at any rate, will cheapen foreign goods still further, deprive the London commission agent of his profit, and make the contrast between genuine and expensive English goods and cheap foreign imitations still more in favour of the latter as regards price at any rate.

ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF IRRIGATION WORKS IN THE MADRAS PRESIDENCY FOR 1890-91.

No. 13-I., Calcutta, the 22nd January 1892.

Read—

Administration Report of Irrigation Works in the Madras Presidency for 1890-91.

OBSERVATIONS.—The number of major works in the Madras Presidency is ten, as stated in the Review of the operations for the previous year. Nine of these are classed as Productive works, and one, the Rushikulya Project, as a Protective work. Of the ten works, all, except the Periyar and Rushikulya, are in operation. The Kistna System is in operation, but the completion estimates for it remain to be worked out. The construction estimates for the Godavari, Penner, Barur, Cauvery and Srivaikuntham Systems have all been closed, further Capital outlay on these being met under the rules contained in paragraph 156, Chapter XV, Volume II of the Public Works Department Code.

In addition to the major works there is a number of minor works for which Capital and Revenue Accounts are also kept, the Capital outlay on which is charged against Revenue. The number of such works dealt with in the Report for the previous year was only seven, but several works have since been added to the list, and they now number twenty. With the exceptions, however, of the Palar System, the Madras water-supply and irrigation project, and the Buckingham Canal, these works are of minor importance.

2. The Capital outlay on each class of works, divided according to financial heads of account, during and up to the end of 1890-91, was as follows:—

| — | Number of works. | During the year 1890-91. | | | | | | | Total direct and indirect to end of 1890-91. |

* Excluding Vederniem Canal, for which complete Capital Account to end of 1890-91 has not yet been prepared.

† Includes the Capital outlay on the thirteen works transferred during the year from the head "Minor Works for which neither Capital nor Revenue Accounts are kept."

3. The principal outlay on major works was incurred on the Kistna, Periyar and Rushikulya Projects, on which it amounted to Rs. 5,13,674, Rs. 10,91,922 and Rs. 4,77,421, respectively. The crest of the weir across the river Kistna was raised, and various works of improvement were in progress. On the Periyar the principal work was in connection with the main dam, the watershed cutting and tunnel, and the distributary works in No. II Division: the difficulties which had been met with in securing the foundations of the dam where it crosses the river were overcome by the close of the year, the deep fissures in the rocky bed having all been filled up. On the Rushikulya progress was made with the Russellkonda reservoir dam and subsidiary works; the anicut on the Mahanadi river was well advanced and that on the Rushikulya river was practically completed.

The principal expenditure on minor works was in connection with the Buckingham Canal, on which it amounted to Rs. 2,17,635.

4. The revenue receipts and working expenses of each work for which Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept are shown in the following table:—

The gross revenue earned by the major works was more than in 1889-90, but the net revenue was slightly less owing to an increase in working expenses. It amounted, however, to 6·96 per cent. on the capital outlay. The receipts on the Karnul Canal have risen from Rs. 78,959 to Rs. 1,19,261, but owing to an increase in working expenses the accounts of this canal still exhibit a deficit.

Owing to the inclusion of so many new works amongst the minor works no comparison with the figures for previous years is possible as regards them, but it is noticed with satisfaction that a loss of Rs. 76,173 in 1889-90 on the Buckingham Canal is reduced in the year under review to Rs. 29,684. The net revenue on the whole of these works is only 2·13 per cent. on the capital, the greater part being due to the Lower Coleroon Anicut. The average return is, however, affected by the inclusion in the capital outlay of the large expenditure on Buckingham Canal, which is a purely navigation project.

The poor return derived from the Madras water-supply and irrigation project may be attributed in part to the small charge made against the Municipality of Madras for the water. The charge is only one rupee for every 1,000 cubic yards of water. The earnings during the year on this account amounted to Rs. 12,391.

5. The heading of column 2 in Statement IC attached to the report does not indicate correctly the manner in which the water-revenue is collected in Madras. The heading is "water-rate directly paid," but the rate is not paid directly, the charge for water being consolidated and collected with the land revenue. The figures for the major works in column 3 of the statement in the preceding paragraph are made up thus:—

|---|---|
| Share of land-revenue due to irrigation . . . . | 74,62,977 |
| Share of enhanced land revenue . . . . . | 5,43,243 |
| TOTAL . | 80,06,220 |

6. Owing to the consolidation of the water-rate with the land-revenue there is no distinction in Madras, as in other Provinces, between the assessments and the collections. The revenue assessed is assumed as fully collected on all works, with the exception of the Karnul Canal. It has also to be noticed that while the working expenses are for the financial year ending March 31st, the receipts are for the revenue (fasli) year ending June 30th.

7. In the following statement the irrigation receipts are compared with the areas charged as irrigated under first and second crops:—

| — | REVENUE DERIVED FROM IRRIGATED LANDS. | | AREA CHARGED AS IRRIGATED. | | RATE PER ACRE. | |

The aggregate area irrigated by the major works continues to develop. The principal decrease was under the Srivaikuntham System, due to the unfavourable character of the season.

8. In the following statement the area charged as irrigated under first and second crop respectively and the revenue derived therefrom are compared. The share of enhanced land-revenue credited to the works is not included in these figures, which exhibit the irrigation revenue proper, corresponding to the water-rate :—

| System. | Area ultimately irrigable. | Area irrigated, 1890-91. | | Revenue derived. | | Rate per acre. | |

| Srivaikuntham | 30,393 | 10,224 | 12,672 | 91,398 | 42,685 | 5·63 | 3·37 |

These figures give the best approximation to the average water-rate per acre that can be deduced from the information furnished in the report. In para. 8 of Resolution No. 41 I., dated 1st March 1890, on the report for 1888-89, some remarks were made on the incidence of the water-rate on the different systems of irrigation, as shown by similar figures for that year. In letter No. 51 Revenue, dated 26th January 1891, the Madras Government replied to these remarks, and furnished information showing that the incidence of water-rate so obtained did not accurately represent the average assessment, as the total area irrigated includes the " zemindari and inam lands which are entitled to receive water free of charge, as also the area on which only dry crop is grown and on which therefore a reduced charge is imposed proportioned to the smaller amount of water required." The correct average incidence of the charge for water is a matter of considerable interest and importance, and the Madras Government is invited to consider whether figures similar to those furnished in the enclosures to the Madras letter quoted above cannot be given in future Administration Reports of Irrigation works without causing undue delay in their preparation.

9. The following statement shows the details of the actual working expenses of each of the major systems, and of the minor systems in the aggregate. The old maintenance charges are included in these figures :—

| System. | 1890-91. | | | | | 1889-90. |

| Per acre irrigated by Major Works | ... | ... | ... | ... | 0·83 | 0·77 |

There was a considerable increase in the charges during the year under review over the figures for the previous year. The principal increase was in the works outlay and on the Godavari System.

10. The charge for establishment in column 3 of the last statement is made up as follows:—

| | | Major Works. | Minor Works and Navigation. | TOTAL. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | R | R | R |
| Revenue Management | Direction and Executive | 4,68,758 | 10,403 | 4,79,161 |
| | Collection charges | 2,51,371 | 31,693 | 2,83,064 |
| | Total | 7,20,129 | 42,096 | 7,62,225 |
| Maintenance of works | | 1,96,706 | 73,492 | 2,70,198 |
| | GRAND TOTAL | 9,16,835 | 1,15,588 | 10,32 423 |

The Collection charges are 5 per cent. on the revenue to cover the cost of collection in the Civil Department.

11. Rice was by far the most important crop grown. The estimated value of all crops irrigated was 647 lakhs, of which the rice crop was valued at 615 lakhs.

12. The navigation receipts included among miscellaneous revenue amounted to Rs. 2,17,591. The following are the figures for the principal canals:—

| CANALS. | Length of navigable channels. | Receipts. | Expenditure. | Value of goods. | Ton-mileage. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 |
| | | R | R | R | |
| Godavari | 496 | 96,600 | 74,524 | 3,00 95,768 | 10,646,966 |
| Kistna | 284 | 32,925 | 61,656 | 2,25,75,650 | 14,338,714 |
| Karnul | 190 | 1,343 | 14,575 | 3,66,708 | ... |
| Buckingham | 262 | 85,511 | 1,17,696 | 1,42,35,863 | 19,180,407 |
| TOTAL | 1,232 | 2,16,379 | 2,68,451 | 6,72,73,989 | 44,166,087 |
| Corresponding figures of previous year | 1,229 | 1,97,468 | 2 95,235 | 6,41,23,337 | 36,036,621 |

The results are better than those for the previous year, but there is still a considerable deficit.

13. Besides the major and minor works dealt with above there are in Madras a large number of irrigation tanks and channels for which neither Capital nor Revenue Accounts are kept. These are classed as (1) works for which a continuous record of expenditure is kept individually; (2) other minor works, Public Works Department, i.e., those of larger size which are maintained by Public Works Officers and (3) minor works, Revenue Department, i.e., those under the charge of Revenue Officers. The following are the figures for each class:—

| CLASS. | Area, 1st and 2nd crop. | Irrigation Revenue. | Rate per acre. | Outlay, direct and indirect, and collection charges | Rate per acre. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 |
| | Acres. | R | R | R | R |
| I . . . | 229,196 | 7,77,010 | ... | ... | ... |
| II . . . | 1,081,254 | 26,33,237 | ... | ... | ... |
| III . . . | 1,435,959 | 29,43,006 | ... | ... | ... |
| TOTAL . | 2,746,409 | 63,53,253 | 2·31 | 16,06,666 | ·58 |
| Figures for 1889-90 . | 3,524,360 | 90,62,740 | 2·57 | 15,98,599 | ·52 |

The area irrigated and the revenue derived from these works were both considerably less than for the previous year. Such works are naturally almost entirely dependent for their efficiency on the favourable character of the season, and the rainfall was much below the average in most districts.

14. The direct outlay on Agricultural works, principally river embankments and conservancy, amounted to Rs. 5,75,546, divided as follows:—

| | R | R |
|---|---|---|
| Original works . . . . . . . . . . . | 2,13,339 | |
| Repairs . . . . . . . . . . . . | 2,54,386 | |
| | | 4,67,725 |
| Establishment . . . . . . . . . . . | | 1,01,356 |
| Tools and Plant . . . . . . . . . . | | 6,465 |
| | | 5,75,546 |

15. The special outlay on the Tank Restoration Scheme which has been referred to in previous Reviews was continued during the year, six investigation parties being at work. The following statement shows the expenditure incurred:—

| | Expenditure during 1890-91. | | | | | Expenditure to end of 1890-91. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Works. | Repairs. | Establishment. | Tools and Plant. | TOTAL. | |
| | R | R | R | R | R | R |

| Investigation . . . . | 21,679 | ... | 60,295 | 528 | 82,502 | 9,72,447 |
| TOTAL . | 1,97,793 | 2,95,641 | 1,68,799 | 7,604 | 6,69,837 | 32,49,112 |

Up to the end of the year tank catchment areas aggregating 22,233 square miles had been completely investigated, and estimates for works to the amount of Rs. 28½ lakhs had been sanctioned, of which 22¾ lakhs had been spent.

16. The following figures give the maximum discharge of the various canals, the average discharge, and the area irrigated under 1st crop per cubic feet per second of average discharge. They are taken from Statements I-A and I-E attached to the report:—

|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Acres. | Cubic feet per second. | Cubic feet per second. | Cubic feet per second. | 1st crop. |

| Srivaikuntham . . | 18,292 | 1,860 | 1,649 | 65 | 281·41 |

The figures in the second column of the table give the areas actually irrigated under 1st crop, as distinguished from the area charged as irrigated given in paragraph 9 of this Review. Figures showing the discharge utilised are not furnished, but the volume escaped on the Cauvery system is probably very large at times owing to the nature of the works.

17. The report was received by the Government of India on 4th December 1891. Like previous reports it is not accompanied by any Resolution of the Madras Government reviewing the operations of the year, such as is submitted by other Local Governments with their Irrigation Revenue reports, and His Excellency the Governor of Madras in Council is invited to consider whether the submission of the Irrigation Administration Report for Madras would not form a convenient opportunity for a general review of the operations of the year, the notice of any occurrences of special or general interest, and the mention of the names of any officers who may have specially distinguished themselves.

A separate communication will be addressed to the Madras Government, regarding some discrepancies noticed in some of the figures included in the statements attached to the report.

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, January 16th, 1892.

Feebly unsettled conditions have prevailed over Northern India during the week, but over the Central parts of the country and the Peninsula the quiet settled weather which has prevailed for several weeks past has continued uninterruptedly.

The chart of the 10th showed that the slight depression which had entered North-West India from the westward had drifted eastward, and lay over the North-West Provinces and Central India, where the barometer was about 0·15" below the normal. The winds over Northern India showed a feeble indraught towards this low pressure area, and slight showers were reported from several stations in the east of the Punjab and of the North-Western Provinces. On the hills the fall was in the form of snow and sleet. By the morning of the 11th the depression had reached Central Bengal. High pressure areas were reported from North-West India and from Assam, while readings were lowest over the Bay and the Malabar Coast. Hence the normal anti-cyclonic distribution was practically re-established and the winds blew from the ordinary directions. Showers were reported from Sibsagar, Gorakhpur, Bareilly, Mussoorie, Simla, and Colombo. On the 12th a fresh depression had advanced from the westward over the western desert. This depression had to a considerable extent broken up the high pressure area over North-Western India. The winds over Central India, Guzerat, and Sind showed an indraught towards the low pressure area, and on the North-Western Himalayas moderate or strong winds from south-east were reported. Elsewhere there was comparatively little change, and the only rainfall reported was a very light shower at Quetta. On the 13th a large but shallow low pressure area was shown over the North-Western Provinces, the north of the Central Provinces, and the west of Bengal, while readings were high over North-West and North-East India. Over Sind and Guzerat the barometer was rising briskly. The winds were little changed. Showers of rain, in no case exceeding $\frac{1}{20}$ of an inch, were reported from Gorakhpur, Lucknow, Roorkee, Ranikhet, and Simla, while Quetta had received a moderate fall of snow. The chart of the 14th showed that the low pressure area over Bengal had concentrated and become deeper, but that no other change of importance had occurred. Showers had fallen at Silchar, Sibsagar, Ludhiana, Simla, Murree, and Srinagar. On the 15th the depression over Bengal had disappeared. A large high pressure area was shown in the north-west, and the ordinary cold-weather anti-cyclonic circulation was established. Showers of rain were reported from Silchar and Sibsagar and of snow from Srinagar and Quetta. On the 16th there was no important change. Showers had occurred at Sibsagar, Murree, and Colombo.

Temperature.—The weather has continued abnormally warm except in Burma. The following table shows the variations of the mean temperature from the normal on each day of the week for the principal provinces of India :—

| MEAN FOR WHOLE INDIA . | +2·8 | +1·6 | +1·9 | +1·9 | +1·8 | +1·1 | +0·1 | +1·6 |

For the whole of India there has been a mean daily excess of $1\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$, and each day of the week has been warmer than usual, the excess ranging from nearly $3^{\circ}$ on the 10th to only $0·1^{\circ}$ on the 16th. The provincial variations show that except in Burma the mean temperature of the week has been above the normal. The warmest provinces relatively to the average have been the North-Western Provinces, the Central Provinces, and Bengal; the coolest have been Bombay and Madras.

Rain.—The concluding table shows that rain has been entirely confined during the week to parts of Northern India, the greater part of the Indian region having continued to experience fine dry weather. The divisions reporting rainfall are the Assam divisions, Oudh (north), the North-Western Provinces (central, west, and sub-montane divisions) and all the Punjab divisions. In no other part of India has there been any rain. The Bhramaputra division of Assam received over ½ inch of rain during the week, the hill districts of the Punjab over ¼ inch, and the Surma division of Assam nearly ⅕ inch, but in all the other divisions reporting rainfall, the average fall for the division for the week was less than $\frac{1}{10}$ of an inch. Assam (Bhramaputra) was the only division exhibiting any excess.

The three last columns exhibit the rainfall for the fortnight, January 3rd to January 16th, and show that, except in the Assam Valley, the rainfall has been everywhere deficient.

No heavy falls of rain are reported, but Dibrugarh received 2½ inches during the week; Sibsagar 0·80″; Rewari (Gurgaon) 0·86″; Jhelum 0·75″; and Mian (Shapur) 1·00″.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 23rd January.—No rain. Agricultural prospects unaltered. Moderate harvest proceeding in Southern districts; in Deccan districts small harvest still affords some employment. Standing crops in south generally fair; elsewhere poor. Deficiency of water and fodder in parts last reported extending. Prices again rather easier except in Nellore, Nilgiris, and Malabar; principal food-grains now at or over scarcity rates only in Nellore, Cuddapah, North Arcot, and Chingleput. Numbers on works:—East Coast: North Arcot closed; South Central—men 1,075, women 2,649, children 734; Deccan, men 5,157, women 7,0[illegible]0, children 2,992, besides 1,858 in Cuddapah for which details unknown: total 21,555 against 19,820 last week. On gratuitous relief: East Coast—men 11, women 21, children 2[illegible]; South Central—men 33, women 92, children 143; and Deccan—men 67, women 133, children 517; total increase over last week 70. Loans disbursed for construction and repair of wells:—East Coast R5,70,081, South Central R2,28,424; and Deccan R87,938. Wells constructed—2,046, 210 and 144; and under construction—3,501, 1,134 and 680 in respective blocks. Loans disbursed under Agriculturists' Loans Act—R32,947, R69,448 and R10,119 respectively.

Bombay.—For week ending 27th January.—Slight rain in parts of Sind, Gujarat and Kathiawar, beneficial to standing crops in Sind. Late crops in Deccan and Karnatic generally fair on river sides and low grounds, but withering in other places. Fodder scarce in parts of Sind and seven districts of Deccan and Karnatic. Water insufficient and cattle being removed to other places in parts of four districts. Prices rising in parts of six districts; stationary in others. Cotton-picking continues in parts of four districts.

Bengal.—For week ending 26th January.—There was a little rain on the 23rd instant in parts of the Patna Division, but not enough to do appreciable good. The winter rice harvest is practically over with fair results generally, except in parts of Behar and Northern Bengal where the crop has failed. All parts of the Province, except Eastern Bengal and Orissa, report that the prospects of the cold-weather crops are not good owing to want of rain, and in certain tracts of Behar, these crops will be very deficient. Mustard and other earlier rabi crops have begun to be gathered. Poppy prospects are favourable, but rain is much wanted for the unirrigated lands. Sugarcane harvest is progressing and yielding a good outturn. The reports regarding tobacco are generally favourable. Transplanting of spring rice is going on. Cultivation for early rice and jute is proceeding in parts of the Rajshahye division. Prices generally are still steady, but have an upward tendency in most of the Behar districts and in parts of Northern Bengal. Fodder and water-supply is generally sufficient, and cattle are in good condition. In the Rajshahye division it is reported that the high prices of food-grains have not as yet caused perceptible distress. There has been no material change as yet in the condition of the crops, but the prospects of the rabi become worse as rain holds off. The Collector of Monghyr has reported that one or two relief works will be necessary in the Bukhtearpur tract about the end of this month, the District Board defraying the cost of the works. In Gya, Mozufferpore and Durbhunga, it is expected that relief works will be required from the end of February or beginning of March, and that advances will also have to be given under the Land Improvements and Agriculturists' Loans Acts. There is, however, no fear so far of any distress that cannot be dealt with locally. No relief measures of any kind will be required in Sarun or Chumparun, nor, probably, in Patna and Shahabad. The Gya report is, on the whole, more re-assuring than was expected, and irrigation has saved the Shahabad district from a heavy failure of crops.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 27th January.—There has been general rain throughout the provinces, but the fall was very light and more is wanted. Prospects continue favourable. Slight hail reported in the Jhansi district, but did no damage. Fodder is said to be getting scarce in a part of the Saharanpur district. Prices are rising in two districts and falling in four others; elsewhere they are steady.

Punjab.—For week ending 27th January.—Rain has fallen in all but two districts. Prices unsettled in two districts, rising in one, and stationary elsewhere. Irrigation of rabi crop in progress. Crops are generally in good condition on irrigated lands, those on barani in most districts suffering for want of rain. Owing to scarcity of fodder cattle are in poor condition in four districts; they are reported in good condition elsewhere. Fodder scarce in six districts; sufficient elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 27th January.—Slight fall of rain in Northern and Nerbudda Valley districts which has done good, but in certain villages of Saugor district crops have been damaged by hail. Threshing of rice, kodo, and juar, and picking of cotton approaching completion. Fodder sufficient. Prices falling in Raipur.

Burma.—For week ending 23rd January.—LOWER BURMA:—Reaping almost completed, and threshing and winnowing progressing. Prospects unchanged. UPPER BURMA:—Mandalay—condition of crop good. Bhamo—reaping completed in Mogoung and Bhamo sub-divisions and in progress in the rest; dry-weather sowing nearly finished. Katha—reaping completed in Kawlin and Katha sub-divisions. Ye-u—dry-weather cultivation progressing; standing crops healthy. Sagaing—crops have been reaped in Sagaing and Myinmu sub-divisions; wheat, gram, and peas are progressing in Sagaing; in Ava sub-division harvesting of paddy, sesamum, and millet nearly over, peas and dry-weather paddy are progressing. Upper Chindwin—wet-weather paddy reaped, a ten-anna outturn estimated; dry-weather sowing progressing. Lower Chindwin—reaping of paddy, jowar, and sesamum in progress, very little crops gathered; in eastern sub-division outturn is much below estimate and crop is bad; in western sub-division standing crop of peas is fair. Myingyan—reaping of late millet over, reaping of paddy, beans, sesamum, and jowar progressing. Pakokku—wet-weather crop all reaped, dry-weather crop being gathered. Minbu—early jowar being reaped; in Sagu reaping of paddy almost completed. Magwe—paddy and millet reaped, reaping of jowar progressing. Kyaukse—wet-weather paddy is being reaped and dry-weather sowing progressing. Yamethin—reaping nearly finished. Meiktila—reaping of paddy and millets progressing, crop of gram is likely to be a very good one. Pyinmana—reaping of paddy nearly finished, threshing progressing. The price of paddy has fallen slightly in Prome, Thayetmyo, Tavoy, and Pakokku, and considerably in Katha; in Akyab, Amherst, and Magwe it has advanced; elsewhere it is stationary. Numbers on relief works:—Ye-u 3,971, Sagaing 4,074; Lower Chindwin 2,186; Myingyan 1,069; Minbu 788; Meiktila 1,929; Yamethin 2,561; Shwebo 1,001; and Magwe 764.

Assam.—For week ending 27th January.—Slight rain in three districts. Weather varying in different districts, being warm in Garo Hills. Prospects of crops generally fair. Cattle good. Water sufficient, but fodder growing scarce.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 27th January.—MYSORE:—No improvement in prospects. Crops withering for want of water. Fodder decreasing. Prices fallen slightly in parts.

COORG:—Reaping of the rice crop over. Picking of coffee nearly completed. No change in prices. Water and forage for cattle sufficient.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 27th January.—BERAR:—Weather cool and cloudy in Berar. Threshing of jowari and picking of cotton in progress. Rabi crops not in good condition in three districts. Fodder in one and water in another taluk insufficient. Prices almost steady.

D

HYDERABAD:—No rain in Hyderabad during the week. Sowing of tabi crops continues, rabi crops are at present in fair condition. Scarcity of water and fodder for cattle is being felt in Amberpett taluk and has also commenced in other taluks. Prices:—wheat 8¾, coarse rice 8, white juar 12½, yellow juar 15¼, and tur 11⅛ seers per current rupee.

Central India.—For week ending 27th January.—Rain throughout the Central India Agency except in the Neemuch district; heaviest falls in Gwalior and Bundelkhand. Prospects generally satisfactory, but prices of food-grains appear to be rising in Goona Agency and are high in Neemuch.

Rajputana.—For week ending 27th January.—Rain fell more or less throughout Rajputana with the exception of three States; one inch 19 cents in Ajmere. Standing crops in good condition. Recent rainfall has improved prospects of crops generally. Cattle poor in five States and at Ajmere and Kherwara; elsewhere satisfactory. Pasturage or fodder scarce in six States and at Ajmere and Kherwara. Priees steady in eight States and at Ajmere and Kherwara, and rising in four. Twenty-two persons emigrated from Marwar and 2,585 employed on relief works, 2,230 gratuitously treated; 185 emigrants and 371 cattle entered Kotah; 9,575 labourers on relief works in Ajmere and 2,021 gratuitously treated; *Merwara returns not received; 1,968 persons on relief works in Jeypore, and 1,143 in Kishengurh, 106 gratuitously treated in Kishengarh; in Bikaneer 2,651 persons employed on relief works, and 973 receiving gratuitous relief.

Nepal.—For week ending 21st January.—Weather cloudy. Prices tending upward.

E. C. BUCK,
Secretary to the Government of India.

* About 8,320 persons employed on relief works in Merwara during week ending 20th January.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

[Revised Advertisement.]

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in seven volumes during the current year, but an eighth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

BILL TO VALIDATE CERTAIN CHRISTIAN MARRIAGES.

The Hon'ble SIR ALEXANDER MILLER moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to validate certain marriages solemnised under Part VI of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, be taken into consideration. He said :—

"It will be remembered that this Bill to validate certain marriages which appear to have been solemnised by mistake was introduced into the Council some months ago. Part VI of the Indian Christian Marriage Act is only intended for the solemnisation of marriages between persons both of whom are Native Christians, but by a mistake apparently arising from ignorance of this provision some of the persons licensed to solemnise such marriages have solemnised them between persons only one of whom was a Native Christian, and the result is that as the law at present stands these marriages are invalid ; but I rather think it has been generally felt that this has arisen out of a mere misconception of the law and that there was no intention on the part of any of the parties concerned to do otherwise than contract valid marriages. It is however desirable, while taking all the care we possibly can to prevent any such irregularity in the future, that these persons—or rather their children—should not suffer by the error, and we therefore propose to validate these marriages in the past so far as may be practicable.

"Originally, in order to give time for this Act to become known, we proposed to validate not only marriages already solemnised up to the passing of the Act, but those which might be solemnised for three months after the passing of it. As, however, the Bill was brought in so long ago, and as every one must by this time know everything about it, this course has been considered unnecessary, and we propose to validate only such marriages as have already been solemnised under Part VI of the Act. Further, we have provided that, in case any of these invalid marriages have already been judicially pronounced void, such marriages should not be validated, as vested rights may have been acquired under the decisions thus given ; this validation will therefore only extend to marriages which, though invalid under the law, have up to the present time been regarded by the contracting parties as valid.

"I may here mention that, amongst the opinions offered with regard to the Bill, we find one from certain clergymen in the North-Western Provinces who consider that a marriage between a person who is a Native Christian and a person who is not a Native Christian is invalid in itself,—on what principle I do not know; but these gentlemen have thought fit to declare that they will disregard the validation which the Bill contemplates, and that if any of the persons whose marriage has been so validated should wish to set aside the marriage, and to contract a marriage which would be valid before the Church, they would consider it their duty to solemnise such second marriage. I can only say that, so far as the business of this Council is concerned, it is no part of our duty to offer advice to these gentlemen, but I think they should know that any such action on their part would probably bring them within the provisions of the criminal law and render them liable to prosecution.

"My hon'ble friend Mr. Chentsal Rao is, I understand, about to give notice of motion for leave to re-commit this Bill to the Select Committee. I will leave him to state his own case, but, so far as I understand his intention, I think that what he desires to do would probably be better done by a separate Act than by any amendment of the present measure."

The Hon'ble P. CHENTSAL RAO said :—

"I think it is desirable that the Bill should be referred back to the Select Committee in view to their considering the expediency of modifying Part VI of the Christian Marriage Act so as to cover mixed marriages.

"I observe that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, the Chief Commissioner of Burma and the Commissioner of Dacca, and some more officers and gentlemen whom we have consulted, have drawn our attention to the point I have raised, i.e., the desirability of extending Part VI so as to cover mixed marriages ; and I also note that the Revd. Mr. Cushing of Burma states that there are large Christian and non-Christian communities in that part of the country among whom inter-marriages are customary. He adds that these communities live far away from places where any Ministers or Marriage Registrars competent to solemnise mixed marriages are to be found, that it would be impossible for the parties to go to the distant city or town where alone the services of a Marriage Registrar or Minister could be obtained, and that they would join illegal union if the law puts legal union beyond their reach. Under such circumstances, it seems to me that we must make some provision to enable men so situated to get their marriages solemnised at the spot and without inconvenience. Sir Alexander Mackenzie thinks that licenses may be granted to selected persons to celebrate mixed marriages, and this suggestion commends itself to me as simple, practical and convenient. As the law now stands, a Marriage Registrar can only be appointed for a whole district and not for a portion with limited powers. Probably it was on this account, and in consideration of the somewhat tedious character of the procedure prescribed for Marriage Registrars, that Part VI has been enacted and power taken to grant licenses to Native Christians to solemnise marriages with simpler procedure suited to the requirements of men with simple habits and poor education. Apart from the public convenience, I do not see any special reason why the power of solemnising mixed marriages should be withheld from the Native Christians any more than from Marriage Registrars, at any rate in cases where both the parties consent and no objections are raised by the guardians.

"My Lord, these are my views, but I am not myself much interested in this question, as hardly any mixed marriages take place in my part of the country, and I am not disposed to press it upon the attention of the Council, if they do not consider it to be of sufficient importance to require consideration. I have ventured to make these remarks because, from the Select Committee's Report, this point does not appear to have been considered, and because for my part I consider that the amendment of Part VI on the lines suggested will much help the cause of morality and promote social homogeneity in villages of mixed communities, which it should be our aim to encourage."

The Motion that the Report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR ALEXANDER MILLER also moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MADRAS SMALL CAUSE COURT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR PHILIP HUTCHINS presented a preliminary Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes of Madras, and moved that the time for the presentation of the final Report of the Select Committee on the Bill be extended to the 4th March, 1892. He said:—

"The Council will remember that I stated at our last meeting that I intended to lay some alternative proposals before the Select Committee. The Committee has recommended that those proposals be formulated in a Bill, and that the Bill be sent down to Madras for consideration before it is discussed by them in detail. This is just what I wished to move myself a fortnight ago, but I was informed by the Secretary that it would not be in accordance with the ordinary course of business to put forward a new Bill without the intervention of a Select Committee. A Bill has now been prepared and accompanies our preliminary Report. If the Council accepts my present motion, the Bill will be sent to Madras, and we shall be able to learn how far it meets with local approval before the Committee proceed to discuss its provisions and settle their final Report."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

RANGOON PORT COMMISSIONERS' ACT, 1879, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BLISS moved that the Bill to amend the Rangoon Port Commissioners Act, 1879, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Sir Alexander Miller, the Hon'ble Sir David Barbour, the Hon'ble Mr. Mackay and the Mover, with instructions to report after three weeks.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 12th February, 1892.

2. As compared with the average of the two correspondiug periods of 1889 and 1890, the number of accidents to trains, rolling stock, permanent-way etc., during the six months ending the 30th June 1891, shows an increase of 398, or 20·73 per cent., with an increase of 1,475·69 miles, or 9·52 per cent. in the mean mileage worked, and of 4,876,890 miles, or 17·53 per cent. in the train-mileage run.

Principal variations as compared with the average of the corresponding periods of 1889 and 1890.

3. The principal variations occurred under "Collisions between passenger trains, and goods or mineral trains, engines and vehicles standing foul of the line," 35 against 21; "Collisions between goods trains or parts of goods trains," 66 against 43; "Passenger trains or parts of passenger trains leaving the rails," 43 against 27; "Goods trains and parts of goods trains, engines, etc., leaving the rails," 140 against 167; "Trains running over cattle on the line," 1,065 against 843; "The bursting of tubes, etc., of engines," 82 against 51; "The failure of machinery, springs, etc., of engines," 204 against 146; "The failure of axles," 37 against 52; and "Slips in cuttings or embankments," 23 against 9.

4. "Collisions between passenger trains and goods or mineral trains, engines and vehicles standing foul of the line" showed an increase of 14 accidents, of which 5 each occurred on the East Indian and the Tirhoot and Bengal and North Western railways.

5. The increase under "Collisions between goods trains or parts of goods trains" occurred chiefly on the Rajputana-Malwa State railway, 11 against 4; on the Southern Mahratta railway, 5 against 1; on the North Western railway, 15 against 9; and on the Great Indian Peninsula railway, 8 against 3.

6. Under "Passenger trains or parts of passenger trains leaving the rails," the increase was principally due to the number af accidents having risen from 4 to 13 on the North Western railway.

7. Under "Goods trains or parts of goods trains, engines, etc., leaving the rails," the number of accidents decreased from 13 to 7 on the East Indian railway, from 10 to nil on the Jorhát State railway, from 6 to 2 on the Bombay, Baroda and Central India railway, from 21 to 12 on the Madras railway, and from 12 to 5 on the Dibru-Sadiya railway, but increased from 7 to 16 on the Tirhoot and Bengal and North Western railways, from 17 to 23 on the North Western railway, and from 5 to 12 on the Burma State railway.

8. The number of cattle accidents was largest on the Southern Mahratta railway, viz., 244; next to it comes the South Indian railway with 144; then the Rajputana-Malwa State railway with 94, the Eastern Bengal State railway with 92 and the North Western railway with 84. As compared with the average of the corresponding periods of the two previous years, there was an increase of 79 accidents on the Southern Mahratta railway, 80 on the South Indian railway, 27 on the North Western railway and 22 on the Madras railway.

9. Of the increase of 31 accidents under "The bursting of tubes, etc., of engines," 19 took place on the South Indian railway, 5 on the Rajputana-Malwa State railway and 4 on the Eastern Bengal State railway.

10. The number of accidents from "The failure of machinery, springs, etc., of engines" rose from 146 to 204. This was principally due to an increase of 8 each on the Bengal-Nagpur, Southern Mahratta and Burma State railways, of 7 on the South Indian railway, and of 5 each on the North Western, Tirhoot and Bengal and North Western, Eastern Bengal State and the Nizam's Guaranteed State railways.

11. The decrease in the number of "Failure of axles" was almost entirely due to the number recorded on the Rajputana-Malwa State railway having fallen from 41 to 11. On the Thatôn-Duyinzáik railway, the number increased from nil to 5, and on the Great Indian Peninsula railway from 3 to 6.

12. Of the 23 cases of "Slips in cuttings or embankments," 15 against 1 occurred on the North Western railway alone.

13. The accidents under "Collisions between light engines" numbered 14, of which 6, or about 43 per cent., took place on the East Indian railway.

14. Of the 49 cases of "Fire at stations, or involving injury to bridges or viaducts," 24 or about 49 per cent. were recorded on the Eastern Bengal State railway.

Casualties to passengers, servants and others, not included in para. 1.

15. The casualties to passengers and servants in the employ of railways or of contractors, from accidents not coming under the classification adopted in paragraph 1, were, in the case of passengers, 38 killed and 118 injured against 21 killed and 77 injured, and, in the case of servants, 82 killed and 244 injured against 74 killed and 271 injured. (For details, vide Abstract No. 2.)

Total casualties from all causes.

16. The total casualties to persons from all causes, including trespassers, cases of suicide, etc., were 308 killed and 488 injured against 248 killed and 469 injured. (For details, vide Abstract No. 2.)

Casualties in yards, workshops, etc.

Report by the Consulting Engineer for Railways, Bombay, on the accident which occurred on the 6th April 1891 to Nos. 114 and 12 Up Goods Trains at Kurla Station on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway.

Description.

1. In this case the No. 12 up north-east goods train, consisting of engine, 34 loaded wagons, 1 empty wagon and 2 brakes, arrived at Kurla Station at 3-6 on the morning of the date mentioned and stopped at 3-27, or thereabouts, at the sheep siding at the Sion side of the station (i.e, the end nearest Bombay) to detach 3 wagons of sheep. No 114 up south-east goods train, consisting of engine, 35 loaded wagons and 2 brakes, arrived and was pulled up at the distant signal at the north end of the station which was at danger, ultimately being drawn up inside for protection. Shortly afterwards the Station Master, believing No. 12 goods to have completed its shunting and had left for Sion, lowered the station signal for No. 114 goods train. This train then drew in, and, while still within station limits, ran into the tail end of No. 12 goods, killing Michael Brennan, the head guard, who was riding in the rear brake of No. 12 goods and slightly injuring the head guard and brakesman and a native fireman of No. 114 goods.

2. The rear brake of No. 12 goods train was completely smashed, the engine of No. 114 derailed and damaged, many vehicles of both trains being also more or less damaged. The permanent way for a short distance was torn up and both up and down lines were blocked.

The through and local passenger train service was temporarily disorganized, and goods trains had to be stopped altogether for a time.

Evidence.

SAMSON SUTKER, a native Jew, states:—I have been in the service as brakesman two years. I was brakesman of the No. 12 up goods train of the 5th April 1891 and rode in the centre brake. Michael Brennan was the head guard and he rode in the rear brake. The train arrived at Kurla at about 3 o'clock morning of the 6th instant. The signals were against us, the distant signal was lowered just before the train came to a stand. The train proceeded and came to a stand at the station. The muccadum came to my brake, and I said there are three wagons to be detached. He jumped on to the foot-board of my brake and signalled the driver to go ahead to the sheep siding. I did not see the head guard. The train stopped before reaching the sheep siding. The trucks to be detached were the 3rd, 4th and 5th from the engine. I superintended the shunting. The head guard did not come up. He told me before leaving Kalyán to tell the muccadum on arrival at Kurla that three wagons were to be detached. After detaching the wagons in the sheep siding the engine and two wagons were attached to the train, and I walked back to my brake; I was about to get in, having one foot on the foot-board and my hand on the hand rail when the collision occurred. My train had not moved when the collision took place. I fell down and crawled under the wagons in the siding. After everything was quiet I got out and asked the muccadum, who stood near the engine of my train, what was up? After the collision a danger whistle was sounded from the rear. I then came to know that there had been a collision. I walked to the rear brake to see my head guard and found the brake smashed. The driver of my train came after me; we removed some boards and found the body of the guard who had been killed by the accident. We tried to remove the body, but could not owing to its being jammed in the debris. The guard of the rear train then came up and seeing what had occurred went back to the station and telegraphed. The down line being blocked, I went forward with a red signal to stop any down-trains. After leaving Kalyán we stopped at Mumbra, Thána, Bhándúp and Ghát Kopar. I exchanged signal with the guard at all stations including Ghát Kopar. I did not see or speak to the guard after leaving Kalyán. We stopped at Mumbra about 10 minutes, and 5 minutes at the other stations. The north-east tranship train was in front and stopped us at Ghát Kopar for line clear. I trimmed the brake van lamps at Kalyán, I saw the side lamps on the up line side at Kurla, it was not then burning so well as when I trimmed it at Kalyán, but I could see it distinctly. I saw it when coming into the station and after arrival at the sheep siding. I did not see the lamp on the down side. I was looking out on the up side only. I did not hear any whistle from the engine of my train as I was getting into my brake. I did not hear the bell. The custom is for the head guard to go to the station, take signatures for the wagons detached, and when he is informed by the Station Master by giving two beats on the bell, that the line is clear, returns to his brake and gives the driver a signal to start. I did not see the head guard go to the station. The train had not started when I was getting into the brake. I saw the night Station Master standing on the platform when my train entered Kurla Station. I had no conversation with him.

LIMJEE EDULJEE states:—I was driver of No. 12 up north-east goods train of the 5th April 1891. Brennan was the head guard and rode in the rear brake. A brakesman, whose name I do not know, rode in the centre brake. I saw guard Brennan on starting from Kására. He gave me signals at every station as far as Ghát Kopar, but I had no conversation with him after leaving Kására At that station he told me there was shunting to do at Kurla and Parel. I had a full load equal to 45 vehicles including two brakes, but cannot say the exact number. We stopped at Mumbra, Thána, Bhándúp and Ghát Kopar, about 5 minutes at each station, owing to No. 32 up tranship train being ahead and line clear not having been obtained to the next station On arrival at Kurla both signals were at danger, but before I had stopped dead at the distant signal both signals were lowered. I did not look back to see if the distant signal was raised to danger after I had passed it. Having wagons to detach at Kurla sheep siding I passed the station very slowly and picked up the porters. The night Station Master Gonsalves was standing on the down platform near the office. I told him I had shunting to do and he told the muccadum to get into the centre brake.

We pulled up short of the sheep siding, the muccadum unlocked the wagons and signalled me to go ahead. When the shunting was finished I attached to my train and got an all-right signal from the muccadum who was standing near my engine. The second guard also gave me a signal from the centre brake. Owing to the curve I could not see the head guard's signal unless I went a short distance ahead. There were wagons standing in the sheep siding, most of them were covered. The siding was full of wagons. When I received the signals from the muccadum and second guard, I whistled and was about to start. When I felt a bump from the rear which pushed my engine forward about 3 wagons length, I got off my engine and walked to the rear to see what had happened, and observed that another goods train had collided with mine. The rear brake of my train was smashed, the engine of the other train had gone right through it and turned it over.

I called out for the head guard but could not see him, and walked to the station and asked the night Station Master why he had let the other train go on when I was not clear. He said he thought my train had cleared Sion.

The brakesman of my train accompanied me from his brake to the station. We walked back with the driver and guard of No 114 up and found the head guard of my train had been killed and his body lying under the brake van wheel We covered it up with a tarpaulin. The brake van lamps of my train were smashed with the force of the collision. Between Bhándúp and Ghát Kopar I saw the side lamp on the down side; it was burning, but not very well. I did not look for the other lamp. I would have started from Kurla on the muccadum's and second guard's signals, but should have pulled up if I had not seen the head guard's when clear of the wagons on the siding. The shunting occupied from 10 to 15 minutes. I did not look to see how the station signals were after the collision. When wagons have to be attached at Kurla, both the distant and station signals are kept at danger. On this occasion the station staff did not know there was any shunting to do until my train arrived at the station and I told them.

NOWROJEE PULLONJEE, No. 1, states:—I was driver of No. 114 up south-east goods train of the 5th April 1891. My engine was No. 459 $\frac{K}{D}$, and we had on a full load of 45 vehicles including two brakes.

I arrived at Kurla at 3-25 o'clock; both distant and station signals were at danger. I stopped dead at the distant signal and then drew inside for protection coming to a dead stand again when about half-way between the distant and station signals. I stood 10 minutes, the station signal was then lowered, and some one waved a white light from the down platform. I proceeded and did not stop at the station I saw a porter on the platform near the station signal with a lamp in his hand. I also saw some one working in the office. I do not know who it was. I did not see the night Station Master on the platform. After passing the level-crossing I shut off steam, because there is an incline in the direction of Sion, and I wished to have my train under control in case the signals should be against me. I had been detained at Bhándúp and very nearly at Ghát Kopar, where the signals were only lowered as I was approaching them. After I had shut off steam I noticed a dim red light in front on the right-hand side. I told my augwallah to put the brake on, and at the same time reversed my lever and opened the vacuum. Almost at the same time I collided with a train in front. I was not thrown down. I immediately opened my danger whistle. I got off my engine and walked to the station, when half-way I met the night Station Master and both guards of my train. I asked the Station Master why he had given line clear, and he said nothing. I only had one man on my engine at time of collision. I had two augwallahs on leaving Bombay, but one failed to turn up at Karjat on the return journey.

E ISAAC states:— I was guard in charge of No. 114 up south east goods train of the 5th April 1891. I rode in the rear brake. The train consisted of 37 vehicles including two brakes I looked at my watch on arrival at the Kurla distant signal, and the time was 3-20. The distant and station signals were at danger, and my train came to a dead stand at the former. It stood outside the distant signal 5 minutes. The train did not move after coming to a stand until the signals were lowered. My brake had not cleared the platform when I felt a shock. The train at once came to a complete stand. There was no movement backward. After the shock I heard the danger whistle, I did not previously hear a shrill whistle.

The bump forced me against the wheel of my brake and hurt my chest. I left my brake on the down side and shouted to the Assistant Station Master, who was in the office, to know the cause of the sudden stoppage, and he said he did not know. I walked to the front of my train and met my second guard, who told me his brake was derailed and damaged. I then walked towards the engine and heard the driver shouting my name. I met him and he told me he had pitched into another train. I asked if any one was killed or hurt, and he said he did not know. I found that the rear brake of No. 12 up was smashed to pieces and guard Brennan dead and covered with small pieces of wood. We tried to get the body out, but could not. I looked at my watch directly after the collision, and it was 3-27 or 3-28. The train was in a good swing when the collision occurred. I do not know why the driver did not draw inside the distant signal. At Bhándúp the distant and station signals were at danger and the train was taken inside the distant signal. I am quite sure it did not draw inside the distant signal at Kurla.

Moses Jacob states:—I am a brakesman and was working with No. 114 up south-east line train of the 5th April 1891.

I was riding in the centre brake. The distant and station signals at Kurla were at danger. The train stopped outside the distant signal and waited five or six minutes. The signals were then lowered, and the train whistled and went on. I did not stop at the station after passing the level crossing, the wagons from the front appeared to come on my brake and the train suddenly came to a stand. I tried to get out of the door, but could not open it, so got out of the window.

I was hurt on my chest and back.

Peter Roman Gonsalves states:—I am Assistant Station Master at Kurla, and have held that position for three years. I was on duty when No. 12 up north-east goods arrived at 3-6 on the morning of 6th April 1891. I entered the same in the train signal book. I cleared the line back to Ghât Kopar at 3-6. I gave warning signal to Sion at 3-0, which was the time I got departure signal from Ghât Kopar. No. 32 up tranship train cleared Sion at 3-4. I kept the signals up till I got line clear of No. 32 up from Sion at 3-4, when I lowered them. I cannot tell whether No. 12 up arrived before the signals were lowered. The train passed slowly through the station at 3-6. The driver wished me "good morning" and said he had shunting, making a sign with three fingers that three wagons were to be detached.

I told the muccadum and porter to detach three wagons, and let the train go as I had got line clear from Sion for it.

I was on the down platform when the train passed; I did not see the head guard or any one else in the rear brake. I did not pay particular attention to the brake van lamps; I did not see them. The train went on to the sheep siding. Before it had passed the platform, I went to the office to make up the station cash. In about 10 minutes I heard an engine whistle; I stepped out of the office to see if the train had left for Sion. I could see no brake van lights, which caused me to think that the train had left for Sion; and I gave the departure signal to Sion at 3-18, and Sion acknowledged it at the same time. My signalman, who was outside the office, told me shortly after that there was another up-train at the distant signal, and asked me if the signal was to be given. I said—"No", "let it wait a minute, as the line clear from Sion had not been received." I went on to the platform to see where the train was and noticed it was half-way between the up distant and station signals. It appeared to be standing. I waited the usual time for "line clear" from Sion, and not receiving it, gave "attention" signal. No reply being received, I repeated it. At 3-25 Sion gave "all clear" signal; I acknowledged it by one beat, which lowered the semaphore arm of my instrument. I was alone in the office at the time. I ordered my signalman to lower the station signal for No. 114 up. I was standing on the platform when the train commenced to pass. I saw the driver on the engine, and went in the office to give departure signal to Sion. I did so at 3-29, and Sion acknowledged it at the same time. When the rear brake had arrived opposite the office, I heard a noise; I called out to my signalman to come with a light to see what was the matter. At the same time I heard a danger whistle; I ran as far as the level-crossing, and the gateman informed me that some vehicles were off the line. I walked forward and found that the engine of 114 up had come into collision with 12 up.

According to custom the guards should take signatures of the Station Master or other authorized party on their wagon way bills for wagons detached. The guard of No. 12 up did not come to me and I did not sign his way bill. It is not the custom to carry out Rule 25 of the Working Time Book when trains start from the sheep siding. If the line is clear to Sion the muccadum is instructed to start the train.

If the line is not clear, he is instructed to stop the train until he gets orders.

The muccadum uses a white or red signal, as the case may be. The bell is not rung, because it is too far off to be of any use. I do not wait for the return of the muccadum before giving departure signal when I hear the whistle.

When shunting, drivers give short sharp whistles, but when starting longer, whistles, which enables me to distinguish the shunting from the starting whistle. I was in the office when I heard the whistle which I took for the starting whistle. The signalman was standing at the door.

When No. 114 up was standing at my distant signal I thought No. 12 up must have arrived at Sion, and that the signaller there had omitted to clear line back. I gave attention signal—7 beats at about 3-24, not receiving a reply, I waited two seconds and repeated the 7 beats. Sion acknowledged by giving 5 beats, which is the "all clear" signal. I acknowledge by giving one beat; the semaphore arm of my block instrument then fell down; and I gave orders to my signalman, who was standing at the office door, to let the No. 114 up go on. After getting line clear from Sion, and about two minutes before giving departure signal for No. 114 up, I went on to the platform to see if the No. 12 up train had left. (Witness corrects this statement and says he went on to the platform to see No. 114 up arrive and if he had any shunting to do.)

Question.—When attention signal 7 beats is given, what is the acknowledgment?

Answer.—If the line is not clear, the obstruction danger signal 2, 1, 2, 1 should be given, but if the line is clear, the all clear signal, 5 beats, should be given.

After I gave "attention signal" to Sion at 3-24, that station acknowledged it by one beat, and then gave all clear signal, 5 beats.

I only heard No. 12 up give one whistle. I was in the office at the time.

WASSUDEO MORESHWAR states:—I am Assistant Station Master at Sion and have held that post four years. I received warning signal from Kurla for an up goods train on the 6th April 1891 at 2-23 and departure signal at 2-56. I acknowledged them at the same time. The train passed my station and I gave all clear to Kurla. At 3-2 I received warning signal from Kurla for another goods train at 3-4 and departure signal at 3-20. I acknowledged the latter signal at 3-20. I gave warning signal to Matoonga at 3-20. This train did not arrive at my station; I therefore did not clear the line back to Kurla. At 3-28 or 3-30, I received attention beats from Kurla and thought Kurla wanted to speak to me through the speaking instrument. I called back to him by Morse instrument, but he did not answer me; I then went on to the platform to see if the up train was coming; I could not see it, but heard a noise from the direction of Kurla. I went back to the office and Kurla gave me obstruction signal at 3-34. I made a remark accordingly in the train signal book.

I had no further communication with Kurla.

Re-examined—

When Kurla gave attention signal I thought he wanted to speak with me, so I called to him by the Morse instrument, but he did not reply. I did not give obstruction signal to Kurla as the line was already obstructed. If the attention signal had been sent twice, I should have given obstruction signal. I went on the platform to see if the train was coming, and directly after heard a noise.

I did not receive warning signal from Kurla at 3-20.

DAJEE HIRROO states:—I am a muccadum. I have been stationed at Kurla 11 years, 5 as pointsman and 6 as muccadum. On arrival of an up goods train at about 2-45 o'clock, 6th April 1891, the night Station Master told me to detach three wagons in the sheep siding and, when shunting was finished, to send the train on as the line was clear. I did not see the head guard. The second guard came to me near the engine after the train had come to a stand at the sheep siding and pointed out the three wagons that were to be detached. I unhooked them from the train and backed them into sheep siding. The engine had to push back other wagons in the siding in order to get them to the sheep platform. The guard went back to his brake and I did the shunting.

The engine and two wagons had just been attached to the train when the accident took place. The force of the collision sent the train forward about 15 rail lengths. After finishing the shunting and when the engine was coming out of the sheep siding to back on to the train I asked the driver to whistle to warn the pointsman, and he did so. He only gave one short whistle, and this was about 5 minutes before the accident took place. I ride from the station to the sheep siding on the engine when shunting has to be done at the sheep siding. I signal the train on when the line is clear. If the line is not clear, I show a red light to the driver. I have no order to report departure of the trains to the Station Master, the Station Master tells me whether the line is clear or not. If the line is not clear, the train waits until a white signal is shewn from the station. When a train starts the driver gives a long whistle.

Ganoo Govind, gateman at the level-crossings at Kurla, remembers the accident, but cannot tell whether any lights were on the rear brake of No. 12 up.

AHNARAM BHICAJEE states:—I am signalman at Kurla. I remember an up goods train arriving early morning of 6th April 1891, and muccadum going with it to the sheep siding. I stood on the down platform against the coaching office door. I noticed two lights only on the rear of the goods train, one on the left side and one in the middle. They were burning dim. I did not see any light on the right-hand side. About 15 minutes after the train had passed I told the night Station Master, who was standing outside the coaching office door, that another train was standing at the distant signal, and he said, let it stand. The whole of the train was inside the distant signal. I could tell this by the engine head lights The night Station Master told me about 15 minutes afterwards to lower the signals. He was sitting in the office, counting the cash, and I was standing in the door-way. I did not hear any whistling before this. I went to the station signal and lowered it. I was standing near it when the train passed and then walked back to the office. The Station Master did not come out of the office to see the train pass. The collision took place immediately after I returned to the office from the signal. The night Station Master was then in the office. I did not notice him leave the office between departure of the first goods train and the time of the collision.

BHICCOO MAHADEO states:—I am augwallah on engine working No. 114 up goods train at Kurla on the 6th instant. I was told by the driver to put on the brake, and while doing so was thrown against the awning stanchions and hurt my right leg. I was looking after my firing and did not notice the lights on the train we collided with.

HOOSEIN MAHOMED KHAN, angwallah, states:—I was on driver Limjee's engine at Kurla when the collision took place, morning of the 6th instant. I cannot say whether a whistle was given during the time shunting was going on. When the engine and wagons were uncoupled from the train before going into the siding, the engine whistled, and again when the shunting was finished and the train ready to start. The muccadum gave a signal (white light) by his hand lamp about two wagon lengths from the engine on the sheep siding side, and the driver was about to open his regulator to start when the collision occurred.

Conclusion.

5. The above evidence shews that No. 12 up goods train was admitted into Kurla Station, the line blocked to Sion, and the train sent forward in charge of the muccadum for the purpose of taking off three wagons at the sheep siding. The shunting operations appear to have been completed and the engine had just been re-attached to the train when the collision took place.

The No. 114 up goods train arrived at the Kurla distant signal which was at danger, and was drawn inside until the engine stood midway between the up distant and station signals. After standing 4 or 5 minutes the up signal was lowered and the train proceeded. On reaching the Sion side of the Kurla level-crossing, the driver saw a dim red light in front and seems to have promptly attempted to stop his train, the collision, however, was inevitable, and the engine dashed into the brake of No. 12 up goods train and turned it over. The body of head guard Brennan, who was riding in the brake van, was found under the front buffer beam of the engine, among the brake van debris and must have been killed instantaneously.

6. The train staff of No. 114 up goods train are entirely free from blame, the signals being correctly given for the train.

7. The line after leaving the Sion end of the platform is on a curve of 160 chains radius and the gradients are falling 1 in 300 through the station to the Sion end of the platform and 1 in 710 forward. The abutments of the overbridge and the wagons in the sheep siding, running parallel with the up main line to some extent, obstructed the view, so had the tail lights of No. 12 goods been burning properly, the Assistant Station Master standing on his platform might not have been able to see them.

8. It is clear from the evidence that the brake van lamps of No. 12 goods train were either out or burning so feebly as to be hardly visible. With regard to these lamps and the position of the station, the General Traffic Manager has noted as follows:—"If the station had been in a straight road, the Assistant Station Master on duty would certainly not have acted upon the whistle which, he says, he took as indicating the departure of the 12 up goods train from Kurla, as he could have seen the train and the lamps of the No. 12 burning feebly no doubt, but still burning, would have been before his eyes all the time; moreover, the driver of No. 114 up could also have seen the No. 12 train and its feeble lamps much sooner had there been no curve.

9. That the position and arrangements of Kurla Station are unsatisfactory. I fully agree with Mr. Conder [the question of relocating and remodelling this station has just been considered and will shortly be before Government], but I cannot wholly concur that in this particular instance the fact of the curve being in the station had much effect on the accident, for the curve is very flat and the collision actually occurred, but a short distance from the tangent, so the rear brake was practically on the straight, and the lights cannot have been obscured by the curve.

10. There is no evidence to show that the head guard of No. 12 up goods train got out of his brake, which he should have done in the ordinary course of his duty, in fact he was probably asleep at the time.

11. The responsibility for allowing No. 114 up goods train to leave Kurla before the section to Sion was clear, rests between the Station Masters on duty at Kurla and Sion. The evidence of the former is contradictory and unreliable, and there seems little doubt that he gave the signal for No. 114 up goods train to start in the absence of any line clear from Sion.

Finding.

12. The finding of the joint enquiry into the cause of the accident was—"From a careful consideration of the evidence, we are of opinion that the line was not cleared back from Sion to Kurla for No. 12 up goods train, and that the responsibility for the accident rests with P. R Gonsalves, the Kurla Assistant Station Master."

In this I fully concur. He has since been convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of Rs. 200, or, in default, to undergo three months' imprisonment.

13. Mr. Fowler, Officiating Deputy Consulting Engineer, was present at the joint enquiry and has submitted a separate report, however, as in all main points it endorses the conclusions and finding of the Committee herein embodied, I have not thought it necessary to submit it.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, January 23rd, 1892.

During the week under review a disturbance of greater intensity than any recently experienced has affected the weather over Northern India. The first sign of its appearance was given by a brisk fall of the barometer over the Indus Valley and Baluchistan on the morning of the 20th. On the 21st this fall continued and extended to all parts of North-Western and Central India and the head of the Peninsula, and at 8 a.m. a shallow but well defined depression was shown over Guzerat, the lowest pressure reported being 29·934″ at Deesa. The winds at the stations in the immediate neighbourhood of the depression exhibited a cyclonic circulation around the storm, and the winds over a large part of India were more or less influenced by its presence. The only rainfall reported on the morning of the 21st was ¼ inch at Karachi. The chart of the 22nd showed that the disturbance had advanced eastward and that the centre lay near Khandwa. The winds over a large part of the country were affected by the disturbance and exhibited an irregular indraught towards it. The rainfall area had very largely increased. One inch of rain was reported from Ajmere and Jeypore between ½ inch and 1 inch from Sirsa, Deesa, Indore, Mount Abu, and Sambhar, and showers of less than ½ inch from Agra, Jhansi, Meerut, Delhi, Ludhiana, Lahore, Sialkote, Multan, Murree, Srinagar, Neemuch, Karachi, Hyderabad, Jacobabad, and Colombo. On the morning of the 23rd the centre of the depression was apparently near Amraoti, and a rapid rise of the barometer had occurred over Rajputana and Central India. The disturbance was slighter than on the two preceding days, and its influence on the winds was proportionally less. The rainfall was slighter than on the preceding day, but the area which received rain was nearly as large, extending from Khandwa and Seoni in the south to Mussoorie and Ranikhet in the north and from Benares in the east to Ajmere, Sirsa and Ludhiana in the west. The heaviest fall was 1½ inches at Jeypore. Previous to the appearance of this disturbance the distribution of pressure and the circulation of the winds were of the ordinary anti-cyclonic type calling for no remark.

Temperature.—The variations of the mean temperature from the normal average have been irregular, and particularly in the more central parts of the country have been large. The following table shows the variations of the mean temperature from the normal on each day of the week for the principal provinces of India :—

| PROVINCE. | 17th. | 18th. | 19th. | 20th. | 21st. | 22nd. | 23rd. | Mean variation of week. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Burma . . . . | —·9 | —2·1 | —2·6 | —2·7 | —2·8 | —1·1 | —0·8 | —2·0 |
| Bengal and Assam . . | —1·2 | —1·0 | +0·7 | —0·2 | —0·7 | +0·6 | +2·4 | +0·1 |

| Punjab . . . . | +0·5 | —0·9 | —1·0 | —0·7 | —0·2 | —0·1 | +0·2 | —0·3 |
| Bombay . . . . | —0·2 | —0·1 | +1·8 | +2·8 | +3·0 | +3·6 | —0·8 | +1·4 |
| Berar and Central Provinces . | +2·1 | +4·5 | +3·9 | +4·5 | +3·9 | +6·9 | +2·1 | +4·0 |
| Guzerat and Central India . | —1·4 | —0·7 | —0·7 | +3·3 | +7·2 | +6·9 | —4·0 | +1·5 |
| Sind and Rajputana . . | +0·2 | —1·5 | —3·2 | —1·1 | +2·2 | +0·8 | —3·8 | —0·9 |
| Madras . . . . | +1·8 | +1·7 | +1·0 | +0·8 | +1·1 | +1·6 | +0·5 | +1·2 |
| MEAN FOR WHOLE INDIA . | —0·1 | +0·1 | 0 | +0·7 | +1·5 | +2·5 | —0·5 | +0·6 |

In Madras and the Central Provinces the mean temperature was steadily above and in Burma steadily below throughout the week, but in all the other provinces the variations changed from day to day. There was a very noticeable excess of temperature over the Central Provinces, Central India, and Guzerat immediately preceding the appearance of the depression. This was followed by a brisk fall as the depression moved away, and north-east winds and the effect of the rain were experienced, thus in Guzerat and Central India there was a mean fall of 11° between the 22nd and 23rd. The final columns of the above table show that on the mean of the week there was an average daily excess of ½° for the whole of India, that in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, Bombay, the Central Provinces, Central India, and Madras the mean temperature of the whole week was higher than usual, and that in Burma, the Punjab, Sind, and Rajputana it was lower. Except in Burma and the Central Provinces the variations were small.

Rain.—As mentioned above the week under review has been marked by the passage across the central parts of the country of a disturbance which has occasioned heavier and more extensive rain than has been received for many weeks past. The table at the close shows that rain has been received in twenty-two out of the fifty-one divisions into which the Indian region is divided. The regions over which no rain fell include all the Burma divisions, both the Assam divisions, the Bengal divisions, except Behar (north and south), all the Peninsula divisions and Khandeish, Berar, Kathiawar, and the east of the Central Provinces. The regions which received rain included the Behar (north and south) divisions, all the divisions in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, the Central Provinces, west, and central divisions, and the divisions in Guzerat, Sind, Central India, and Rajputana. Of the twenty-two divisions which report rain, seven had less than $\frac{1}{10}$ of an inch of rain as the average fall for the week; twelve had between $\frac{1}{10}$ of an inch and ½ inch as the average fall, and three had more than ½ an inch, the heaviest average fall for any division reported being 0·94 inch in Rajputana (east), and Central India (west). Of these twenty-two divisions eleven had more and eleven less than the normal fall of the week. In Rajputana (east) and Central India (west) the rainfall was sixteen times the normal amount, while, on the contrary, the rainfall on the North-Western Himalayas was only ⅛ of the usual fall during the present week.

The following are the more important totals which were received during the week:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Behar | Shahabad | Bhabuah | 0·85 |
| North-Western Provinces. | Benares | Sudder | 0·65 |
| „ | Orai | Jalaun | 3·21 |
| „ | Bulandshahr | Khurja | 1·60 |
| Punjab | Hissar | Fatehabad | 0·93 |
| „ | Gurgaon | Sohna | 2·00 |
| „ | Ludhiana | Nakodar | 0·90 |
| „ | Kangra | Dera | 1·57 |
| Central Provinces | Damoh | Hutta | 1·65 |
| Central India | Gwalior | ? | 1·46 |
| Rajputana | Ajmere | Ladgorh | 2·27 |
| „ | Jeypur | Sudder | 2·45 |

The final column of the concluding table shows the condition of the seasonal rainfall from January 3rd to date. In the west and centre of the North-Western Provinces, the south and centre of the Punjab, in Central India, and in Rajputana the average rainfall for that period has been in excess of the normal, but in all other divisions it has been in defect. Over a large portion of North-East India and of the Peninsula there has been no rain whatever.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 30th January.—No rain except light showers along southern coast. Agricultural prospects unaltered. Standing crops in southern districts not flourishing; in affected area scarcity of fodder and water increasing and cattle suffering. Prices nearly stationary and slightly easier except in Bellary, Cuddapah and Malabar; principal food-grains now above scarcity rates only in Nellore, Chingleput and Cuddapah. Numbers on works:—East coast—men 1,855, women 1,007, children 420; South Central—men 1,065, women 2,632, children 716; Deccan—men 6,876, women 8,139, children 3,269, besides 502 in Cuddapah for whom details unknown: total 26,481 against 21,555 last week; on gratuitous relief:—South Central—men 32, women 92, children 139; Deccan—men 71, women 135, children 570: total 1,039 against 1,045 last week. Loans disbursed for construction and repair of wells:—East coast—R5,95,218; South Central—R2,42,771; Deccan—R1,00,111. Wells constructed 2 082, 326, and 78 revised; and under construction 3,678, 1,130, and 915 in respective blocks. Amount disbursed under Agriculturists' Loans Act, R33 477, R72 938, R19,383, respectively.

Bombay.—For week ending 3rd February.—Slight rain in parts of two districts Standing crops suffering for want of moisture throughout Deccan except Khandesh in the Karnatak, and in parts of Upper Sind; crops also injured by cloudy weather, blight or insects in parts of three districts. Fodder scarce in parts of ten and water in parts of four districts. Cattle being removed to other places in parts of four districts. Prices rising in parts of five districts; elsewhere stationary. Cotton-picking continues in five districts; harvesting of late crops commenced in three districts.

Bengal.—For week ending 2nd February.—No rain during the week, and the little that fell in the Patna division during the previous week caused no material change in the prospect of the rabi crops, except in Shahabad, where it is reported that the rain has saved the rabi from total failure in the west of the district. Unfavourable reports of the rabi crops continue to be received from all parts of the Province except the Dacca and Orissa divisions, and the general outturn is not expected to be satisfactory, and in certain tracts in Behar it will be very scanty. Some of the earlier rabi crops are being gathered. Sugar-cane is being pressed and promises to yield a good outturn on the whole. Tobacco is generally reported to be a fair crop. Poppy is flowering and doing well on the irrigated tracts, but the crop is backward where no irrigation is available. Spring rice is being transplanted and doing well. Cultivation for autumn rice and jute is going on in parts of the Rajshahye division. No marked fluctuation in prices, but that of common rice is gradually rising in the Behar districts with the exception of Shahabad where a downward tendency is reported. There are ample supplies of fodder and water in almost all districts, and cattle are generally in good condition. In parts of Monghyr, Bhagulpore and Purneah districts, Bhagulpore division, a few relief works said to be required. The necessary funds will, for the present, be supplied by the District Boards. No distress is yet reported from the Patna division, but it is expected that relief measures will have to be undertaken in the districts of Gya, Mozufferpore, and Durbhanga from the end of this month or the beginning of March. In the Rajshahye division there is no such distress as to call for relief works at present.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 3rd February.—Weather occasionally cloudy, but no rain has fallen except in Benares; it is urgently needed for crops on unirrigated lands. Rabi prospects however are still reported to be good; in a portion of the Cawnpore district wheat and barley and gram have been attacked by blight, while arhar has been partly injured by frost in Moradabad; a part of the poppy crop in Partabgarh has been destroyed by caterpillars, and the plants now coming up in the fields which have been resown are very backward. Prices are fairly steady. Fodder still scarce in a part of the Saharanpur district.

Punjab.—For week ending 3rd February.—No rainfall during the week. Prices rising in one district, falling in two others; stationary elsewhere. Irrigation of rabi crops in progress. Prospects of standing crops generally fair; crops on dry lands are suffering for want of rain which is urgently wanted in most districts. Condition of cattle good in all but five districts. Fodder scarce in seven districts; below average in one and sufficient elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 3rd February.—No rain. Cloudy weather prevails in several districts, and in Bilaspur tahsil wheat crop somewhat damaged thereby. Threshing of rice nearly completed in two districts, and harvesting of linseed commenced in two others. Fodder sufficient. Cattle in good condition. Prices generally steady.

Myingyan—in Pagan reaping of crops nearly finished; in Kyaukpadaung an eight-anna crop of paddy and jowar expected. Pakokku—outturn of paddy one-quarter less, of millets one-third less, than last year; area under dry-weather paddy slightly in excess of the area last year. Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 3rd February.—BERAR:—Weather fair and cool. Picking of cotton and threshing of jowari continues. Rabi crops poor in three districts. Fodder in one taluk and water in another insufficient. Prices somewhat high.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

MANIPUR.

No. 132.—The Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct the publication, in continuation of G. G. O. No. 585 of 1891, of the following correspondence:—

No. 547-M.—"Field Operations-Manipur",—dated Simla, 31st December, 1891.

From—The Adjutant-General in India,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department.

With reference to this office No. $\frac{423}{M.}$, dated 11th July, 1891, I have the honour, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to forward extracts from a letter* from Brigadier-General Sir H. Collett,

* No. 518, dated 8th December, 1891.

K.C.B., Commanding the Assam District, bringing to notice the good services rendered by Lieutenant-Colonel St. J. F. Michell, Assistant Quarter Master General, Manipur Field Force, during the advance on, and occupation of, Manipur; and to recommend that, in consideration of the strong representation made by Brigadier-General Collett, Lieutenant-Colonel Michell's name may be added to the list of those mentioned in paragraph 13 of Lieutenant-Colonel Rennick's despatch, dated 3rd May, 1891, published in Government General Order No. 585, dated 19th June, 1891.

No. 518, dated Shillong, the 8th December, 1891.

From—BRIGADIER-GENERAL H. COLLETT, C.B.,
To—The Adjutant-General in India.

As to Colonel Michell's services while with the Silchar Column, Colonel Rennick of course can alone speak, but from the 27th April, the date of the occupation of Manipur, Colonel Michell worked directly under me as Assistant Quarter Master General, and I beg to bring his services during that time to His Excellency's favourable consideration.

His duties were exceptionally important and onerous owing to the outbreak of cholera; he also served as President of the Committee which examined and, as far as possible, identified the remains of the murdered officers, and placed them in a new grave in the Residency compound. This duty was most painful and disagreeable, and Colonel Michell performed it in a most thorough and satisfactory manner. He also served as President of the Court to try the Ex-Regent, the Jubraj, and other State prisoners, and performed this difficult duty with judgment and discretion, and in a completely satisfactory manner.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF AJMERE-MERWARA.

NOTIFICATION.

Camp Ulwar, the 5th February, 1892

No 568-C—115-II.—In supersession of the rules published in this office Notification No. 273—115-II, dated the 20th March, 1886, the Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, is pleased to make the following rules under the Land Improvement Loans Act, 18 3, section 10:—

I.—The Chief Commissioner will inform the Commissioner of Ajmere what amount will be placed at his disposal for loans under the Act for each financial year. The Commissioner will divide the sum between Ajmere and Merwara at his discretion, and may transfer for expenditure in either of the tracts any part of the amount allotted by him for expenditure in the other. But the total expenditure in the two tracts must be kept within the amount assigned by the Chief Commissioner. If an additional grant is required, application should at once be made for it.

II.—Subject to the provisions of these rules and within the limits of the funds allotted to them for the purpose, any Assistant Commissioner specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf may grant loans not exceeding R500 for any one improvement for purposes specified in the Act. Loans exceeding R500 for any one work require the sanction of the Commissioner, and loans exceeding R5,000 the sanction of the Chief Commissioner. The Commissioner or Chief Commissioner may call for such detailed plans and estimates or such professional opinion with respect to a project as may seem necessary.

III.—An application for a loan may be made to any revenue officer of or above the rank of a Naib Tahsildar.

IV.—The application, if made in writing, should be as nearly as possible in Form A. If an oral application is made, the officer to whom it is made shall cause it to be recorded as nearly as possible in that form.

V.—In respect of every application made under rule III, an enquiry shall be made by a revenue officer not below the rank of a Naib Tahsildar or Supervising Kanungo for the purpose of ascertaining the particulars mentioned on the reverse of Form A. If, in the opinion of the Assistant Commissioner, Revenue Extra Assistant Commissioner or Tahsil ar, it is expedient that public notice of the application should be given under section 5 of the Act, he will publish a notice thereof by fixing it up in a conspicuous place in the village, or in each village, which will be affected by the proposed improvement.

VI.—When the value of the applicant's interest in the land to be improved is sufficient to cover the loan, collateral security need not be required. Personal security may be accepted (a) when the sureties are a body of the village residents who bind themselves jointly and severally to the Government for the payment of the whole amount payable in respect of the loan, (b) in special cases, where the Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, thinks it desirable. Moveable property should rarely be accepted as security.

VII.—The date for the repayment of the first instalment shall be fixed with reference to the time when the improvement will begin to yield a return.

VIII.—The date for the repayment of the last instalment shall not, without the sanction of the Chief Commissioner, exceed fifteen years from the date on which the loan, or the last instalment of it, was advanced The amount of the instalments shall be fixed with reference to the annual profit likely to accrue from the improvement.

IX.—If the Chief Commissioner has prescribed tables consolidating principal and interest in instalments, the repayment of the loan shall be arranged in accordance with those tables. If such tables have not been prescribed, the instalments of principal may be so arranged as to increase approximately in proportion as the charge for interest decreases.

X.—On completion of the enquiry and verification of the security, the officer to whom the application was made may sanction the loan himself if empowered to do so; otherwise he shall forward the application with his report, through such channel as the Chief Commissioner may prescribe, to the officer who is empowered to sanction the loan.

XI.—An order granting a loan shall be in Form B hereto annexed, and shall be signed by the applicant in token that he understands and agrees to the conditions contained therein. When the sureties (if any) whom the applicant is required to furnish give personal security only, the bond to be executed by them shall be in Form C hereto annexed. When immoveable property is required to be given as collateral security, the security bond shall be in Form D hereto annexed.

XII—A copy of the order shall be given to the applicant, and payment of the loan, or, where the loan is advanced in instalments, of each instalment of the loan, shall be made at the treasury on its presentation. The Treasury Officer shall send the Tahsildar immediate notice of all payments made.

XIII—(a) The rate of interest shall be one anna in the rupee, or 6¼ per cent. per annum.

(b) But the Chief Commissioner may for special reasons sanction a loan at a lower rate of interest or without interest.

(c) If an instalment of principal is not paid when it falls due, the Commissioner may, if he thinks fit, charge interest on it at any rate not exceeding 6¼ per cent. per annum from the date of its falling due to the date of payment.

XIV.—The dates for repayment of instalments of a loan should usually be the dates fixed for payment of instalments of land revenue.

XV.—Instalments may be suspended by order and at the discretion of the Commissioner on proof of failure of crops or other exceptional calamity.

XVI.—When any portion of a loan made under these rules is found to be irrecoverable, special report shall be made to the Chief Commissioner.

XVII.—Any revenue officer not inferior in rank to a Naib Tahsildar may at any time enter on and inspect any land for the benefit of which a loan has been granted, and any work in progress thereon, or direct any patwari or other subordinate revenue official to inspect such land or work.

XVIII.—As soon as may be after a loan has been granted, the officer or authority granting it shall cause the patwari of the circle in which the land to be improved is situated to copy into his roznamcha so much of the order granting the loan as relates to the amount of the loan, the manner in which the loan is to be advanced the nature of the improvement for the purpose of which it has been granted, and the time or times by which the whole or parts of the improvement is or are to be completed.

XIX.—At such intervals as the Chief Commissioner may by general order prescribe in this behalf, the patwari shall submit, through the Supervising Kanungo, the Tahsildar, and the Assistant Commissioner, to the Commissioner a report as to the expenditure of the loan and the progress of the work for the purpose of which the loan was granted.

XX.—The Chief Commissioner shall regulate the forms of all returns, registers, and accounts relating to advances under the Act.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

[Revised Advertisement.]

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics, markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 550 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in seven volumes during the current year, but an eighth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

5. Nothing in this Act shall apply to the cost of establishments specially entertained or to expenditure of any description specially incurred in respect of any particular estate or estates.

Validation of levy of past rates.

6. All rates for general supervision or management levied by any Local Government before the commencement of this Act shall be deemed to have been levied under this Act.

Exemption from jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

8. Where any Government establishment is employed in such supervision as aforesaid, the Local Government shall be the sole judge of the cost attributable to such employment, and its decision thereon shall not be questioned in any Court of Law or otherwise. [Cf. Act XV of 1887, 158.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN several provinces a general rate is already levied on estates under the Court of Wards, and is credited to Government to meet the estimated cost of supervision and management by Government officers. It is desirable to place the legality of these rates beyond doubt, and at the same time to limit their amount. It has been decided that other Local Governments should be empowered to levy similar rates, and that the rates should be leviable on all estates under Government management, and not merely on those under the Court of Wards.

Power has been given to the Local Governments to reduce or remit the rate in special cases. This provision is designed especially to meet cases in which Government officials are relieved of the supervision and management by the employment of special general managers.

Under section 4 of the Bill it is open to Local Governments either to charge special fees for legal advice and audit of accounts, where these services are rendered by Government officials, or to debit the contribution for these services to the general rate.

GOVERNMENT MANAGEMENT OF PRIVATE ESTATES BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR PHILIP HUTCHINS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to provide for the levy of a rate on private estates under the management of Government to meet the cost of superior supervision and management. He said:—

"In this country Government is landlord paramount and to a certain extent patriarchal. It intervenes for the protection of private estates in a variety of contingencies, and in order to protect them assumes their management. This is perhaps best understood in connection with the action of the Court of Wards, the popularity of which is both well deserved and universal; but incumbered estates have often been saved from the hammer by the intervention of Government, either after effecting an arrangement with the creditors, or under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, when a decree-holder presses for a sale. The laws for the recovery of revenue also favour the attachment and management of estates which fall into arrears rather than the sale either of the whole or a substantial part of them.

"But all such management costs money and occupies to a greater or less extent valuable time of public officers who are the paid servants of the tax-payers. In some cases the immediate administration of the estate is entrusted to a special paid manager under the Collector, but there must still be a good deal of supervision by the Collector himself, and probably by yet higher officers; and such supervision entails also considerable contingent expenditure. In many cases too even the direct management is undertaken by an officer in the position of a tahsildar.

"The fundamental principle of the Bill which I now seek to introduce is that all such management is for the benefit of the private estate and should be paid for out of its income and not out of the pocket of the general tax-payer. The mere enunciation of the principle shows its fairness: the unfairness is to charge the public for services rendered to individuals. There is indeed another legal principle that no trustee should be allowed to make money for himself out of his trust, but even under the most jealous system of equity every trustee is permitted to charge for the services of his establishment, and that is all that I propose to do.

"There is only one case in regard to which I can foresee the possibility of objection, and that is the case of estates attached for arrears of revenue. It might be said that in this instance the attachment is for the benefit of Government, or, in other words, for the benefit of the general tax-payer, and that Government or the tax-payer should bear the expense. But, as I have already indicated, if the realization of the revenue is considered alone, it will be best secured by a summary sale of the estate. The grounds for preferring a temporary sequestration are a lenient consideration for the defaulter and his family, and a reluctance to proceed to extremities where milder measures are likely to prove efficacious. Even in this instance therefore the management is really undertaken for the benefit of the defaulting proprietor or others interested in the preservation of the estate.

"Assuming then that all the cost of management, so far as it can be estimated, ought to be thrown on the estate, I will now explain how my Bill secures this object. By section 3 I authorise a Local Government to impose a rate on all private estates under the management of its officers. The rate is in no case to exceed 4 per cent. of the income, which, having regard to the commission payable to private agents or to receivers appointed by the Courts, is certainly not an excessive maximum. But it is further provided that the actual rate shall be calculated from time to time so as just to cover, as nearly as may be, (1) the real cost of public establishments employed on, or in connection with, the management, and (2) the incidental expenditure on contingencies. Power is reserved to reduce or remit the rate in special cases, as where special managers are employed and only control and supervision supplied by public officers. Section 4 relates to charges for audit and legal advice, and allows Local Governments the option of prescribing special fees for such services or including them in the general rate. Where they are rendered by what are known as whole-time officers the latter alternative will probably be chosen, but there has been a practical difficulty in the way of laying this down as a universal rule.

"Section 6 validates charges of the nature of those now to be authorized which have been levied in the past. For in several provinces a general rate has already been levied on estates under the Court of Wards and credited to the public exchequer to meet the estimated cost of supervision and management by Government officers. I do not for a moment say that such a charge is even now illegal under the laws applicable to the particular provinces, but it is desirable to place its propriety beyond question.

"The other provisions of the Bill are merely incidental, except perhaps section 8. This constitutes the Local Government the sole judge of the value of the work entailed on its establishments, and will prevent the amount of the rate being questioned in a Civil Court, so long of course as it is within the very moderate maximum of 4 per cent."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR PHILIP HUTCHINS also introduced the Bill.

The Hon'ble SIR PHILIP HUTCHINS also moved that the Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons be published in the Gazette of India in English, and in the local official Gazettes in English and in such other languages as the Local Governments think fit.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

PROGRESS OF EDUCATION IN INDIA, DURING THE YEAR 1890-91.

No. $\frac{2\ \text{Education}}{57-68}$.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Home Department (Education),—under date Calcutta, the 9th February 1892.

READ—

The several Reports on the progress of Education in India during the year 1890-91, with the orders passed on them by Local Governments and Administrations.

RESOLUTION.

THE statistics of Education in British India during the year 1889-90 were published in Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{1\ \text{Education}}{37-48}$, dated the 11th February 1891. As intimated in Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{2}{70-89}$, dated the 11th February 1889, the state and progress of Education in India will be reviewed at length every fifth year. This was last done for the year 1886-87, and in publishing for general information the educational statistics for the year 1890-91, the Governor General in Council desires merely to call attention to their most prominent features, reserving detailed criticism for the next quinquennial review which will be issued after the receipt of the figures for the current year ending 31st March 1892.

2. The total number of Public and Private Institutions to which the Educational Reports relate rose from 134,710 in 1889-90 to 138,054 in 1890-91, but the increase was entirely confined to the former class of institutions, which increased from 94,163 to 99,775, while the latter decreased from 40,547 to 38,279. There was an increase in the number of public institutions for boys from 89,318 to 91,690 but a decrease in the number of private institutions from from 39,165 to 36,967. Both classes of institutions for girls increased, the former from 4,845 to 5,085, and the latter from 1,082 to 1,312. There were in all 3,368,930 boys at school and college during the year, as compared with 3,331,933 boys in 1889-90. The number of girls at school and college was in 1890-91, 313,777 and in 1889-90, 294,457.

3. The percentage of scholars on the total population of school-going age was 10·7 as compared with 11·4 in 1889-90. The percentage of male and female scholars on the male and female population of school-going age was, respectively, 19·3 and 1·8, as compared with 20·7 and 1·9 in the previous year. The decrease is however nominal; as the percentages for the year under review have in the case of most Provinces been calculated on the increased figures of population as ascertained in the census of 1891. There were 3,682,707 pupils under instruction in the educational institutions of all classes at the close of the official year 1890-91, as compared with 3,626,399 at the close of 1889-90. The number attending public institutions increased from 3,091,501 in 1889-90 to 3,199,212 in 1890-91, while the number attending private institutions fell from 534,886 in the previous year to 483,495 in the year under report.

| | Total | 2,913,077 | 3,022,308 |

From the statement given in the margin, which shows the average monthly attendance at the several classes of public institutions during the year, it will be seen that there was an increase in the monthly average number of pupils present at these institutions from 2,913,077 in 1889-90 to 3,022,308 in 1890-91. Statistics showing the average attendance at private institutions are not available. On the 31st March 1891 there were 12,165 scholars on the rolls of the Arts Colleges, as compared with 11,219 on the corresponding date in 1890. The number on the rolls of the Colleges or Departments of Colleges in professional training also increased from 3,049 at the end of the previous year to 3,424 at the end of 1890-91. There was a slight falling off in the number of pupils at secondary schools (468,536), as compared with the previous year (469,153); but there was a substantial increase (106,992) in the number on the rolls of primary schools, which rose from 2,587,694 at the close of 1889-90 to 2,694,686 at the close of 1890-91. The number of pupils in training schools (5,022), which had showed an increase of 49 at the end of 1889-90, as compared with the number at the end of 1888-89, decreased by 36 in the year under notice; but the number attending other special schools (15,451) was somewhat higher than at the close of 1889-90 (15,403).

4. The number of scholars on the 31st March 1891 studying English was 353,515 as compared with 352,356 on the 31st March 1890. In secondary schools there were 284,572 pupils learning English, and in primary schools 44,611, as compared with 287,122 and 43,910, respectively, at the close of 1889-90. The total number of scholars studying a classical language was 508,130 in 1890-91, against 536,551 in 1889-90: the numbers studying a vernacular in those years were, respectively, 3,338,019 and 3,226,537. There was a considerable decrease in the number of students at private institutions who were studying a classical language as well as of those who were studying a vernacular; but at public institutions the numbers were larger than in the previous year, the increase (123,306) in the number learning a vernacular being very marked.

5. The race and religion of the pupils and the proportion of each class to the total number during the past two years may be thus compared:—

| Race and Religion. | 1889-90. | | 1890-91. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Number. | Proportion to total number. | Number. | Proportion to total number. |
| Hindus | 2,458,448 | 67·80 per cent. | 2,512,916 | 68·21 per cent. |

| Europeans and Eurasians | 25,082 | ·69 „ | 25,568 | ·69 „ |
| Native Christians | 81,780 | 2·26 „ | 86,314 | 2·34 „ |
| Miscellaneous races or religions. | 206,397 | 5·69 „ | 221,520 | 6·02 „ |
| Total | *3,626,205 | 100·00 per cent. | 3,682,707 | 100·00 per cent. |

* Exclusive of 185 pupils of the St. Xavier's College in Calcutta regarding whom details have not been furnished.

6. The total expenditure (direct and indirect) on Education rose from R2,76,58,697 in 1889-90 to R2,88,81,963 in the year under review. The direct expenditure, which was R2,21,80,378 in the preceding year, increased to R2,28,94,192. This increase was mainly due to increased expenditure on secondary and primary education, the amounts spent under these heads in 1890-91 having been R94,02,372 and R91,43,637, respectively, as compared with R92,89,874 and R86,76,796 in 1889-90. Of the total amount directly expended on Education, R19,56,886 were spent on Arts Colleges for males and R4,724 on Arts Colleges for female students, as compared with R19,62,361 and R11,164 the previous year. The cost of training schools was R5,94,506 in 1889-90, and R6,28,777 in 1890-91. The cost of maintaining other special schools in those years was R9,53,911 and R9,72,634, respectively. The indirect expenditure on Education, which covers the cost of direction, inspection, scholarships, buildings and miscellaneous items, and which in 1889-90 was R54,78,319, reached R59,87,771 in 1890-91. The largest increase occurred under the heads "Buildings" and "Inspection."

7. Of the total expenditure on Education during 1890-91, R81,61,391 were paid from Provincial Revenues, R50,50,315 from Local Funds, R13,36,350 from Municipal Funds, and R83,55,644 from fees, the balance being met from miscellaneous sources, such as subscriptions, endowments, etc. The following statement compares the sums paid from each of these sources and the proportion of each sum to the total cost of Education in 1889-90 and 1890-91:—

| Sources from which Expenditure on Education is met. | 1889-90. | | 1890-91. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Amount. | Proportion to total cost. | Amount. | Proportion to total cost. |
| | R | | R | |
| Provincial Revenues | 75,97,606 | 27·47 per cent. | 81,61,391 | 28·26 per cent |
| Local Funds | 48,78,784 | 17·64 „ | 50,50,315 | 17·48 „ |
| Municipal Funds | 12,81,830 | 4·63 „ | 13,36,350 | 4 63 „ |
| Fees | 81,23,800 | 29·37 „ | 83,55,644 | 28·93 „ |
| Miscellaneous | 57,76,677 | 20·89 „ | 59,78,263 | 20 70 „ |
| Total | 2,76,58,697 | 100·00 per cent. | 2,88,81,963 | 100 00 per cent. |

8. The summary of the statistics relating to Education in 1890-91 given above shows that the results have been generally satisfactory, but the Governor

General in Council desires again to call attention to the small proportion of the expenditure contributed from Municipal Funds; and he is constrained to record his opinion, derived from a perusal of the various Municipal and Local Fund Reports, that the support given by these bodies to primary education is in many cases altogether inadequate. The expenditure on Education met from miscellaneous sources shows an increase over the figures of 1889-90, but its proportion to the total cost during the year is somewhat lower than in the preceding year.

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, January 30th, 1892.

The depression which occasioned the general rainfall over North-Western India during last week had disappeared before the commencement of the week under review, but its influence on the weather was still slightly felt on the 24th, when showers were reported from parts of the North-West Provinces and Behar. By the morning of the 25th this slight disturbance had disappeared, and strongly marked anti-cyclonic conditions prevailed with fine weather until the close of the week.

On the 24th the barometer was rising except in Burma and North Bengal. Readings were high (30·25″ and above) over the Punjab and Rajputana, and strongly marked anti-cyclonic conditions prevailed throughout India. Showers were reported from the North-Western Provinces, Behar and the Carnatic, but elsewhere the weather was fine. On the 25th the barometer was generally falling except over the Peninsula, but the general conditions were unchanged, readings decreasing from a high pressure area in the north-west to a low pressure area in the extreme south. The winds were almost everywhere light and maintained the anti-cyclonic circulation noticed on the 24th. Light showers were reported from Nowgong, Salem, and Cuddalore. On the 26th the barometer continued to fall, but except that gradients became slighter, there occurred no change in the general distribution. The winds were practically unaltered, and the only rainfall reported was a light shower at Sibsagar and Colombo. On the 27th a very feeble depression was shown advancing across the Indus Valley in the neighbourhood of Multan, while the area of highest pressure had deserted North-Western India and passed eastward to Rajputana, the central parts of the country and Behar. The winds were almost everywhere light. The only rainfall reported was at Dhubri and Darjeeling. The chart of the 28th showed that the depression had advanced eastward to the neighbourhood of Sirsa and Jeypore. The disturbance was exceedingly slight and the barometer was rising almost everywhere. The distribution had returned to its former condition, readings being highest again in the extreme north-west. The winds in Rajputana, Central India, and the Punjab were slightly affected by the depression, but elsewhere the general directions were unaltered. On the 29th there was no important change, and the only noticeable feature in the weather was the slight rain at Jeypore, Neemuch, and Negapatam. On the 30th the barometer was unusually uniform throughout the Indian region, though still somewhat higher in the north than in the south. Light rain was reported from Neemuch and Nowgong, but with this exception there was nothing worthy of note in the weather.

Temperature.—Owing probably to the continued absence of rain, the mean temperature has been high throughout almost the whole of India during the week under review.

The following table shows the variations of temperature from the normal average on each day of the week for the principal provinces of India:—

| PROVINCE. | 24th. | 25th. | 26th. | 27th. | 28th. | 29th. | 30th. | Mean variation of week. |

| MEAN FOR WHOLE INDIA | +0·2 | +2·2 | +3·0 | +3·0 | +3·2 | +4·1 | +3·5 | +2·7 |

F

For the whole of India there was an average daily excess of over $2\frac{1}{2}^\circ$, the warmest day being the 29th when there was an average excess of $4^\circ$ and the coolest the 24th when the excess was only $0^\circ\cdot2$. In the provincial variations Burma is the only province which shows that the mean temperature of the week was below the normal. The greatest heat relatively to the average was experienced in the Punjab where the excess was as much as $5^\circ$. On the 29th the excess of temperature in Guzerat and Central India was as much as $8^\circ\cdot7$ and in Sind and Rajputana $7^\circ\cdot7$, but these excessive temperatures at the close of the week were partly balanced by the relatively low temperatures which prevailed at the commencement of the week,—a result of the rainfall described in the preceding summary.

Rainfall.—The rainfall of the week under review has been everywhere unimportant. The concluding table shows that rain occurred during the week only in twelve of the rainfall divisions, leaving thirty-nine divisions entirely without rain. Of the twelve divisions which received rain, only three had an average fall for the week equalling one-tenth of an inch. In every division in India the average fall was less than the normal, and the final columns of the table show that the rainfall for the month has been either nil or very largely deficient over nearly the whole of the Indian region.

The record of maximum falls during the week, though generally giving very small amounts, shows that in some districts fair rainfall was received. Thus:—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 6th February.—Agricultural prospects unchanged. Harvest proceeding; southern districts' outturn only moderate, in affected area scanty. Crops nearly all harvested or withered. Want of fodder and water for cattle in many parts, and sufferings of cattle continue to increase. Prices show little change, rather easier in Deccan and north coast districts. Numbers on works:—East coast—men 593, women 618, children 183, return incomplete; South Central—men 1,132, women 2,719, children 756; Deccan—men 6,038, women 8,467, children 3,822; besides 146, details unknown; total 24,474 against 26,481 last week. On gratuitous relief:—South Central—men 34, women 89, children 137; Deccan—men 122, women 201, children 679; total 1,262 against 1,039 last week. Loans disbursed for construction and repair of wells:—East coast—R6,07,586; South Central—R2,51,028, Deccan—R1,16,333. Wells constructed 2,096, 230 (revised), and 78; and under construction 3,746, 1,270, and 1,081 in respective blocks. Amount disbursed under Agriculturists' Loans Act, R33,477, 73,038, and 20,841, respectively.

Bombay.—For week ending 10th February.—Slight rain in parts of Poona and Kathiawar. Standing crops suffering for want of moisture in parts of Upper Sind, Deccan, and Karnatak. Cotton in Dharwar blighted, wheat and cotton in one taluka of Ahmedabad injured by cloudy weather and crops generally in one taluka of Kolaba by insects. Fodder scarce in parts of Sind and seven districts of Deccan and Karnatak. Water insufficient and cattle being removed to other places in parts of four districts. Prices rising in parts of four districts; stationary elsewhere. Harvesting of late crops progressing in eight and cotton-picking in six districts. Numbers on relief works in Belgaum 945; children receiving relief 377.

Bengal.—For week ending 9th February.—No rain during the week with the exception of a slight drizzle in parts of the Patna Division on the 8th instant. Except in Orissa and parts of Eastern Bengal, the prospects of the rabi crops are poor owing to want of rain, and in the unirrigated tracts of Behar the outturn is expected to be very meagre. Some of the earlier rabi crops are, however, reported to be fair, and mustard is giving a twelve-anna outturn in many districts. Sugarcane is being cut and pressed, and is a fine crop all round. Tobacco prospects are fair. Poppy promises well except in the unirrigated lands. Extraction of opium has begun in Monghyr and Gya. Spring rice is still being transplanted, but rain is required for this crop in some districts and for the cultivation of the autumn crops in the Rajshahye Division. Prices are rising slowly in the Patna Division generally and in some other districts. Cattle are generally doing well, and there is ample supply of fodder and water. The reports now furnished from the Patna Division show that there will be little need for relief works before April. All the District Officers are still of opinion that they will be able to deal with the distress locally, but that funds may have to be advanced by Government in Gya, Mozufferpore, and Durbhunga. In this division the very gradual rise in the price of food-grains and the absence of any unusual demand for labour show that the people have resources, and up to date there are no signs of scarcity. In the Bhagulpore Division arrangements are said to have been made to start suitable relief works wherever necessary. In the Northern Bengal districts the situation is practically unchanged.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 10th February.—Report not received.

Punjab.—For week ending 10th February.—Slight rain has fallen in the Rawalpindi district only. Prices rising in two districts, falling in four others; stationary elsewhere. Irrigation of rabi crops in progress, extra rabi crops being sown in Dera Ismail Khan. Rain badly wanted throughout the province. Prospects of standing crops are reported good in three districts and fair in three others; their condition is bad in five districts. Condition of cattle is improving in Hissar but is worse in Sialkot, it is bad in Shahpur and good elsewhere. Fodder scarce in six districts; sufficient elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 10th February.—Slight fall of rain in some districts. Weather generally cloudy and is reported to be damaging standing crops in Raipur. Reaping of linseed and pulse continues. Fodder and water-supply sufficient. Prices unchanged.

Burma.—For week ending 6th February.—LOWER BURMA:—Reaping is practically completed; threshing and winnowing in progress. UPPER BURMA:—Mandalay—standing crops in good condition. Bhamo and Katha—kaukkyi paddy nearly all reaped and mayin paddy being sown in Katha; prospects of the mayin crop are good, but the area sown is less than last year. Shwebo—mayin cultivation progressing in the south. Ye-u—mayin cultivation progressing favourably in all townships. Sagaing—wheat, gram, pegyi, and mayin progressing in Sagaing sub-division; in Ava reaping of paddy, sesamum, and jowar completed; peas and mayin crops progressing; reaping completed in Myinmu. Upper Chindwin—wheat thriving and mayin planting in progress. Lower Chindwin—reaping of paddy, jowari, and sesamum completed nearly all over the district; in the eastern sub-division standing pea crops very bad, but fair in western sub-division. Myingyan—in Pagan jowari and late sesamum reaped, beans being reaped in Sale; on the mainland beans have been reaped; beans and tobacco in flower on the islands. Pakokku—prospects of dry-weather crop good. Minbu—no change in crop prospects since last week. Magwe—paddy and lu being threshed, jowari being reaped; island crops progressing favourably. Kyaukse—reaping of kaukkyi paddy completed, mayin being planted. Meiktila—kaukkyi and jowar being reaped, a good crop of wheat and gram expected. Yamethin—reaping in progress or completed. Pyinmana—paddy being threshed. Numbers on relief works:—Yamethin 2,656; Shwebo 1,181; Ye-u 2,940; Sagaing 2,543; Lower Chindwin 2,469; Myingyan 2,239; Minbu 494 (excluding one work for which report not received); Magwe 1,334; Meiktila 1,334. The price of paddy has risen in Rangoon, Prome, Bassein, Thongwa, Henzada, Shwegyin, Toungoo, Katha, Pakokku (largely), and Pyinmana.

Assam.—For week ending 10th February.—Report not received.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 10th February.—MYSORE:—Crops generally withering and no improvement in prospects. Public works started and relief works in affected parts are in progress. Prices fallen slightly in one district.

COORG:—Threshing of rice and ragi continues. Coffee-picking nearly completed. Prices of food-grains stationary. Forage and water-supply for cattle sufficient.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 10th February.—BERAR:—Weather fair and cold. Picking of cotton and threshing of jowari continues. Rabi crop poor in three districts. Fodder in one and water in another taluk insufficient. Prices high in three districts.

HYDERABAD:—No rain during week. Standing rabi crops are in fair condition except in one taluk, where owing to want of water sowing operations are not carried out. Scarcity of water and fodder for cattle is being felt in almost all taluks and especially in Ambarpett taluk, and tanks in some places are getting dried up. Prices:—wheat 9, coarse rice 8¾, white juar 14½, yellow juar 15⅝, and tur 12 seers per current rupee.

Central India.—For week ending 10th February.—Some rain during week in Gwalior, Bhopal, and Western Malwa. Prices of food-grains rising in Goona and high in Neemuch. Weather cloudy and warm in Indore.

Rajputana.—For week ending 10th February.—Slight rain in Pertabgarh only. Standing crops in good condition everywhere. Good outturn expected in Sirohi and Dholepore. Cattle poor in six States and at Kherwara and Ajmere; satisfactory elsewhere. Pasturage or fodder scarce in seven States and at Ajmere and Kherwara. Water-difficulty for cattle has been removed by recent rains in Todgurh, but water scarce in Ajmere. Prices steady in eight States and at Ajmere, rising in one State and at Kherwara, fluctuating in one, and falling in three States. One hundred and three persons emigrated from Marwar; 369 emigrants and 1,087 cattle entered Kotah. In Marwar 2,942 persons employed on relief works and 1,542 gratuitously treated; in Ajmere 19,151 persons on relief works and 3,193 gratuitously treated; in Jeypore 4,743; in Kishengarh 1,143 on relief works and 106 gratuitously treated; in Bikanir 2,913 on relief works and 1,351 receiving gratuitous relief.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

[Revised Advertisement.]

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in seven volumes during the current year, but an eighth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

REVIEWING THE REPORT ON THE POST OFFICE OF INDIA FOR 1890-91.

No. 688, dated Calcutta, the 17th February 1892.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department.

Read—

Report on the Post Office of India for the year 1890-91.

RESOLUTION.—The principal modifications, all in the direction of progress and improvement, made in the year in the working of the Inland Post were the following:—

(1) An accelerated railway mail service between Calcutta, Bombay, and Northern India, and between Madras and Central and Northern India, was introduced.

(2) The system of paying revenue by money orders was extended to certain districts of the Madras Presidency and the Punjab.

(3) The system of payment of rent by money orders was extended in Bengal.

(4) An experimental system of receiving payment at the Post Office for salt supplied to purchasers from the Rajputana sources and the Punjab mines was introduced.

All these measures have worked successfully.

2. The principal changes in the working of the Foreign Post were the following:—

(5) The rate of postage on letters from India to the United Kingdom was reduced from 4½ annas to 2½ annas per half-ounce.

(6) The rate of postage between India and Aden was reduced to the inland rate.

(7) An exchange of money orders between the Indian Post Office and Mombasa was effected.

(8) A direct money order exchange between India and Malta, and

(9) the value-payable post between India and Ceylon, were introduced, as well as

(10) an exchange of parcels with South Australia.

3. The progress which has been the rule in the operations of the Post Office was maintained during the year. The transactions of the Imperial Post Office during the last two years compare as follows:—

| | 1889-90. | 1890-91. | Increase per cent. |

4. The total number of articles (including money orders) sent out for delivery was upwards of 325 millions, of which about 316½ millions were actually delivered, the percentage of deliveries being 97·31 against 98·26 in the previous year. There is a steady decline in the number of unpaid letters and a constantly growing demand for post-cards.

5. The declared value of insured articles during 1890-91 was R7,99,16,217 against R8,98,75,023 in the previous year, and the insurance fees realised amounted to R2,10,873 against R2,29,659, the decrease being due to the limitation from the 1st May 1890 to R1,000 of the value for which an article can be insured. There was, however, an increase of 8,644 in the number of letters, and of 16,610 in the number of parcels, insured during the year as compared with the previous year, and the operation of the new rule has not interfered with the legitimate insurance business of the Post Office.

6. Of Inland Money Orders 7,326,065 were issued during the year for a value of over 15¾ crores of rupees, the commission realised being nearly R15½ lakhs. The following figures shew the progress of this branch of postal business during the last five years:—

| | Total number of orders issued. | Total value of orders issued. | Commission realised. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | R | R |
| 1886-87 | 4,821,117 | 10,68,49,151 | 13,37,820 |
| 1887-88 | 5,512,395 | 11,84,43,573 | 14,94,381 |
| 1888-89 | 6,136,790 | 12,99,06,864 | 16,57,761 |
| 1889-90 | 6,759,116 | 14,65,32,147 | 17,95,350 |
| 1890-91 | 7,326,065 | 15,77,70,303 | 19,37,598 |

7. The operations of the Postal Savings Banks during the year compare thus with those of the two previous years:—

| | 1888-89. | 1889-90. | 1890-91. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Number of Banks | 6,056 | 6,350 | 6,455 |
| " accounts at the close of the year | 311,001 | 358,272 | 408,544 |
| Deposits during the year | R4,33,51,982 | R3,27,83,155 | R3,47,55,976 |
| Withdrawals | R3,69,63,000 | R3,50,51,000 | R3,21,70,000 |
| Value of deposits at the close of the year | R5,88,64,681 | R5,86,96,755 | R6,34 67,408 |

In 1889-90, the deposits were reduced in consequence of the reduction of the maximum limit for deposits made in a year from R500 to R200; but they are increasing again.

8. The number of complaints made by the public against the Post Office was 8,188, but more than 42 per cent. were found to be groundless.

9. The following statement shows the Revenue and Expenditure of the Post Office in the last three years:—

| | 1888-89. | 1889-90. | 1890-91. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | R | R | R |
| Revenue | 1,28,15,399 | 1,30,13,621 | 1,40,27,482 |

THE POST OFFICE OF INDIA

FOR THE YEAR

1890-91.

No. 10784, dated the 15th January 1892.

From—A. U. FANSHAWE, Esq., Director General of the Post Office of India,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce.

I have the honour to submit the Annual Report on the Post Office of India for the official year 1890-91.

Principal events, Inland Post.

2. There were no changes of first rate importance under the head of Inland Post, but the year was one of continued progress in all branches of postal business; some special steps were taken to improve through mail communications by railway; and there was a further exemplification of the growing tendency on the part of other branches of the Government service to employ the Post Office for various purposes for which special agencies have previously been used. The year, too, was remarkable for a forgery of the one rupee postage stamp of which an account will be found in the appropriate section of this report. With the constant growth of the Railway system in India, the arrangement of through mail services has become an intricate and difficult class of work, and a special Railway Conference was held on the subject at Cawnpore in September 1890 under the presidency of an Officer of the Department, the result of which was the introduction of the fastest mail service that has yet been seen in this country between Calcutta, Bombay and Northern India, and an important acceleration of the mail transit between Madras and Central and Northern India. A system of dropping and picking up the mails by means of special apparatus, for which the Post Office has been pressing for some time past, was also introduced successfully at small stations on the East India Railway. The Nagpur and Bengal Railway was opened for through traffic towards the end of the year, but it is not probable that it will be used as a through mail line for some time to come. The Revenue Money Order system was for the first time made applicable, with the approval of the Local Government, to certain districts of the Madras Presidency, and was also introduced in the Punjab in the districts of Delhi, Ferozepore, Sealkot and Lahore with the permission of the Lieutenant-Governor. The system of payment of rent by means of money orders, which had been tried experimentally in the districts comprising the Burdwan Commissionership, having proved a success, was extended with the sanction of the Bengal Government, to the Presidency, Dacca and Rajshahye divisions of the Lower Provinces with effect from the 1st July 1890. It was stated in last year's report that it had been decided that the agency of the Post Office should be used for summoning Army reservists, and during the year now under report the work of recalling sepoys on leave has also been transferred from the district authorities to the Post Office. The duty of receiving money on behalf of the Salt Department for the purchase of salt, under the through traffic system, from salt depôts was also undertaken as an experiment, from the beginning of the year in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and in the Punjab. There were various small expeditions during the year for which field post offices had to be opened. The Zhob field force started in September 1890; in January 1891 the Postmaster General, Punjab, was called upon to organize a postal service for the Miranzai and Hazara field forces; and the Deputy Postmaster General, Burma, had to make special arrangements for the postal communications in connection with the Wuntho expedition. The close of these various expeditions, and the arrangements for the Manipur field force do not fall within the scope of the present report but it may be stated that in every case the work done by the Post Office secured the unqualified approval of the Military authorities.

Principal events, Foreign Post.

3. The following were the principal events of the Foreign Post:—Arrangements were made with effect from the 1st September 1890 for an exchange of money orders between the Indian Post Office and the Post Office of the Imperial British East Africa Company with its head-quarters at Mombassa, and a direct exchange of money orders was introduced from the 1st November 1890 between India and Malta. The agreement with South Australia for a direct exchange of parcels which was reported last year, was brought into operation from the 1st April 1890, and a number of British colonies and possessions, and of foreign union countries were added to the list of places to which parcels can be sent from India through the United Kingdom. The postage on letters from India to the United Kingdom was reduced with effect from the 1st January 1891 to 2½ annas per half ounce or fraction of half an ounce, and in the absence of a 2½-anna stamp the immediate requirements of the public were provided for by overprinting the stocks of 4½-anna stamps and envelopes with the lower postage rate. At the same time the opportunity was taken to effect a reform, which has been urged by me for some years past, by reducing the postage rates between India and Aden to ordinary inland rates, and thereby recognizing, in a practical way, its position as an integral part of British India. The Value-Payable post was introduced experimentally between India and Ceylon from the 1st January 1891, and has already proved a success; and it may be added that during the official year the Postal Administration of British North Borneo and the German Postal Agencies opened at Bagomoyo and Dar-es-Salaam on the East Coast of Africa entered the Postal Union.

Working of the P. & O. Contract.

4. Until about the middle of January 1890, the English mails were due in Bombay, according to the contract time allowed for the voyage, at noon on Monday of each week, but since then, owing to a change in the hour of departure from Brindisi, they have been due at 8 A.M. on Monday. During the year under report, the P. & O. Company's mail steamers arrived in Bombay on five occasions after contract time, the vessel being 18 hours 3 minutes late on one occasion, 15 hours 5 minutes on another occasion, and less than 12 hours late on the other three occasions. These delays were due in two instances to the detention of the steamers in the Suez Canal; in two instances to detention at Brindisi owing to bad weather and the late arrival of the mail train, and in one instance to severe weather which the steamer carrying the mails encountered after leaving Aden. On three occasions the steamer arrived on Saturday more than 36 hours before contract time, on twenty-three occasions on Sunday, and on twenty-five occasions on Monday. The average time occupied by the English mails during the year was 16 days 10 hours 5 minutes homewards, and 16 days 1 hour 46 minutes outwards.

Charge of the Post Office.

5. The administration of the Department was in the hands of Mr. H. M. Kisch during the greater part of the year. I held charge from the 1st April to the 18th May 1890, and during my absence on furlough for the remainder of the year, Mr. Kisch officiated as Director General.

Section I.—Post Offices, Letter-Boxes, and Village Postmen.

Post Office receptacles and rural delivery.

6. Appendix I compares the number of post offices, letter-boxes and village postmen of the Imperial Post in each circle on the 31st March 1891 with the number at the close of the previous year, and in the marginal abstract will be found the figures of the past two years for the whole of India for both the Imperial and District Post separately and together. It will be seen that 295 new post offices were opened, 948 new letter-boxes established, and 37 additional village postmen entertained during the year under report. The majority of the 295 new post offices opened were placed in charge of schoolmasters and others, who receive a small allowance from the Department and are not regular servants of the Post Office. In every circle, there was an increase in the number of letter-boxes, the greatest, 302, being in the North-Western Provinces circle, where the subject of the collection of letters in villages received special attention. Besides the post offices, letter-boxes, and village postmen of the Imperial Post shown in Appendix I, there were at the close of the year 1,025 post offices, 2,310 letter-boxes, and 2,544 village postmen of the District Post.

Section II.—Postal Lines.

Postal communications.

7. Appendix II contains statistics according to postal circles of the different classes of Imperial postal lines over which mails were carried during the year; and it will be seen from the abstract in the margin that there was an increase under every head. The increase in the railway mileage was due to the opening of new sections of railway in various parts of the country, and to the utilization, for the conveyance of mails, of 49¾ miles of railway which had not previously been used for this purpose. The largest sections of new railway lines opened during the year, and used for postal purposes, were on the Bengal Nagpur Railway, the South Indian Railway, the Southern Mahratta Railway, the Delhi, Umballa and Kalka Railway, and the Tirhoot State Railway. The increase in railway communications was followed by the closing of various runner lines, and of one or two mail cart services, the most notable of which was the service between Umballa and Kalka. But a considerable number of new runner lines were established during the year, principally in Madras, where, owing to the conversion of District Post establishments into Imperial, 1,623 miles of foot line were added to the Imperial Post, and there were several new mail cart lines chiefly in the Punjab. In addition to the Imperial mail lines shown above, there were 34,839 miles of District Post mail lines, so that the total length of the lines over which mails were conveyed was 109,232 miles at the close of the year under report, as compared with 107,086 miles at the close of the the previous year.

Section III.—Correspondence and Parcels.

General results.

8. The estimated number of postal articles of all kinds that were issued for delivery during the year was nearly 318 millions, or about 13 millions in excess of the number issued during the previous year. Statistics showing the different classes of articles delivered in the various postal circles will be found in Appendix III, and a general summary of the figures for the whole of India is given in the statement at the end of this paragraph. It will be seen that, except as regards unpaid letters, there was an increase in the total number of articles issued for delivery under every head. The largest proportional increase, 11·35 per cent, was in the Burma Circle, Oudh stands next with an increase of 7·65 per cent., then Madras with an increase of 7·45 per cent., and then Eastern Bengal with an increase of 6·80 per cent., while in the remaining circles, the increase was below 5 per cent. A reference to Appendix III will show that the falling off in unpaid letters was 633,640, or 2·34 per cent. out of nearly 27 millions, and for the last three years now there has been a steady decline in the number of unpaid letters. They are still most numerous in Burma, though the proportion is not quite as high as one-half of the whole as it has been in former years, and in Oudh and Behar, both of which provinces have a large emigrant population, among whom the belief that a letter is more certain of delivery, if posted unpaid, seems to die hard. In paid letters, there was an increase of more than 3 millions, in single post-cards of more than 6½ millions, in registered letters of 121,920, and both in newspapers and in unregistered ordinary book and pattern packets of more than 1½ millions. The most noticeable feature is the constantly growing popularity of post-cards among the Natives of the country.

Average number of letters and post-cards to each person.

9. A new Census was taken in February 1891, and though the final returns are not yet ready, I have obtained provisional figures by the courtesy of the Census Commissioner, from which the following comparative table has been prepared, showing the average number of letters and post-cards per head of population in the different postal circles in 1881 and in 1891. For the purposes of the present comparison these figures are believed to be sufficiently accurate, and it is interesting to note that, however backward India may be according to a European standard, the percentage of letters to each person has undoubtedly increased, during the last decade, for every province. Now, as in 1881, the Bombay Presidency including Sind stands first with a present average of something over 2 letters for each person, and it will be noticed that in three other provinces, Bengal, Burma and the Punjab an average of rather more than 1 letter for each person has been reached.

Foreign correspondence including that with United Kingdom.

10. The figures in Appendix III include the foreign correspondence received in India for delivery, but a special table is given at the end of this paragraph showing separately the amount of correspondence in each direction between India and the United Kingdom, and between India and foreign countries. Last year there was a slight decrease in the number of letters and post-cards received from the United Kingdom which has been more than counterbalanced by an increase of nearly 7 per cent. in the figures for the year under report. So far as the correspondence sent home is concerned, the reduced letter postage rate, which was in force for three months of the year, can hardly be said to have had any effect. But it is probable that the reduction would be more quickly and more largely taken advantage of in the United Kingdom than in this country, and the increase of nearly 7 per cent., already referred to, may be due, in part, to this. It is too early, however, to form any trustworthy conclusions as to the effect of the reduction of the letter postage rate on the number of letters. Statistics of correspondence with foreign countries are taken only once in three years, alternately in May and November, and the figures given in the table are those of May 1890, so that no remarks are called for regarding them.

* Net revenue is calculated after deduction of customs duty and sums due to the Peninsular and Oriental Company and London Post Office.

12. More than 88 per cent. of the whole foreign parcel traffic is with the United Kingdom. There was an increase of 10,905 parcels exchanged through the British Post Office, and of 681 in the number exchanged through the agency of the Peninsular and Oriental Company, or, altogether, an increase of 11,586, or 7·32 per cent., in the number of parcels in both directions between India and the United Kingdom. The parcels carried to India by the Peninsular and Oriental Agency chiefly consist of book parcels at the special rate of 6d. a pound; not less than 32,833 out of the total of 37,784 were parcels of this character; but in future, owing to the reduction of the postage rates on book packets, this business may be expected to fall off. During its continuance it has been a distinct advantage to the public. In the parcel traffic with other countries, there was an increase, but the transactions are yet not of much importance, though it may be added that the number of parcels from Egypt has doubled in the year. The total number has now reached 1,431, most of which are believed to contain cigarettes. The steady and continuous progress of the foreign parcel traffic as a whole since 1873-74 will be seen from the table in the margin. General results of Foreign Parcel Post.

Delivery work of the year.

13. The figures given in paragraph 8 of this report show that 317,952,646 letters, post-cards, newspapers, packets and parcels were issued for delivery during the year. These figures are only approximate, being calculated from actual enumerations made for a week at a time twice during the year, and represent the delivery of the mails properly so called. In order, however, to ascertain the entire delivery work of the year, it is necessary to add the number of money orders which are also now delivered and paid by postmen. The entire delivery work is shown by the following figures:—

|---|---|
| Sent out for delivery (including 7,380,101 money orders) . | 325,332,747 |
| Received back undelivered . . . . . . | 8,745,595 |
| Balance actually delivered . . . . . . . | 316,587,152 |
| Sent to Dead-Letter Offices . . . . . . | 3,205,707 |
| | 319,792,859 |

These figures show that the percentage of articles delivered to the whole number sent out for delivery was 97·31 as compared with 98·26 in the previous year.

Dead-Letter Offices

14. The total number of letters, post-cards and other articles, excluding money orders, that reached the various Dead-Letter Offices of which there are eleven in number, was 4,267,016 as compared with 4,214,448 received in those offices in the previous year. The distribution of these articles among the different Dead-Letter Offices, and the way in which they were disposed of, are shown in detail in Appendix IV of which a summary is given at the end of this paragraph. Of the total number of articles, 377,953 were successfully disposed of by being re-issued to corrected addresses, while 1,711,749 were returned to the senders, and 759,703 were found to be unreturnable. As an illustration of the character of the work that our Dead-Letter Offices are, at times, called upon to perform, it may be mentioned that over 1,100 unpaid articles, all posted at the Akola railway station in Berar for delivery at Bodvad in Khandesh, were received in the Bombay Dead-Letter Office as undeliverable, having been refused, with one consent, by the persons to whom they were addressed. Each cover when opened was found to contain only a piece of blank paper, and it was ascertained on enquiry that the sender of these letters was a person of unsound mind who was in the habit of travelling from place to place, and had posted all these letters, chiefly to officials, during the month of May.

Special incidents in Dead-Letter Office work.

15. A large amount of valuable property was found, as usual, in letters and other articles, posted without addresses, or with addresses so incorrect and incomplete that the covers had to be opened in order that the senders might be traced. The total value of such property, including cheques, bills of exchange, currency notes and jewellery, amounted to R2,12,263 in the Dead Letter Offices at Calcutta, Bombay and Madras, all of which, with the exception of articles of the value of R17,725, was duly delivered. There was an increase in the number of articles posted without any address at all, and it is estimated that 3,400 letters and postcards, 10,700 newspapers and 2,500 book packets of this description were received in the Dead Letter Office, Calcutta, as having been posted in the Lower Provinces. A large proportion of these consist of trade circulars and notices, issued by the thousand, some number of which always reach the Post Office with blank faces. Six currency notes of the value of R50 each were found in a letter without any address in the Bombay Dead Letter Office, and it was afterwards ascertained that they had been stolen by a postal official from a letter posted with a proper address, and disposed of in this way, because the thief was afraid of detection in passing them. The number of foreign newspapers and book packets received in the Bombay Dead Letter Office without wrappers was 6,987 as compared with 6,573 in the previous year, but the total newspaper and packet mail from the United Kingdom alone amounted to nearly six million articles. On the whole, with the exception of the case mentioned in the preceding paragraph, there has been nothing very remarkable in the year's experience of Dead Letter Office work.

Sale of Postage Stamps, &c.

16. Particulars regarding the sale of post-cards, postage stamps and embossed envelopes will be found in Appendix V, and similar information regarding service post-cards and postage stamps in appendix VI. A statement compiled from these appendices, showing the sales of each class of post-card, postage stamp and embossed envelope is given on the next page. Altogether there was an increase of R2,47,933 in the value of ordinary stamps, and of R88,124 in the value of service stamps sold during the year. The largest sales of ordinary stamps were in the Bombay Circle, where they reached the sum of nearly 18½ lakhs of rupees, while in Madras the sales amounted to more than 17 lakhs, and in Bengal to about 17 lakhs of rupees. The inland post-card with a ¼-anna impressed stamp has now for the third year maintained an undisputed pre-eminence in popularity. The total number sold was 73¾ millions, or more than five millions in excess of the number sold in the previous year. The small half-anna envelope, which is sold for the nominal value of the embossed stamp, comes next with a sale of over 62 millions, but there has practically been no advance on the sale of last year, while the ½-anna postage stamp occupies the third place with a sale of over 41½ millions. There was a falling off in the sales of Foreign post-cards, both single and reply, and of 1-anna envelopes, for which no special explanation can be given, but the decrease in the sales of the 4½-anna envelopes and of the 4-anna and 4½-anna postage stamps is due to the reduction of the letter postage to the United Kingdom and Aden with effect from 1st January 1891. As stated elsewhere in this report, the stocks of 4½-anna stamps and envelopes were overprinted with the 2½-anna postage rate to meet immediate requirements, and the sales of these amounted to R36,814 and R11,185 respectively. There was an increase in the sales of service post-cards and postage stamps of all denominations except in the case of the special envelopes for soldiers. Apart from the sales of postage stamps, 1-anna revenue or receipt stamps of the aggregate value of R2,21,013 were sold during the year through the agency of the Post Office, and in Burma, general stamps of the value of R33,574 were sold by postmasters on behalf of Government. It may be added that the registration envelopes and the square embossed envelopes, for which a charge is made on account of stationery, have begun to command an increased sale. The total number of the small registration envelopes sold during the year was 3½ lakhs, or about a lakh in advance of the sales two years ago. The square ½-anna and 1-anna envelopes are chiefly in demand among the European community, and as they become better known they will no doubt secure a greater popularity. Special steps have been taken year by year to bring them before the public, but it has been found by experience that it requires a long time and much iteration to make the public in this country realise what the Post Office provides in this respect.

17. During the year it was discovered that a counterfeit one-rupee stamp was in use. The discovery was made in the first instance by a Post Office Examiner in the Punjab, and immediately afterwards information was received from the Home Authorities that a stamp dealer in England had drawn attention to the counterfeit stamp. As these stamps appeared to have been used in the Bombay post office immediate enquiries were set on foot there, and the Bombay Police were successful in tracing and arresting the forger, who turned out to be a Poona Brahmin of the name of Kondu Sakharam, who had been at one time employed in the Trigonometrical Survey of India. The appliances used by him in producing the counterfeit stamps were of the simplest character, and the following short description of his method will be found interesting. He had prepared a die of the one-rupee stamp in white stone which was set in wood, and thirty-nine of these dies had been made from time to time before he succeeded in producing a sufficiently accurate representation of the original stamp. This die was thoroughly cleaned with kokam or mangosteen, and then covered with an oily substance or ink, of the colour of the one-rupee stamp, which was carefully spread over it by the forger's finger. A piece of paper was then placed on the die and rubbed with a shell, and on being removed was found to bear a wonderfully close representation of the genuine stamp. The stamp so produced was then placed with its face down on a piece of metal, moistened with water, and had a water-mark die, that had been separately prepared, gently hammered upon it. It was afterwards put upon a small square of tin, of the same size as the genuine stamp, marked with the correct number of holes for the purpose of perforation, and carefully perforated with a small needle-like instrument. The whole process occupied about ten minutes. The number of counterfeit stamps successfully passed by the forger and his accomplices was about 1,000, and so tedious a process as that described could never have been extensively employed. He and his chief accomplice, a stamp vendor, were prosecuted in the Bombay High Court, and sentenced to ten years' transportation each. Some few of the counterfeit stamps found their way into the Bombay post office through the complicity of some of the clerks, and one of these committed suicide when the forger was arrested. A new one-rupee stamp combining two colours has now been introduced.

Forgery of the one-rupee postage stamp.

Section IV.—District Post.

18. There has been no change of any consequence during the year in the conditions of the District Post or in its administration. The sources of revenue from which District Post establishments are maintained, vary in different provinces, as will be seen from columns 6 and 7 of the statement on the next page, and from the notes at foot of that statement. The primary object of the District Post is to provide postal communication between the head-quarters of districts and revenue and police stations in the interior of the country, but its funds have been largely spent for many years past on rural delivery and the postal development of backward districts, where, in accordance with the rules governing its work, the Imperial Post Office could not ordinarily open ground. The actual management of the working of the District Post was in the hands of the heads of postal circles under the control of local Governments, though some small sums are still expended by district officers. During the year under report, a large number of remunerative District Post establishments in the Madras Circle were taken over by the Imperial Post, and similar steps will have to be taken before long in other parts of the country. Apart from this, however, there was no change of any importance during the year.

General results of the year.

19. The statement on page 12 compares for the past two years, the establishments, income, expenditure, and operations of the District Post. The total income for the year was R 10,71,754 and the expenditure R 10 29,369. There was a slight increase in the number of District Post offices, postmen and village postmen, an increase of 167 in the number of letter-boxes, and a decrease of 1,134 miles in the length of the mail lines which was mainly caused by the transfers already referred to, of various District Post lines to the Imperial Post in the Madras Circle. There was an increase of 383,021 in the number of articles received for delivery through the agency of the District Post, and an increase of 91,885 in the number posted for despatch, while the percentage of articles returned as undeliverable rose from 4·88 to 4·90. Details of letters and other postal articles sent to and received from the District Post are given, according to Postal Circles, in Appendix VII.

Section V.—Money Orders.

Inland money orders General results.

20. The total number of money order offices at the close of the year was 9,542 as compared with 9,478 at the close of the previous year. The number of inland money orders issued was nearly 7⅓ millions, their aggregate value more than 15¾ crores of rupees, and the commission realized in excess of 19⅓ lakhs of rupees. The table in the margin shows the progress in this branch of business since the Post Office undertook the issue and payment of money order in 1880. The progress of the year is represented by an increase of Rs. 1,12,38,156 in the amount for which money orders were issued, and an increase of Rs. 1,42,248 in the actual amount of commission realized by the Department. The average value of a money order was R21-8-6, as compared with R21-10-10 in the previous year.

The Post Office can now look back at a complete decade of money order business since the work was taken over from the Civil treasuries, and it may safely be said that no step ever taken by Government has proved more popular in this country than the provision of a safe means of remitting small sums of money through the ever-widening agency of the Department. Almost from the first the normal increase in the yearly number of orders has been about half a million, and now in 1890-91 the commission realized has amounted to 19⅓ lakhs as compared with 5⅓ lakhs in 1880-81. This branch of Post-Office business, however, is not without its special anxieties. Funds have to be provided for the payment of money orders in every part of the Empire, and arrangements have to be made, sometimes in circumstances of no small difficulty, for the removal of the money paid in for the issue of money orders at many hundred post offices. The payment again of money orders at the doors of the persons to whom they are sent, a system which only a few European countries have yet adopted, necessarily involves much responsibility to post masters as well as to postmen, while the audit of this vast mass of money orders is a work of some magnitude and expense. But with the experience of this decade behind us, it may fairly be claimed that the organization of the Post Office has proved to be not unequal to the task which it has undertaken.

The figures relating to the Bombay postal circle include transactions with the Portugese settlements of Goa and Damaon; the figures relating to the Punjab postal circle include transactions with the Native States of Patiala, Nabha, Jhind, Chamba and Faridkot, and the figures relating to the Central India postal circle include transactions with the Native State of Gwalior.

As in previous years, the money order business of the Bengal circle was more extensive than that of any other circle. The remittances from Calcutta alone were 453,238 for a total sum of more than 83½ lakhs of rupees, while the number of money orders actually paid in Calcutta was 745,415 for a total amount of 143⅓ lakhs of rupees. The great disparity between the issues and payments was due, as explained in previous years' reports, to the enormous use made of the value-payable system by merchants and tradesmen in Calcutta. Of the total number of money orders paid by the Calcutta General Post Office and its town sub-offices, about 484,750, or 65 per cent., were value-payable money orders. In other respects the general flow of the money order business of the country shows no special change. In the North-Western Provinces, Behar and Oudh, with their large emigrant population, the number of money order payments is still largely in excess of the issues, whereas in Burma, the Central Provinces, Assam, Sind and Central India, the issues were far greater than the payments. As noticed in last year's report, the remittances from Burma were nearly five times as numerous as the payments in that province.

Revenue money orders.

22. The use of the money order system as a means of remitting land-revenue has again made steady progress in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and in the Lower Provinces. In the first-named provinces the number of revenue money orders rose from 115,857 in 1889-90 to 120,029 during the year under report, the amount of revenue remitted in this way rose from R23,20,465 to R25,48,842, and the commission realized by the Post Office from R30,854 to R33,488. In the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the number of revenue money orders received for payment rose from R1,46,503 to R1,56,701, and the amount of revenue remitted from R11,39,444 to R15,70,847. The revenue money order system was introduced experimentally on the 1st August 1890 in the following districts of the Madras Presidency, viz., Tinnevelly, Madura, Tanjore, South Arcot, Chingleput and North Arcot, and the results of the first 8 months of the experiment show that 467 revenue money orders were issued of the aggregate value of R4,912, and that a commission of R84-8 was realized. As already stated the present action, taken, of course, with the concurrence of the Madras Government, is purely experimental, and owing to the character of the land-revenue system in that Presidency it is not expected that money orders will ever be largely used for revenue remittances. The system was also introduced tentatively from 1st November 1890 in the districts of Delhi, Lahore, Ferozepore and Sealkote in the Punjab, and during the five months that it was in force in those districts, 878 revenue money orders aggregating in value R71,115 were issued, on which the commission realized was R769.

Remittance of miscellaneous Government dues by money order.

23. There was also a further development of the system for the remittance by money order of miscellaneous Government dues in the Lower Provinces, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. In the Lower Provinces, which include the Behar and Eastern Bengal postal circles, 53,216 official money orders aggregating in value R9,35,798 were paid during the year by book transfer as compared with 49,886 money orders aggregating in value R8,41,046 paid in the previous year; while in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the number of such money orders issued during the year was 12,460, of an aggregate value of R2,39,744, as compared with 10,101, of the aggregate value of R1,86,233, issued during the previous year.

Rent money orders.

24. The number of rent money orders issued in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh during the year 1890-91 was 55,036, and the aggregate value of the remittances R7,07,403 as compared with 53,126 orders for R6,97,994 issued in 1889-90. The average value of each money order was about R12$\frac{7}{8}$, and the commission realised from these orders was R11,276. A similar system was introduced from the 1st September 1889 in six districts of the Lower Provinces of Bengal, was extended from the 1st July 1889 to some other districts, and with effect from the 1st July of the year under report was further extended to all the districts in which the Bengal Tenancy Act is in force. The number of rent money orders issued, was 23,385 as compared with 5,001 issued in the previous year, and the amount of rent paid in this way was R2,66,869 as compared with R44,290 in the previous year. The average value of each rent money order issued in the Lower Provinces was R11$\frac{3}{8}$, and the total commission realized was R4,710, as compared with R890 realized in 1889-90.

Money order business with Native States.

25. The money order transactions with the Native States of India and with the Portuguese Settlements are shewn in the statement below. On the whole there has been an increase in the number of the money orders exchanged, and this class of business is slowly but steadily increasing with the Portuguese Settlements, and the Native States of Gwalior and Patiala :—

The number of telegraphic money orders issued was 84,975, representing an aggregate value of over 92½ lakhs of rupees, as compared with 71,929 in the previous year aggregating in value over 76½ lakhs of rupees. The commission realized was R94,724 as compared with R78,575 realized in the previous year. As noticed in previous years' reports, it will be seen from the foregoing statement that nearly half the total number of telegraphic money orders were issued from Burma, most of which were for payment in the Madras Presidency. There is reason to believe that the greater part of these transactions are business remittances by contractors and others, and the average value of telegraphic money orders both from Burma and for India generally stands very high, the total average being not less than R108-15-1

It may be of interest to add that, in accordance with a special arrangement introduced in 1885, 239 orders of the aggregate value of R29,886-7 were telegraphed to Bombay during the year to be advised to foreign countries, as against 187 of the aggregate value of R25,905-9 in the previous year. Of these orders 174 were for the United Kingdom, 28 for Goa, 13 for Germany, 10 for Italy, and the rest for other countries.

Money order frauds.

27. For several years past it has been necessary to refer to a special class of frauds to which the telegraphic money order system has given rise, and it is satisfactory to find that the steps which have been taken by the Post Office to secure that such orders shall not be paid until the payees have been identified by well known residents of the place where they may be, have had the effect of limiting, at any rate, these cases. In the Bombay Presidency alone there were seven cases of the kind in the year 1886-87 in which a sum of nearly R1,000 was obtained by swindlers, and it was then pointed out how readily the telegraphic money order system could be used in this country for purposes of swindling. "The common practice—it was said—of travelling, especially to make pilgrimages, among the well-to-do classes, the readiness with which travellers confide practiculars regarding their life and intentions to chance acquaintances, and the credulity with which new-comers at a place are accepted as being what they give themselves out, are favorable conditions for the commission of this kind of fraud, of which clever swindlers have not been slow to avail themselves." Since then, cases of this character have been falling off in number, and during the year under report, there are only two to be mentioned, involving a sum of R150. The first of these occurred at Sabarmati in the Ahmedabad district of the Bombay Presidency, where a swindler telegraphed in the name of an acquaintance to the latter's brother at Aligarh asking for R50. The money was at once sent in reply to the telegram, and the false personator afterwards absconded, and before he could be arrested committed suicide. The second case occurred at Gauhati in Assam and was of a similar nature. The false personator, however, was not traced and the postal officials in this instance paid the money without proper enquiry.

28. Foreign money orders for the United Kingdom, for the Colonies, and for European countries and Egypt are issued in sterling, payments being made by the remitters at the rates of exchange fixed by the Post Office from time to time for this purpose. The method of determining the rate of exchange was under consideration during the year, as the accounts of 1889-90 showed that a small loss had occurred on the exchange with foreign countries and colonies other than the United Kingdom and countries served through it, and the procedure finally adopted will render such a case impossible in future. The average rate of exchange for the year was 1*s.* 6¼*d.* per rupee as compared with 1*s.* 4¼*d.* in 1889-90, but it is not the object of the Post Office to offer especially favourable rates for remitting to the public. Details of the sterling money order exchanges of the year are given in the table below:— Foreign money orders in sterling.

The only really important exchange as yet is that with the United Kingdom, and the number of remittances sent home from India during the year under report, 48,922, is much larger than the numbers sent in any previous year. The total amount remitted is also the highest yet reached, although the average value of money orders to the mother country has been decreasing of late years. The orders paid in India show a slight decrease, and there seems to have been a falling off in the remittances from most of the countries with which these exchanges exist, but apart from the United Kingdom, Egypt is the only country that has hitherto sent any substantial sum to India by means of money orders. It may be added that money orders were, for the first time, exchanged during the year under report with Malta.

29. There was one addition to the money order exchanges in Indian currency during the year, owing to the arrangements made with the Imperial British East Africa Company for the introduction of a money order system Foreign money orders in Indian currency.

between India and the post offices in the Company's territory through the Mombassa office with effect from 1st September 1890. The number and amount of remittances to and from each country will be found in the table below:—

It will be seen from the above that the money order business with Ceylon, like all our postal relations with that country, is constantly growing in importance. The labour in Ceylon is drawn almost entirely from Southern India, and the remittances, made chiefly by coolies to their relations, have now reached the yearly total of R8,74,000. It will be further noticed that advantage has already been taken of the new exchange with Mombassa.

The actual amount which lapsed to Government during the year was R4,729 as compared with R3,386 in the previous year, and the total balance standing on the register of forfeited money orders at the end of the year was R49,038 against R51,456 standing at the close of the previous year.

Aggregate money order transactions, Inland and Foreign.

31. The following statement gives an abstract of the entire money order business of the Post Office in the year including inland and foreign money orders, both ordinary and telegraphic, the foreign sterling money orders being shown in Indian currency at the rates in force when the transactions took place:—

32. The statement given in the margin shows that there was for the first time a substantial increase during the year under report in the sales of British postal orders. The total number of orders sold was 39,683 as compared with 22,643 in 1889-90, and the total value, including the poundage of the British Post Office, amounted to R277,608 as compared with R154 973 in the previous year. The most popular orders were, as usual, those for 20 shillings, 10 shillings and 5 shillings in the order in which they are here mentioned. The total commission of the Indian Post Office on the sales of British postal orders was R1,295 against R716 in the previous year. As the sales have been so insignificant in the past, it was found necessary during the year to return a large part of the reserve stock of these orders to London, and they are now only kept for sale at special offices where there seems some likelihood of their being in demand. Notwithstanding all that has been done in the way of directing public attention to these orders, it is the constant experience of postal officials that their existence is still very inadequately known, but now that there has been an increase of 17,000 in the year's sales better results may be looked for in future. ## Section VI.—Savings Banks.

33. On the next page will be found a statement in which the Savings Bank transactions of 1890-91 are shown in detail according to postal circles, and the total transactions of the year are compared with those of the previous year. At the close of the year, there were 330 Head Banks and 6,125 Sub-Banks, or a total of 6,455 offices open for the transaction of Savings Bank business, against 6,350 in the preceding year, showing an increase during the year of 105 offices. The total number of accounts at the end of the year was 408,544 against 358,272 at the end of the previous year, the increase being 14·03 per cent. The reduction of the maximum limit for yearly deposits from R500 to R200 with effect from the 1st April 1889 had necessarily the effect of reducing the deposits during 1889-90, and in the result the total deposits fell from R433 lakhs in 1888-89 to R3,27,83,155 in that year. They have now risen again to R3,47,55,976 owing to the ordinary growth of Savings Bank business, while the withdrawals have fallen from R3,50,51, 441 in 1889-90 to R3,21,69,668 for the year under report. Normal conditions may, therefore, be said to have been now re-established with the lower maximum limits. The balance at credit of depositors at the close of 1890-91 stood at R6,34,67,408 against R5,86,96,755 for the preceding year, showing an increase of 8·12 per cent. at the close of the year under report. The interest earned by depositors during 1890-91 was R21,84,345 against R21,00,360 during the previous year, and the average balance at credit of each depositor was R155·35 as compared with R163·83 in the previous year. Of the 408,544 active accounts at the end of the year, 20,131 were Public, Regimental, and Police accounts with a balance of R56,36,948 in their favour, and of the remaining 388,413 accounts, 48,109 were opened on behalf of minors by their parents and relatives, with a balance in their favour of R1,08,48,769. Of the entire number of accounts standing on the books of the Post Office at the close of the year 68 per cent. were for sum less than R100. General results of the year.

34. It will be seen from the preceding statement in which the Postal circles are arranged according to the total balances at the close of the year as shown in column 13, that the highest number of accounts open and the largest balance in favour of depositors at the close of the year was in the Bombay circle. The highest average balance for each account is still to be found in that circle, and in this respect Sind stands next to Bombay and then the Punjab. The lowest average balance at the credit of each depositor was, as noticed in last year's report, in Madras. Incidence of Savings Bank work according to circles.

35. The statement below shows the number and value of accounts held by Natives of India and by Europeans and Eurasians. Of the total number of accounts, 88·7 per cent. were held by Natives of the country. The number of accounts held by Europeans and Eurasians was again highest in the Madras Circle where there were 9,626 such accounts, and Bengal comes next with 7,005 accounts:— Depositors, Europeans and Natives of India.

36. The statement on the next page is a classification of depositors according to their professions. The highest number of accounts was held by the professional class, representing nearly 42 per cent. of the whole; while the number Depositors according to occupation.

held by depositors included under the head "Indefinite" stands next being 37 per cent. of the total. This classification does not pretend to any great accuracy, but so far as broad results are concerned, it is true that the great body of depositors in our bank consists of servants of Government, of servants of local bodies, and Railway Companies, and of pleaders and other professional classes of the country :—

It will be seen that there was an increase over the figures of 1889-90 of 8,644 in the number of letters, and of 16,610 in the number of parcels insured during the year under report, while the total value of the property insured fell off by about a crore of rupees or 11 per cent., and the amount of insurance fees by about R 19,000 or eight per cent. The general result was due to the introduction, from the 1st May 1890, of a limit of R 1,000 to the value for which a postal article can be insured. The circumstances which gave rise to the prescription of this limit were mentioned in the Annual Report for 1889-90 and need not be specially referred to here, but it may be said that the operation of the new rule, whether judged by the actual increase in the number of transactions, or by the average value of an insured article by post, has in no way interfered with the legitimate insurance business of the Post Office, while a ground of serious risk and anxiety has been removed. The heaviest transactions of the year were in the Bombay circle, where 62,535 articles were insured, of which 8,858 were letters, and 53,677 were parcels, of an aggregate value of R2,90,36,806. The great bulk of this business was done in the Bombay post office and its town sub-offices which dealt with more than 46,000 articles in all out of the total of 62,535; Madras stands next to Bombay with a total of 61,268 articles, of which 28,390 were letters and 32,878 parcels; while Bengal occupies the third place with a total of 44,913 articles, of which 22,685 were letters and 22,228 parcels. The average value for which each letter was insured during the year 1890-91 was R270 as compared with R323 in the previous year, and the average value for which each parcel was insured was R320 against R405 in 1889-90.

Claims for compensation.

39. There were 28 claims for compensation for the alleged loss of insured articles during the year as compared with 20 in 1889-90 and 29 in 1888-89, and in 21 out of the 28 cases the liability of Post Office was admitted. The increase in the number of these claims is partly accounted for by the fact that there were not less than five cases of highway robbery of the mail during the year in which insured articles were carried away, while there were no losses of the kind during the previous year. In 15 of the 21 cases in which responsibility was accepted, the loss occurred through fraud or neglect on the part of the servants of the Post Office, and in the remaining six cases through highway robberies. A statement of the cases in which compensation was paid during the last two years is given on the margin, and it will be seen that the payments by the Post Office in the year under report amounted to R7,484-5 or 3·55 per cent. of the total amount realized as insurance fees. Of the seven cases in which the Post Office declined to accept responsibility, two were cases of attempted fraud on the part of the senders of parcels, who actually enclosed stones in one instance and lead in the other, instead of the gold and precious stones declared to be the contents of the parcels. In both cases, the senders were prosecuted and sentenced to terms of imprisonment In three other cases, insured letters declared to contain currency notes were found on arrival at destination to have no enclosures, and it was established by the enquiry made that the senders had failed to enclose the notes in two instances, while in the third, there was reason to believe that a servant of the person addressed had received and made away with the notes, and the claim for compensation was not pressed. In the sixth case, an insured parcel was insecurely packed and some of the contents fell out during transit, and as it was discovered that the contents had not been truthfully declared for insurance, compensation was withheld. In the remaining case, the complaint of loss was not made till long after the expiration of the prescribed period, and the sender's claim was therefore disallowed.

Section VIII.—The Value-payable system.

Value payable Post.

40. The development of the value-payable business since its introduction in December 1877 is shown in the marginal table, from which it will be seen that the popularity of the system, which has been constantly growing in the past, was well sustained during the year under report. The number of articles sent by the value payable post had reached a million in 1889-90, and has increased during the year by more than 98,000; the total amount that the Post Office had to recover from the persons to whom these articles was sent, and to remit to the senders, was in excess of 116 lakhs of rupees; and the amount of commission realized on the transactions of the year was R2,12,200. The increase in the work has been fairly general, but there has been no material change in its distribution between the different parts of the country. As of late years, since the value payable system has grown into importance, nearly half this business of the year was transacted in Bengal, and chiefly in Calcutta, in which alone 484,753 value payable articles of all kinds were posted with a total declared value, to be recovered by the Post Office for payment to Calcutta tradesmen, of nearly 53 lakhs of rupees.

Classification of value payable articles.

41. In the statement on the margin, details are given regarding the different classes of articles sent through the post as value payable. The increase on the whole was primarily due to the increase in the number of unregistered packets, which rose from 408,156 in 1889-90 to 451,141 during the year under report, and to the increase in the number of value payable parcels which rose from 409,946 in 1889-90 to 446,399 during the year under report. The largest proportional increase, however, was in the number of railway receipt notes sent by the value payable post, which has now reached 107,386 as compared with 85,125 in 1889-90.

| | Number. | Value. | Commission. | Average value of each article. | | | Average commission on each article. |
| | | R | R | R | a. | p. | Annas. |
| Value payable parcels | 446,399 | 42,50,509 | 81,831 | 9 | 8 | 4 | 3 |
| Value payable Railway receipts | 107,386 | 26,18,815 | 35,082 | 24 | 6 | 2 | 5 |

| Value payable unregistered packets | 451,141 | 19,82,984 | 58,302 | 4 | 6 | 3 | 2 |
| TOTAL | 1,108,888 | 1,16,41,972 | 2,12,200 | 10 | 7 | 11 | 3 |

The average value of each article, calculated on the whole business of the year in all its classes, was R10-7-11 against R10-4-5 in the previous year, and it may be noted with satisfaction, that not a single instance of abuse of the value payable post was brought to notice during the year. It should be added that from the 1st January 1890, the value payable system was introduced experimentally between India and Ceylon, on the understanding that postage must in all cases be prepaid, and that a special limit of value of R150 is to be adopted. Special statistics recorded for the three months of January, February and March show, that 755 value payable articles aggregating in value R10,045 were despatched from India to Ceylon, while 24 value payable articles aggregating in value R293 were received from that country, and there is reason to believe that this new extension of the system will prove an advantage to India.

Section IX.—Miscellaneous.

42. The statements below show the position of the old and new departmental security funds. The new fund was created in 1883, and all subscriptions realized from Post Office servants are credited to it, whereas all charges to be met by the security fund are debited against the old fund. The balance at credit of the old fund has thus been reduced from R58,129 on the 31st March 1890 to R41,826 on the 31st March 1891, while the balance of the new fund has risen from R3,30,112 on the 31st March 1890 to R3,10,742 on the 31st March 1891. *R2, excess shewn last year owing to the refund of excess realization in that year having been shewn as R201, instead of R203.

Of the R280 shewn as a debit against the old fund on account of rewards R200 was paid to an examiner of postal accounts of the Punjab Circle for detecting the forgery of the rupee stamp which has already been referred to, but the total sum paid as rewards does not take into account a payment of £50 sanctioned by the Secretary of State to a Stamp dealer in England for the information furnished by him in connection with the same forgery, as no formal intimation of the payment of this reward has yet reached the Comptroller's office. With the permission of Government, the surplus of the security fund above three lakhs was invested during the year under report in Government securities.

43. The number of complaints made by the public, which came to the knowledge of the heads of postal circles during the year was 8,188 as compared with 7,860 in the previous year. These figures do not include a large number of petty complaints regarding delays in delivery, mis-sending of letters, &c., received direct by Post Office superintendents and postmasters, but they may be accepted as embracing, besides all the serious complaints, the great majority of the complaints which are not mere enquiries. Of the total number of these complaints, 3,457, or more than 42 per cent. were found to be groundless, and it is beyond doubt that every year postal officials receive a large number of hasty, ill-considered and unnecessary references from the public. It would be strange, perhaps, if the case were otherwise, when almost every class of the community has daily transactions with the Post Office, and in India the number of such complaints is enhanced by the readiness of the Natives of the country to appeal against an official order, even though it take the form of a reply from a postal official. On the subject of complaints, generally, what has been said in the past can only now be repeated. The Post Office is always ready to receive well-founded complaints, when facts can be given, and, indeed, recognizes them as a valuable check on the working of the department, while every endeavour is made to utilize enquiries as an effectual means of fixing responsibility, and preventing neglect of work.

Complaints regarding special classes of articles.

44. The number of complaints received during the year regarding registered letters, ordinary parcels, insured articles, and value-payable articles is shown in the statement below. The total number of these complaints rose from 331 in 1889-90 to 370 in 1890-91, and the number of cases in which blame was established against the Post Office was 106 as compared with 82 in the former year, while there were 35 more cases in which complaints proved groundless, and the number of cases in which no definite conclusion was arrived at, or which were pending was 20 less than in the previous year. There was, of course, a large increase in the transactions to which this class of complaint refers, but apart from this it may fairly be said that the number of cases is not important in comparison with the magnitude of the business of the Post Office in these special branches of postal work, when it is remembered that nearly six million registered letters and nearly two million parcels were posted during the year, that 262,727 articles were insured, and that the value-payable transactions exceeded a million.

45. The offences punishable by law, which were established against servants of the Post Office, are shown in Appendix VIII, and a summary of the figures is given in the margin. Of the 271 offences, 108 were frauds in connection with the money order business, 17 were frauds in connection with the Savings Bank business, and most of the remaining offences were cases of misappropriation of Post Office collections. Of the offenders 87 were departmental postmasters and clerks, 35 were schoolmasters and other extraneous agents employed as postmasters, 93 were postmen and village postmen, 2 were overseers and 5 were mail runners. The total amount of defalcations and losses due to the dishonesty or negligence of Post Office servants was R39,529-14-11, of which R20,750-5-10 was recovered from the offenders or their sureties, R3,467-2-7 was written off against the guarantee fund, and R15,312-6-6 remained unadjusted at the close of the year. | Number of legal convictions | 127 | 133 |

46. Among the cases summarized in the preceding paragraph there were one or two signal instances of fraud which may be separately mentioned. The head clerk of the Aligarh post office in the North-Western Provinces was found to have been carrying on a series of frauds for some years owing to the neglect of the postmasters of the office, and to have embezzled various sums amounting to R7,650. Of this amount, R6,800 was recovered from the two postmasters who had held charge of the office during the period when the frauds were committed, and the balance, viz., R850, was written off to the guarantee fund. The head clerk was prosecuted on a charge of criminal breach of trust and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for seven years. In Assam, the sub-postmaster of the Kalighat Post Office in the district of Sylhet absconded in April 1890, after misappropriating R3,279-11-0, representing the cash balance of the office and the amount of various money orders and Savings Bank deposits. It was also discovered that he had issued a money order for R6 to a fictitious address, and when it was returned as unclaimed, had altered the figure to R600 and sent the money order to another place with the intention of obtaining payment through a cousin who was to represent the fictitious payee. This fraud, however, was detected by the postmaster of the office to which the order was sent and payment was withheld. The culprit succeeded in evading arrest and the case was pending at the close of the year. During the year the sub-postmaster of Angul (Cuttack District) committed suicide after misappropriating his office cash amounting to R362-6-4, and a postal probationer of the Bombay post office, who had been concerned in introducing some of the forged rupee stamps into that office, also put an end to his life when the Police began their enquiry into the case. In another case a runner, while being examined by the Police in connection with an alleged highway robbery of the mail, wounded himself in the abdomen with his sword and died from the effects of the wound in hospital a few days after. It is believed that the runner himself committed the robbery, and to avoid the consequences of his act committed suicide. Special instances of fraud by Post Office servants.

47. One fraud in connection with the Savings Bank was committed by a person not belonging to the department, in which a sum of R370 was wrongfully withdrawn, but subsequently recovered. Excluding cases of highway robbery, which are separately dealt with, there were 19 cases of housebreaking and theft of Government money from post office safes and mails, the total amount stolen was R4,566-10, of which R1,398-3-6 was recovered, R2,557-5-9 was written off to the Post Office Guarantee Fund, R441-5-3 debited to Government as actual loss and R169-11-6 was outstanding at the close of the year. The Offence by persons not belonging to the Post Office.

most serious case under this head occurred at Madura in the Madras circle where the post office was broken into and a sum of R2,785-15-11 stolen.

Highway robberies and attacks upon the mail.

48. From the abstract given in the margin, it will be seen that there were 29 highway robberies of the mail during the year, as compared with 25 in 1889-90, and 40 in 1888-89. Of the total number of robberies, 21 occurred in British territory and 8 in Native States or Foreign territory. The following statement shows the postal circle and the district or Native State in which each of the mail robberies or attempts at robbery took place. There were 8 cases in the North-Western Provinces, 5 in Madras, 3 each in the Punjab, Rajputana, and the Sind and Baluchistan Circle, 2 in Central India, and 1 in each of the following circles, viz., Bombay, Behar, Central Provinces, Assam and Burma. There has been a steady decrease in the number of cases of highway robbery of the mail in the last-named province since 1887-88 when there were 10 such cases.

49. In three cases only were the contents of the plundered mail of any considerable value. In the first case, which occurred in the Bikanir State, the mail contained a cash remittance of R 1,288-5-9, postage stamps of the value of R215 and two parcels which had been insured for R300. Some of the postage stamps were subsequently recovered and the actual loss was made good by the Bikanir State. In the second case which took place in the Madura district of Madras the mail contained 3 parcels insured for R1,745, R200 in cash and R5 worth of stamps, none of which were recovered. In the third case, which occurred in the Hissar district of the Punjab, the loss to Government consisted of the value of 4 parcels insured for R 1,264. Two mail robberies were committed on the same day, the 27th August 1890, near the same spot, in Kalat territory under the Baluchistan agency, apparently by the same gang of robbers who stopped and plundered the mails travelling in both directions between Quetta and Kalat. Fortunately there were no insured articles or cash in the mail bags, and the only article of value carried off was an ordinary parcel. A third case of robbery took place on the same line on 27th November 1890. In Central India, also, two mail robberies were committed on the same day, the 13th April 1890, on the mail cart line between Mhow and Sirdarpur, but the object of the robbers was to plunder the passengers rather than the mails. In another case, the tonga carrying the mails from Dhamangaon Railway station to Yeotmal in Berar, was stopped by several men who appear to have intended to rob two wealthy Marwaris who were expected to travel with the mails on that day, but who, fortunately for themselves, had deferred their journey. In revenge for their disappointment, the robbers stripped and severely maltreated a native passenger, and they carried off a part of the mail which, however, was of little importance. In two of the eight mail robberies shown to have taken place in the North-Western Provinces, the entire mails were subsequently recovered in the houses of persons whom there was no reason to suspect of any complicity in the crime, and it is believed that the robberies were planned solely with the ulterior object of bringing these persons into trouble. In one of these cases the mail runner was found dead, with his skull fractured, on the scene of the robbery, but the Police were unable to obtain any clue to the real perpetrators. In another case in the Punjab, the mails were robbed by the inhabitants of a particular village in order that they might obtain possession of certain Police reports which had been made against them, and a mail robbery that occurred on the 16th October 1890 in the Cuddapah district of the Madras Presidency, was deliberately planned by the sender of a parcel falsely declared to contain jewellery and insured for R975, who hoped to obtain that sum as compensation from the Post Office. Fortunately the real facts were ascertained, and the sender of the parcel and his accomplices were prosecuted and sentenced to terms of imprisonment. The case shown against Bombay was only technically a highway robbery of the mail, a village postman having been assaulted while on his beat and robbed of a few annas of postage and some unregistered letters. Besides the above cases there were two attempts at highway robbery, one in a British district and the other in a Native State. The total loss of Government money in all the 29 cases of mail robbery amounted to only R483-0-6; in 7 cases the entire mail, and in 17 cases a portion of the mail, was recovered; but prosecutions were only instituted in 5 cases and convictions obtained in 3 cases. One of the mail carriers, as already described, was killed, and in 13 other cases mail carriers were severely beaten or wounded, while in 3 cases, the men received such serious injuries as to necessitate their detention in hospital or under medical treatment for a considerable period. Character of mail robberies.

50. Apart from highway robberies and attacks upon mail carts and runners the following cases which occurred during the year may be mentioned. During the disturbances in the Manipur State in March 1891, the post office at Casualties of the year.

Manipur was looted and about R900 in cash and postage stamps lost. In the rising that occurred in the Wuntho State in Upper Burma in February 1891, the station of Kawlin was attacked by a large body of rebels who plundered the post office at that place. The Sub-Postmaster made his escape and the only loss to Government was about R150 worth of postage stamps. The Pirganj post office in the Rungpore district of Bengal was blown down in a storm in June 1890, and another small post office in the Hugli district was swept away by a flood of the Damodar river in the same month. Sixteen post offices were destroyed by fire during the year, but in no case was there any serious loss of property. In the Central Provinces a runner lost his life while carrying the mail, being swept away and drowned in attempting to cross a stream which was in flood at the time. In two other cases mails were lost in crossing rivers, and during the Lushai raid in September 1890 a mail boat was sunk, but the boatmen escaped.

Post Office staff.

51. The establishment of the Imperial Post Office of all grades is shown according to postal circles in Appendix IX, and an abstract of this appendix is given in the margin. The total numerical strength of the Post Office has increased by 1,550 during the year and now stands at 44,979. The largest increase was in the staff of postmen and village postmen, the North-West Provinces and Punjab Circles together accounting for more than three-fourths of this increase.

Cost of printing by private presses.

52. The charges incurred during the year on account of printing work done for the Post Office by private presses amounted to R52,511, as compared with R81,164 in the preceding year. There was an unusual increase in these charges in the Assam Circle on account of the cost of printing village directories, and in the Eastern Bengal Circle on account of the printing of notices in connection with the introduction of the rent money order system in that circle. But these increases were more than counterbalanced by the decrease of expenditure in the Railway Mail Service, Bengal and Bombay Circles.

Section X.—Non-Postal Branches of the Post Office.

Telegraph work of the Post Office.

53. During the year under review 68 combined Post and Telegraph offices were opened and 11 combined offices were closed. There was, therefore, an increase of 57 in the total number of combined offices. Of the 68 new combined offices, 62 were at places which had previously been without a Government Telegraph office, and 51 at places at which there was previously no Government or Railway Telegraph office. For several years past the development of this system has been more marked in the Madras Circle than elsewhere, and 17 new combined offices were opened in that Circle during the year, Bombay coming next with 11 new offices. At the close of the year under report there were 949 Government Telegraph offices in all, of which 260 were Departmental Telegraph offices, and 689 were combined Post and Telegraph offices. In connection with the combination of the duties of the two departments it may be mentioned that during the year 221 servants of the Post office qualified as signallers, while 73 were still under training at the end of the year, and that at nine offices the postal work is done by a Telegraph Master or regular signaller of the Telegraph Department.

54. The statement given below shows the traffic statistics of combined offices under the Post Office according to postal circles, and it will be seen that Madras again heads the list. On the total figures of the 689 combined offices, there was an increase of 120,470 or 15·32 per cent. in the number of messages sent, and of 128, 637, or 15·91 per cent. in the number of messages received. In revenue there was an increase of R1,21,575 or 14·45 per cent. over the figures of the previous year, while the total revenue from messages sent from combined offices exceeded the expenditure on the establishments of the offices by R7,18,460. 55. In addition to the work done by combined offices as shown in the statement above, the Post Office also renders assistance to the Telegraph Department by booking at all other post offices, except a few branch offices, telegrams tendered by the public, and sending them by post to the nearest Telegraph office for onward transmission by wire. During the year under report the number of receiving offices at which telegrams were booked was greater than that in the previous year, being 1,801 as compared with 1,523, but the revenue and number of messages were almost the same as in the previous year, being R33,129 realized on 35,739 messages in 1890-91 as compared with R33,212 from 35,089 messages in 1889-90. Telegraph Receiving Offices.

For several years past the post offices in the Persian Gulf have been allowed to receive telegrams from the public for transmission by post to the nearest Telegraph office, and during the year under review the number of messages collected by these offices on account of the Indo-European Telegraph Department was 361, on which fees to the amount of R2,100-8 were realized.

56. The next non-postal service to be mentioned is the Government carrying agency and passenger service between Umballa and Simla with branch lines of the carrying agency to the hill stations of Kasauli, Dagshai, Solon, and Sabathu. In consequence of the opening of the Delhi-Kalka Railway from 1st March 1891, what was known as the lower line between Umballa and Kalka, had to be closed, and advantage was taken of this opportunity to revise the passenger rates and to republish, with certain modifications, the rules and regulations relating to this Post Office carrying Agency and Passenger Service.

service. The abolition of the section between Umballa and Kalka caused a falling off in the year's receipts by about R13,700, but there was no corresponding reduction in the expenditure for the year, because the savings effected by the reduction of establishment have been credited in the accounts for 1891-92. Owing to this and other causes the total deficit on the passenger service and bullock train, during the year, was R75,925, which is, however, less by R30,649 than the deficit in the previous year.

Receiving Salt Revenue at Post offices.

57. A new branch of non-postal service has also to be dealt with for the first time. A system of allowing purchasers of salt under the through traffic system to hand in their indents and pay the amount of the purchase money at post offices was introduced, as an experiment, in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and the Punjab from the beginning of the year under report. The main object of the system was to give small traders the opportunity of paying in the money for their indents at the place where they live, and it was hoped that this might tend to create a class of small direct purchasers and ultimately lead to a reduction in the price of salt to the consumer. The Post Office system also promised some general advantages. The salt indent, and also the railway receipt for empty bags, should the trader wish to send them, is forwarded without charge to the post office at the salt depôt, and when the consignment of salt is loaded into the bags the railway receipt for the full bags is sent back through the post office and delivered without charge to the trader at the place where the indent was handed in. The matter has been separately reported upon, and all that is necessary to say here is, that 75 lakhs of rupees were received by the Post Office on behalf of the Salt Department during the year, that the system has worked most successfully, and that there is evidence to show that the number of comparatively small purchases, under the through traffic system, has been substantially increased. But in one respect there has been a development of the system that was not contemplated. The greater part of the large sum of money received by the post office was due to the mere transfer of payments, on account of salt purchases, from the treasuries to the post offices at certain large towns and as this is no part of the original scheme and entails serious money responsiblity on the post office, a modification of the system in this respect will be necessary, and is now under consideration.

Section XI.—Financial Results.

Receipts and Expenditure according to departmental accounts.

58. The receipts and charges of the year as shown in the Post Office accounts are given in detail in Appendix X, under two main heads, postal service proper and non-postal branches, and a summary of the results is given in the statement below. The head passenger service relates to the service between Umballa and Simla, and includes the mail service between those places. No separate charge is assessed on account of the mail service, and the deficit on the passenger service as a whole is, therefore, shown in the accounts as a charge under mail-cart charges, the receipts and charges of the passenger service being taken to balance each other.

| Total . | 1,29,48,653 | 1,39,63,854 | 1,15,64,591 | 1,17,76,942 |

It will be seen that under the head postal service proper, the receipts of the year were R9,97,113 in excess of the receipts under the same head in the previous year. This is principally made up of an increase of R3,03,308 in postage and commission on account of money orders and British postal orders realized in cash, of R4,71,024 in the revenue derived from the sale of ordinary postage stamps, and of R83,984 in the revenue from service postage stamps. Under the head of non-postal branches there was a small increase of R18,088 over the receipts of the previous year. The net revenue of the Post Office realized under both heads during the year under report, was R10,15,201 in excess of the net revenue realized in 1889-90. On the other hand, the total charges of the year were R2,12,351 in excess of the charges in the previous year, and this is mainly due to an increased expenditure of R70,000 on account of increase of establishment, chiefly in the Madras and Railway Mail Service circles, and to a payment of R90,000 to State Railways in excess of the payments of the previous year on account of additional train services, the conversion of railway carriages into Post Office vans, and special train charges. Altogether, then, according to the Departmental accounts, there was a net revenue of more than 21¾ lakhs of rupees as compared with a revenue of nearly 18 lakhs in the previous year.

59. Appendix XI is a comparative abstract of the receipts and charges of the year, and includes not only items shown in the Post Office accounts, but certain other receipts and charges credited and debited to the Post Office in the Finance and Revenue accounts. These other items are shown in the margin, and if the figures relating to them are added to the previous figures, the total receipts of the year under all three heads will amount to R1,40,27,482, and the total charges to R1,39,65,357. There was, therefore, a small surplus of R62,125 as compared with a deficit of R3,43,109 in the previous year. But the District Post figures should properly be excluded from these calculations, inasmuch as the whole of the revenue derived from the District Post is not credited as such in the Finance and Revenue accounts, whereas all the charges for establishments are debited to the Post Office under head III in Appendix XI. If this is done, the surplus will rise from R62,125 to R11,41,782, and this, it must be remembered, takes no account of the special services which the Post Office is called upon to render in managing the Savings Bank without any remuneration, in maintaining postal communication for administrative and political purposes in Burma, Sikkim, and in some other parts of India, and in carrying official correspondence at exceptionally low rates. On the other hand, there are other indirect charges which should also be taken into consideration if the true financial position of the Post Office as a semi-commercial department of Government is to be ascertained. These charges are given in the margin and amounted to R10,60,522, and if this amount be deducted from the surplus of R11,41,782 already shown, the net financial result will be a surplus

Section XII.—Notice of Post Office Officials.

Mention of special services.

60. I have much pleasure in bringing to the notice of Government the services rendered to the Post Office by Mr. W. P. Symonds, the Postmaster General of Bombay, who has brought much ability, good judgment and industry to the administration of the posts in that presidency. The excellent work done by Mr. G. J. Hynes as Deputy Postmaster General of Burma, as well as in previous appointments in the directorate, was recognized by his appointment as a Postmaster General during the year under report. I may also specially mention Mr. H. C. Sheridan, the personal assistant of the Inspector General of the Railway Mail Service, for the care and ability given by him to the preparat.on of the Railway Mail Service Handbook which was completed during the year. Among the officers specially mentioned by the heads of circles may be named Mr. W. T. Van Someren and Mr. A. Bean, Superintendents of post offices, for the good service rendered by them in connection with the Hazara and Miranzai expeditions.

Column 2.—These figures represent the net proceeds of the sale of ordinary postage stamps after deducting the sale discount.

Column 3.—The great differences observable in this column are due mainly to changes of system in the treatment of official correspondence, which was charged at full letter rates up to 1865-66, at the same rates as ordinary correspondence (letters, packets, &c.) from that year to 1872-73, and afterwards at a low privileged letter rate of one anna for 10 tolas (about 4 oz.).

Column 8.—The figures in this column show the revenue undisturbed by the changes of system in respect of official correspondence detailed in the note regarding column 3.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m on Saturday, February 6th, 1892.

During the early part of the week under review the weather remained very quiet and settled throughout the whole of the Indian region with strongly marked anti-cyclonic conditions. Towards the close, however, the barometer fell briskly in the north-west, and a shallow depression appeared, which gave slightly unsettled weather to North-West India.

On the 31st January pressure was relatively low over the Bay and over the Arabian Sea, and slight gradients existed on both sides of the Peninsula, but elsewhere readings were uniform and relatively high The winds were light almost everywhere, and there was no rain in any part of the Indian region. On the 1st of February similar conditions prevailed, but the barometer was falling everywhere. The wind was northerly over the Bay, easterly over the west of the Peninsula, and variable elsewhere. The only rainfall reported was $\frac{1}{3}$ inch at Darjeeling and a few drops at Colombo. On the 2nd pressure was increasing somewhat over the western desert and at some stations in the west and south of the Peninsula, but was decreasing elsewhere. Readings were highest in the extreme north-west and lowest in the extreme south-east, and gradients were somewhat steeper than of late. In general the wind directions were very little changed, but in the North-Western Himalayas a strong south-east wind had sprung up. Light showers were reported from Srinagar and Murree, but there was no rain in any other part of India. On the 3rd the barometer was falling briskly almost everywhere, but the relative distribution of pressure was not much changed, and the weather generally was practically unaltered. Strong south-east winds and light showers continued to be reported from the North-West Himalayas. The chart of the 4th showed that the barometer was still falling almost everywhere, the change over the western desert being brisk. Readings had become more uniform, and the winds were generally rather variable in direction, except at Murree, where a strong south-east wind continued. On the 5th the principal characteristic of the weather was general uniformity of pressure and light variable winds. Over the North-West Himalayas a shallow low pressure area was shown, but its effect on the weather was only slight, and no rain was received in any part of India. On the 6th a depression was shown over the east of the Punjab, and the barometer was rising briskly over the west of that province. Elsewhere the general uniformity of pressure noticed on the 5th continued. Northerly winds prevailed at some Punjab stations, and showers were reported from Murree, Rawalpindi, Sialkote, Peshawar, Sibsagar, and Belgaum.

Temperature.—has been steadily high throughout India during the week under review.

The following table shows the variations of the mean temperature from the normal on each day of the week for the principal provinces of India :—

| PROVINCE. | 31st. | 1st. | 2nd. | 3rd. | 4th. | 5th. | 6th. | Mean variation of week. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Burma . . . . . | +0·1 | +1·2 | +1·2 | —0·4 | +0·1 | +0·4 | +1·8 | +0·6 |

| Punjab . . . . | +7·8 | +6·1 | +5·9 | +5·2 | +8·4 | +9·4 | +9·2 | +7·4 |
| Bombay . . . . | +2·7 | +3·9 | +3·5 | +3·9 | +3·7 | +3·6 | +3·3 | +3·5 |

| MEAN FOR WHOLE INDIA . | +4·1 | +4·4 | +4·9 | +4·7 | +4·9 | +5·3 | +5·7 | +4·9 |

The above figures show that there was an average diurnal excess for the whole of India of nearly 5°, the warmest day being the 6th with a mean excess of 5°·7, the coolest the 31st of January with a mean excess of 4°·1. In Burma and Madras the variation for the week was less than 1°, while the Punjab exhibited an excess of 7°, and Guzerat, Central India, Sind, and Rajputana of 8°. The excess all over North-West India on the last two days of the week was very remarkable.

Rain.—Rain has fallen in seven divisions during the week, in two the average fall for the whole division exceeded one-tenth of an inch and in the remaining five it was less than one-tenth. In all the other divisions no rain whatever fell. The divisions which received rain are Assam (Bhramaputra and Surma), Oudh (South), the Punjab (Submontane Hill districts and North-West), and Central India (East). In all these divisions the actual rain fall received was less than the normal fall for the week, the deficiency being greatest in the hill districts of the Punjab.

The concluding columns of the table show that in the North-Western Provinces (Central), in Central India (East), in Rajputana (East) and Central India (West) the total rainfall since January 3rd has exceeded the normal, and that in all other districts it has been in defect. Over a large part of the Peninsula and of North-East India no rain whatever has fallen.

The record of the maximum falls in the different divisions shows no amounts of any considerable importance. Shillong received 0·50 inch during the week, Dera (Kangra) received 0·70 inch, and the Sudder station (Hazara) received 0·85 inch, but these were the only stations where the total fall during the week exceeded ½ inch.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 13th February.—Prospects unaltered. Harvest continues; outturn southern districts moderate. Great want of fodder in Deccan districts and north-western Nellore. Water-supply deficient in parts of affected areas. Prices easier in northern and Deccan but risen slightly in four southern districts; elsewhere stationary. Principal food-grains now at or over scarcity rates only in Nellore, Cuddapah, North Arcot, and Chingleput. Numbers on works:—East Coast—men 1,426, women 1,427, children 394; Deccan—men 7,996, women 10,152, children 4,180; South Central—men 1,200, women 2,689, children 740: total 30,204 against 24,474 last week; increase being mainly in Nellore, where additional works lately opened, and in Kurnool. On gratuitous relief:—South Central—men 34, women 86, children 128; Deccan—men 71, women 212, children 710: total 1,241 against 1,262 last week. Loans disbursed for construction and repair of wells:—East Coast R6,12,289; South Central R2,68,264; Deccan R1,24,001. Wells constructed:—2,143, 247, and 78; and under construction 3,718, 1,342, and 1,172, in respective blocks. Amount disbursed under Agriculturists Loans Act—R33,947, R74,738, R21,161, respectively.

Bombay.—For week ending 17th February.—Late crops suffering for want of moisture in parts of Sind, Deccan, and Karnatak, and injured by blight, insects, or cloudy weather in parts of four districts. Fodder scarce in parts of ten and water in parts of four districts. People emigrating with their cattle from parts of four districts. Prices generally steady. Reaping of late crops in progress in parts of seven and cotton picking in parts of five districts.

Bengal—For week ending 16th February.—There has been a little rain during the week, which has done harm to the rabi crops already in flower, but will benefit those which were sown late, and will facilitate cultivation for the autumn crops. Rabi crops generally have suffered much from want of rain, and are not expected to yield well except in Orissa and Eastern Bengal. In some parts of Bihar and Central Bengal the outturn will be very poor. Spring rice is still being transplanted and is doing well. Potatoes and oilseeds are being gathered with prospect of a fair outturn. Sugarcane harvest is going on, and the outturn is satisfactory all round. Tobacco is also being cut, and is generally reported to be a fair crop. Opium prospects are favourable in the irrigated tracts, and the collection of the drug is in progress with fair results. Prices are slowly rising in the districts of the Patna Division, elsewhere they are stationary. Cattle are generally in good condition, and there is no lack of fodder or water except in a few isolated localities. In Monghyr, Bhagulpur, and Purneah the crop prospects are said to have further deteriorated, and the general opinion is that rain now would do little good. In these districts relief works on a limited scale have been started where necessary, and a little gratuitous relief is also being given in thana Amour of Purneah. In Rajshahi, Bogra, Pabna, and Rungpur there may be sporadic distress such as can be dealt with locally. Rice is very dear in Jalpaiguri and Dinajpur. The report from the Patna Division is of a re-assuring nature. There may be a little need for relief works, but not before April. It is believed that the cultivators throughout the division are holding reserves of food.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 17th February.—Rain has fallen generally in the provinces improving the prospects of the rabi, in some districts accompanied by hail. Some damage has been done to the crops, but to what extent has not yet been ascertained. Prices are fairly steady; they show a tendency to fall in a few places. Fodder still scarce in Saharanpur.

Punjab.—For week ending 17th February.—Rain has fallen in all but three districts. Prices rising in one district, falling in four others; stationary elsewhere. Irrigation of rabi crops on nahri and chahi lands in progress. More rain is urgently wanted in most districts. Though the recent rain has improved the condition of standing crops in most districts, it is still reported as not good in five districts for want of rain; it is expected that the present drought will damage the crops. Condition of cattle is improving in Hissar, but is bad in Shahpur and Sialkot for want of fodder; in other districts their condition is good. Fodder scarce in seven districts; sufficient elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 17th February.—Over an inch of rain in three districts; elsewhere rainfall slight. Late sowings of some crops benefited, but in parts of Wardha wheat has been damaged by hail. Reaping of wheat commences in places, that of linseed and pulses continues. Prices still high in one district, falling in another.

Burma.—For week ending 13th February.—LOWER BURMA:—Reaping completed, threshing and winnowing progressing. UPPER BURMA:—Bhamo—kaukkyi paddy reaped, mayin sowings nearly complete. Mayin cultivation progressing in Katha, Shwebo, Ruby Mines, and Ye-u. Sagaing—gram, peas, and mayin doing well. Upper Chindwin—mayin being planted. Lower Chindwin—reaping of paddy, jowar, and sesamum nearly finished; standing crops in eastern sub-division poor, in western sub-division fair. Myingyan—beans being harvested in Pagan; in Myingyan all crops reaped except peas and gram; tobacco flourishing, mayin doing well; eight-anna crop of jowari, ten-anna crop of late sesamum, and a twelve-anna crop of beans expected. Pakokku—mayin cultivation in progress. Minbu—no change in crop prospects. Magwe—island and onion crops doing well. Kyaukse—mayin paddy thriving. Meiktila—sowings for dry weather crops finished; gram and wheat ripening rapidly. Yamethin—reaping finished in Yamethin sub-division. Pyinmana—threshing of paddy in progress. The price of paddy has risen in Akyab, Rangoon, Pegu, Tharrawaddy, Prome, Bassein, Thongwa, Henzada, Thayetmyo, Amherst, Toungoo, and Tavoy. Prices in Upper Burma stationary. Numbers on relief works—Shwebo 1,027; Ye-u 2,829; Sagaing 2,754; Lower Chindwin 1,507; Myingyan 1,767; Minbu 793; Magwe 394; Meiktila 6,033; Yamethin 4,196.

Assam.—For week ending 17th February.—Moderate rain fell in all districts except Cachar. Gathering of mustard nearly finished. Ploughing lands for summer rice commenced. Condition of cattle fair. Fodder and water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 17th February.—MYSORE:—No rain. Paddy harvested and sugarcane milled in parts. Fodder very scarce and prospects generally unfavourable. Prices fallen slightly in three districts.

COORG:—Rice and ragi-threshing continues. Coffee-picking completed except on European estates. Prices stationary. Forage and water-supply for cattle sufficient.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 17th February.—BERAR:—Average rainfall fair. Weather fair. Threshing of kharif crops and picking of cotton almost completed. Cutting of wheat and gram in progress. Fodder in one and water in another taluk insufficient. Prices rising.

HYDERABAD:—No rain during week. Sowing of tabi crops continues, except in one taluk, where sowing operations are suspended for want of water. Scarcity of water and fodder for cattle is being felt to a certain extent in almost all taluks and especially in Amberpett taluk. Prices:—wheat 9, coarse rice 8¾, white juar 13½, yellow juar 16¼, and tur 13 seers per current rupee.

Central India.—For week ending 17th February.—Rain during week in most parts of Central India. Prospects continue good.

Rajputana.—For week ending 17th February.—Slight rain in five States and at Kherwara. Standing crops progressing favourably, doing well in Ajmere. Opium, wheat, and barley slightly damaged by hail in one tehsil of Kotah. Cattle poor in six States and at Ajmere and Kherwara. "No property which is or has been under the charge of the Court of Wards shall be liable, either during such period or in the hands of any person other than the ward, for the satisfaction of any debt or decree incurred by or obtained against the ward."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

UNDER the law at present in force, Bengal Act IX of 1879, the Court of Wards can assume the management of the estates of adult male proprietors only in certain specified cases, namely, when they have been adjudged by the ordinary tribunals to be incapable of managing their own affairs, by reason of physical or mental infirmity. But cases have occurred in which proprietors not disqualified in this manner have themselves applied for the protection of the Court, and in which it appeared that their requests should not be refused. The Bill provides a procedure under which the Court of Wards may comply with such applications when Government has decided that the proprietors are disqualified, and that the public interest requires that their property should be placed under State management.

It also extends the definition of estate in section 3 of the Act so as to include a share in an estate. This appears to be in accordance with the law in Madras, the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, and is intended to remove the inconvenience arising from the interpretation put upon it as excluding from the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards proprietors of shares of estates, however large their property might be.

Some slight formal alterations in the Wards Act have become necessary owing to the repeal of Act XL of 1858, and these are provided in the Bill.

Finally, provision has been made to allow the Court of Wards to take out probate and letters of administration, and to act in certain cases under the Succession Act, X of 1865, and the Probate and Administration Act, V of 1881.

THE SCHEDULE.

STATEMENT.

(See sections 2 and 3.)

[Ditto, Sch.]

AFTER you have served for three years in the Bengal Military Police, you may, at any time when not on active service, apply for your discharge, through the officer to whom you may be subordinate, to a Commandant of Military Police or to the District Magistrate of the district in which you may be serving, and you will be granted your discharge after two months from the date of your application, unless your discharge would cause the vacancies in the Bengal Military Police to exceed one-tenth of the sanctioned strength; in that case you must remain until this objection is waived by competent authority or removed. But when on active service you have no claim to a discharge, and you must remain and do your duty until the necessity for retaining you in the Bengal Military Police ceases, when you may make your application in the manner hereinbefore prescribed. In the event of your re-enlistment, after you have been discharged, you will have no claim to reckon for pension or any other purpose your service previous to your discharge.

Signed in my presence after I had ascertained that A. B. understood the purport of what he signed. } C. D., Magistrate, Commandant or Second-in-Command.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill, which has been prepared at the request of the Government of Bengal, is to constitute a body of Military Police for service in the South Lushai Hills and in such other frontier districts as they may be required. The Bill follows the Burma Military Police Act, 1887, so closely that no explanation of the proposed measure appears necessary.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

[Revised Advertisement.]

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in seven volumes during the current year, but an eighth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, February 13th, 1892.

During the week under review the weather over Northern India has been more unsettled and rainy than in any preceding week during the present cold weather. The general barometric fall which had commenced in the previous week continued everywhere, and at the beginning of the present week pressure was largely below the normal average in all parts of the Indian region. This low pressure was accompanied during the first three days merely with cloudy weather and scattered showers of small importance, but on the morning of the 10th a feeble depression entered the Indian region from the westward. With the appearance of this depression the weather became more unsettled. Thunder showers occurred at nearly all the central stations on the 11th. On the 12th the depression became more marked and rain fell at a few places in Behar and North-Western India, as well as at the more central stations. On the 13th the depression had reached the west of the North-Western Provinces and rain was reported from West Bengal, from the Central and North-Western Provinces, and from the Punjab. The heaviest rain was over the west of the North-Western Provinces.

On the 7th pressure was fairly uniform throughout the Indian region, the wind was very variable, and showers were reported from Srinagar, Sibsagar, Neemuch, and Poona. On the 8th the general conditions were little changed, but the showers had increased and were reported from most of the stations in the Central Provinces, Central India, and the North-Western Provinces as well as from Sibsagar, Srinagar, Murree, and Poona. The chart of the 9th showed that the barometer was rising at most stations and pressure was even more uniform than on the two preceding days. A small low pressure area was, however, shown over Central Bengal and showers had fallen over Assam and East and North Bengal. The rainfall in Central and North-West India had, on the contrary, ceased. On the 10th a fresh depression appeared over the western desert, and the barometer was falling briskly at some central stations. The weather generally was, however, quiet, and the only rainfall reported was at Tavoy, Moulmein, and Sibsagar. On the morning of the 11th the depression still lay over the western desert. It was at this time very faintly defined, but its influence on the weather was greater than on the previous day. Cyclonic winds were reported from Rajputana, Central India, and Guzerat, and easterly winds from some places in the Gangetic plain. Showers had fallen at several central stations and from a few places in Bengal. On the 12th the depression was much more strongly marked, and southerly winds prevailed at several central stations, easterly winds in Northern India, and north-westerly winds in Sind. Rain was reported from some stations in the Central and North-Western Provinces, from Behar, and from Peshawar. By the morning of the 13th the depression had advanced eastward to the neighbourhood of Agra and Jhansi, and rain extended from Behar north-westward to the Indus and westward across the Central Provinces. The heaviest rainfall was over the west of the North-Western Provinces.

Temperature.—Notwithstanding the rainfall, the mean temperature of India has remained high.

The following table shows the variations of the mean temperature from the normal average on each day of the week for the principal provinces of India :—

| MEAN FOR WHOLE INDIA . | +6·6 | +3·9 | +3·8 | +4·2 | +4·5 | +4·3 | +3·1 | +4·3 |

On each day of the week the mean temperature of the whole of India exceeded the normal. The greatest excess was 6½° on the 7th, and the least 3·1° on the 13th, the mean diurnal excess being 4·3°. The provincial variations show that everywhere the heat has been greater than usual. The Punjab was the hottest Province, relatively to the average, with a mean excess of 7°. This was followed by 6½° in Sind and Rajputana, and by 5½° in the North-Western Provinces, Guzerat, and Central India. In Burma and Madras the excess was relatively slight.

The exceptional heat on the 7th was very remarkable, the mean temperature

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| at Deesa being | $14^{\circ}$·3 | higher than the normal |
| „ Ajmere „ | 13·8 | „ „ „ „ |
| „ Sambhar „ | 13·1 | „ „ „ „ |
| „ Jeypore „ | 12·8 | „ „ „ „ |
| „ Neemuch „ | 11·9 | „ „ „ „ and |
| „ Indore „ | 11·7 | „ „ „ „ |

At the close of the week, when general rain was falling, several of the above stations reported a large deficiency. For instance, at Jeypore on the 13th the mean temperature was 11° below the average, so that there was a change of 24° in the mean temperature at that station between the 7th and 13th.

Rain—has fallen during the week at 29 out of the 51 rainfall divisions. These 29 divisions include Tenasserim, Assam, all the Bengal divisions except Orissa, all the North-Western Provinces divisions, all the Punjab divisions, all the Central Provinces divisions, Central India, the east of Rajputana and Madras (South). In the case of seven divisions, viz., Tenasserim, Central Bengal, North Behar, the west and north-west of the Punjab, Rajputana (East), and Madras (South), the total average rainfall of the division was less than one-tenth of an inch, but in the remaining 22 divisions effective rain was received. The heaviest fall was in the Bhramaputra Valley, and amounted on the average of all the stations to 0·61 inch. This was followed by 0·57 inch in the hill districts of the Punjab, by 0·49 inch in the west of the Central Provinces, and by 0·47 inch in the centre of the Central Provinces. Tenasserim, Assam, North Bengal, South Behar, all the divisions of the North-Western Provinces, the south and central divisions of the Punjab, all the divisions of the Central Provinces, Central India, and Rajputana (East) received more than the average rainfall during the week, while all the other divisions received less.

The rainfall of the present week has occasioned a considerable decrease in the amount of the seasonal deficiency over a large part of the country, but except in the case of six divisions the total rainfall since the beginning of the year is still deficient.

The record of the maximum falls within the different districts shows many fair amounts. The following are the falls exceeding 1·50 inch :—

Agricultural Loans Act—R26,264, R27,700, and R75,608 disbursed in respective blocks.

Bombay.—For week ending 24th February.—Moderate rain in parts of Upper Sind beneficial to crops. Standing crops withered in parts of Deccan and Karnatak, and damaged by blight, rats, or insects in parts of Sind, Dharwar, and Kolaba. Fodder scarce in parts of eleven and water in parts of four districts. Cattle distressed and being removed to other places in parts of three districts. Prices generally steady. Harvesting of late crops and cotton-picking progressing. Numbers employed on relief works:—Professional Agency—Bijapur 17, Belgaum 349; Civil Agency—Belgaum 1,590.

Bengal.—For week ending 23rd February.—The rainfall reported last week was fairly general over Bihar, Northern Bengal, and Chota Nagpur. Scattered showers also fell in other parts of the Province except Eastern Bengal. The rain has helped ploughing operations and will admit of early sowings. It was, however, too late for the rabi crops, although some of them which were sown late are said to have derived benefit. The general outturn of the rabi crops is not expected to be satisfactory, and in some parts it will be very poor. Tobacco and sugarcane harvests are giving a good outturn, and prospects of the opium collection in the irrigated tracts are favourable. Spring rice is doing well. Indigo sowings are promising. Mango prospects are good. No important change in prices of food-grains. In some parts of the Patna Division prices are still rising slowly, while in others they show a tendency to fall. Cattle are generally in good condition, and fodder and water-supplies continue to be sufficient. Relief operations on a limited scale have been opened in the Bhágalpur Division. In the greater part of the Patna Division there is no unusual sign of distress, and relief measures will be required only in parts of Gya, Muzaffarpur, and Darbhanga, and possibly also of Shahabad. In the Rajshahye Division the pressure does not appear as yet to be severe. The poorer cultivators in the Dinajpur district are said to be in need of small takávi advances to enable them to cultivate their lands.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 24th February.—With the exception of light showers in a few districts the weather has been fair. Crops have improved by the recent rain, and prospects are generally more favourable. Recent hail has damaged the crops in parts of four districts. Prices are falling generally but have risen in Fyzabad. Fodder continues scarce in Saharanpur.

Punjab.—For week ending 24th February.—Slight rain has fallen in all but three districts. Prices unsettled in two districts; stationary elsewhere. Sowings of extra rabi crops in progress, fields on canal irrigated lands are being watered. Prospects of rabi crops have improved a little in some districts by the recent fall of rain, but their condition is still not good; crops are reported to be suffering for want of rain in three districts. The mustard crop is reported to have been injured in parts of Lahore by blight. Condition of cattle is good in all but one district. Fodder scarce in five districts; sufficient elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 24th February—No rain. Weather occasionally cloudy. Days getting hot. Reaping of winter crops continues. Fodder and water-supply sufficient. Prices steady.

Burma.—For week ending 20th February.—LOWER BURMA:—Reaping completed, threshing and winnowing nearly completed. UPPER BURMA.—Dry-weather paddy sowings progressing in Bhamo, Katha, Shwebo, and Ye-u. Crops in Sagaing doing well. Upper Chindwin—dry-weather paddy promises a fair outturn, wheat doing well. Lower Chindwin—reaping of paddy, jowar, and sesamum completed, standing pea crops very bad in eastern sub-division, fair in western sub-division; dry-weather paddy sowing continues. Minbu—paddy reaped, jowar being gathered, wheat thriving, and maize is being reaped. Magwe—island and onion crops doing well. Kyaukse—dry-weather paddy thriving. Meiktila—threshing in progress and dry-weather paddy cultivation continues. Yamethin and Pyinmana—reaping finished and threshing in progress. Price of paddy has fallen slightly in Rangoon, considerably in Henzada, and risen largely in Tharrawaddy, Shwegyin, Toungoo, Mandalay, Pokokko, and Pyinmana; in Bassein, Tavoy, Magwe, Minbu, and Bhamo the rise is slight. Numbers on relief works:—Shwebo 1,069; Ye-u 3,498; Sagaing 5,709; Lower Chindwin 2,462; Minbu 328; Magwe (for week ending 13th February) 557; Meiktila 12,950; Yamethin (exclusive of two works) 4,126; Myingyan not reported.

Assam.—For week ending 24th February.—Weather variable. State and prospects of crops good. Lands for summer rice being prepared. Fodder and water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 24th February.—MYSORE:—Slight rain reported in parts of the Mysore and Hassan districts. Crops generally withering, and no improvement in prospects. Ordinary public works in progress in affected parts. No material change in prices.

COORG:—Threshing of rice and ragi continues. Coffee-picking nearly completed. Prices stationary. Forage becoming scarce in three of the taluks Water sufficient.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

[Revised Advertisement.]

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial), trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages. Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages, Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in seven volumes during the current year, but an eighth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

INDIAN BANKRUPTCY BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR ALEXANDER MILLER moved that the Hon'ble Sir Philip Hutchins be added to the Select Committee on the Bill to amend and consolidate the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India. He explained that looking at the character of the Bill it was necessary that the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Home Department should be one of the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MADRAS SMALL CAUSE COURT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR PHILIP HUTCHINS moved that the presentation of the final Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes of Madras be postponed to the next meeting of the Council He explained that the papers relating to the Bill had not yet arrived from Madras, but he hoped that they would arrive in time to enable the Committee to take them into consideration and frame its report before the next meeting of the Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

RANGOON PORT COMMISSIONERS ACT, 1879, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR BLISS presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Rangoon Port Commissioners Act, 1879.

COURT OF WARDS ACT, 1879 (B. C.), AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR JOHN EDGAR introduced the Bill to amend the Court of Wards Act, 1879 (B.C.), and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Sir Alexander Miller, the Hon'ble Sir Philip Hutchins, the Hon'ble Mr. Evans, the Hon'ble Mr. Woodburn, the Hon'ble Dr. Rash Behari Ghose and the Mover, with instructions to report in a week. He said:—

"The most important provisions of the Bill which I am now about to lay before this Council are meant to amend the Bengal Court of Wards Act of 1879 so as to enable the Court of Wards to take over the management of the property of persons not otherwise disqualified upon their own application and with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor in each case. Similar provisions were included in a Bill passed by the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in 1877, from which however the sanction of the Governor General in Council was withheld owing to a technical defect. Since that time the desirability of taking some measures to preserve ancient families from ruin and to prevent estates of historical and political importance from being broken up has frequently been brought home to the Government, and in one instance a special Act was passed with the consent of the creditors of a great landholder with a view to rescuing his estate from imminent ruin. In March, 1891, a Bill similar to that part of the present Bill which affects proprietors disqualified on their own application was introduced into the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal and reported upon by a Select Committee. But before the measure could become law it was brought to notice that one of its provisions appeared to conflict with the Civil Procedure Code, and that the measure was therefore beyond the competence of the Bengal Council. Consequently it was decided that legislation should be undertaken by the Council of the Governor General.

"The sections of the present Bill, which relate to the new class of disqualified proprietors, are practically the same as those of the Bill which was discussed in the Bengal Council, and they do not materially differ from what is actually the law in other Provinces They fall far short of the provisions of the law on the same subject which prevails in one part of this Province,—I mean the Chota Nagpore Encumbered Estates Act,—and I do not think it necessary therefore to take up the time of the Council by any discussion of the policy of this part of the measure.

"Another section in the Bill extends the definition of 'estate' in section 3 of Bengal Act IX of 1879 so as to make it cover 'a portion of an estate.' The Bengal Board of Revenue have pointed out that under section 7 of the Act the Court of Wards can only take charge of the property of disqualified proprietors who are either sole proprietors or joint proprietors of an estate, and that this has been held to exclude from the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards proprietors of only shares of estates, however large their entire property may be, while the Court is enabled to, and as a matter of fact does, take charge of properties mainly composed of many shares of estates, provided only that the proprietor has one whole estate, no matter how small. The Board point out that this condition is not required in the cases of properties made over to the Court of Wards by Civil Courts under section 10 of Act IX of 1879 or to the Collector under Act VIII of 1890, and that the restriction does not obtain in certain other Provinces, amongst which the North-Western Provinces may be instanced. They adduce, as an instance of the defective state of the present law, the case of the great Bonalli Raj, with a rent-roll of about 12 lakhs of rupees, seven-sixteenths of which are held by a major proprietor and nine-sixteenths by two minor proprietors. The Court of Wards is unable to take over charge of the latter as the minors do not hold a single entire estate entered in the revenue-roll. Some of the Members of Council are aware that there has lately been a great lawsuit between the major and minor proprietors of this estate, which, after an expenditure of, it is said, between 8 and 9 lakhs of rupees, was settled by a compromise, part of the terms of which was that the whole estate should be managed by the Collector, who would take over the major's share at his own request and that of the minors under the Court of Wards. This arrangement, however, has been found to be impracticable under the existing state of the law, and if the present state of things continues this great and historic estate will probably be irretrievably ruined.

"There are some other amendments of the Bengal Wards Act contained in the Bill of a purely formal nature. They have been made necessary by the repeal of Act XL of 1858, and require no further explanation here.

"It is proposed to omit the proviso to section 48 of Act IX (B.C.) of 1879 making the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor and the Court of Wards necessary to the expenditure of more than ten per cent. of the previous year's surplus, as it has been found that this proviso only causes unnecessary delay, without providing any additional security for the proper expenditure of the funds.

"The objects of the remaining sections of the Bill are to provide that probate and letters of administration may be taken out by the Court of Wards in that capacity, and the conditions on which such probate and letters of administration may be granted; that the Court of Wards shall be the guardian of a minor when such minor is the sole executor or residuary legatee, &c., and belongs to the class to which the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards extends; that it should have power to take charge of properties of disqualified proprietors at the request of private executors and administrators; that it should be exempt under certain conditions from liability to giving security and rendering accounts to the Civil Court; and that estates administered by the Court of Wards under these sections should be exempt from sale on account of arrears of revenue.

"The discussions which have led to the introduction of these provisions are of old date, having arisen, in the year 1883-84, out of several cases which occurred about that time, the most important of which was one connected with the will of Raja Pramatha Nath Roy Bahadur of Dighaputtia, a very wealthy zamindar, who left four minor sons and by his will made the Court of Wards executor until the coming of age of his eldest son. It was found, however, that the Court of Wards could not take out probate and act as executor, and practically the existence of the will, which the testator meant to strengthen the position of the Court, was found to be an almost insurmountable obstacle to the exercise of the powers vested in the Court by statute. All the Local Governments and Administrations have been consulted on the subject and have reported generally in favour of the alteration in the law which it is now proposed to make, but it has been decided to legislate for the present only for Bengal.

"The Bonalli Raj case, to which I have already referred, shows clearly that it is most desirable that the changes proposed with regard to disqualified proprietors should be made with the least possible delay, and as the most important alterations in the Bengal Act of 1879 have been before the public for a year and have been discussed in the Bengal Council, and as the Bill in its present form has been already published under Rule 22 in the Gazette of India and Calcutta and Vernacular Gazettes, I trust that the Council may be able to dispose of it before the close of the present session, and I shall therefore ask the Council to instruct the Select Committee to report in a week."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

BENGAL MILITARY POLICE BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR JOHN EDGAR also introduced the Bill for the Regulation of the Bengal Military Police and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Sir Alexander Miller, the Hon'ble Sir Philip Hutchins, the Hon'ble Mr. Evans, the Hon'ble Dr. Rash Behari Ghose and the Mover, with instructions to report in a fortnight. He said :—

"The Bill which I am about to introduce does not require any lengthened explanations. It has been made necessary by the removal of the Frontier Police Force formerly employed in the Hill Tracts of Chittagong to the new district, the South Lushai Hills. The discipline of this force has hitherto been regulated by the Chittagong Hill Tracts Frontier Regulation of 1881, but as this applied only to frontier police-officers posted to the Hill Tracts of Chittagong it has apparently become inapplicable to them now that they are posted to the new district, the South Lushai Hills, and it has been thought safer to provide by fresh legislation for their discipline in future. Experience has also shown that a change is required in the terms of enlistment of the force. Hitherto all the men have been entitled to resign on giving their superior officer two months' notice in writing as provided in section 9 of Act V of 1861, but experience has shown that this might become a source of inconvenience and even of danger in the case of a force employed amongst tribes like those of the Lushai Hills. It has been therefore decided to enlist the men of this force for three years as is done in the case of the Burma Military Police, and also to provide that if they are on active service at the time when their engagement expires they shall not be entitled to claim their discharge until such active service is at an end.

"Besides the police force lately employed in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, and now employed in the South Lushai Hills, there are certain bodies of semi-military police in Bengal known as special reserves, and it has been found desirable to provide for the enlistment and discipline of these bodies and of any similar bodies which may hereafter be formed, upon the same lines as those laid down for the frontier force. The present Bill, which provides the above objects, follows very closely the Burma Military Police Act, XV of 1887, with the omission of one section. I do not think it is necessary for me therefore to take up the time of the Council with any detailed examination of its provisions. Under Your Lordship's orders it has already been published in the Gazette of India and in the Calcutta and Vernacular Gazettes in the manner provided by Rule 22 of the Rules for the Conduct of Business in this Council."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 11th March, 1892.

CONCESSIONS TO SELECTED FOREST OFFICERS WHO DESIRE TO UTILIZE THEIR FURLOUGH IN STUDYING FORESTRY IN THE FORESTS ON THE CONTINENT OF EUROPE.

CIRCULAR No. 4 F.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Revenue and Agricultural Department (Forests), dated Calcutta, the 13th February 1892.

READ—

Circular Resolution No. 20 F., dated 2nd September 1867, specifying the conditions under which Forest Officers on leave in Europe may study Forestry.

RESOLUTION.

IN view of the importance of maintaining in the Forest Departments of India a continuous knowledge of the Forest systems of Europe, and for the purpose of encouraging the study by their officers of Continental Forestry, the Government of India have, with the concurrence of Her Majesty's Secretary of State, decided that the privileges set forth in the rules appended to this Resolution may be granted,* with their previous approval in each case, to selected officers of the Forest Departments when on furlough.

2. The improvement of State Forests in India has depended, and will for some time continue to depend, in no small measure, on the adaptation to them of scientific principles borrowed from France and Germany. Under existing arrangements, candidates selected for the Indian Forest Service undergo a preliminary course of practical instruction, for a few weeks, in the forests of either France or Germany; but progress in forestry is on the Continent so rapid that the knowledge which they acquire during their comparatively short tours, and at a time when their practical acquaintance with the subject is only commencing, is found to be insufficient for the needs of forest administration in India. It has therefore been determined to give facilities to officers, who have proved, by the merit of their work in India, that they are capable of assimilating and turning to account useful knowledge, to study forestry on the Continent when absent from India on furlough. Such officers, if carefully selected, would, it is confidently anticipated by the Government of India, be enabled, both by their special capacity and their practical experience of what is required in India, to bring back with them and introduce into Indian forest administration the most important improvements of the continental systems which may be applicable to this country, more especially in connection with the preparation and control of Working-Plans, in which exceptionally technical branch of forestry the greatest advance has recently been made in the Forest Departments of the Continent.

---

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution, with its appendix, be forwarded, for information and guidance, to the Governments of Madras and Bombay, and the Local Governments and Administrations noted in the margin; also to the Foreign Department for communication to the Agent to the Governor General in Baluchistan.

APPENDIX.

Rules under which selected Officers of the Forest Department in India may be authorised to study during furlough, at the public expense, forest operations on the Continent of Europe.

I.—A Forest Officer desirous of obtaining permission to study forestry on the Continent, under these rules, must submit an application, through the Conservator under whom he is serving, to the Local Government.

II.—The Local Government will forward the application to the Inspector General of Forests, with the remarks of the Conservator and its own recommendation in the case.

III.—The Inspector General of Forests will submit the application to the Government of India for orders.

IV.—The Government of India will require to be satisfied that the officer applying is likely to profit by the additional experience which he will gain by Continental study, and that he possesses a sufficient knowledge of the language of the country which it is proposed that he should visit.

V.—The application must reach the Government of India not less than four months before the date on which it is proposed to commence a Continental tour.

VI.—If the application is sanctioned, the officer should place himself in communication with the Inspector General of Forests, under whose instructions the plan of study proposed will be arranged.

VII.—On arrival in England the officer will report himself at the India Office; and it will then be decided by Her Majesty's Secretary of State what localities he is to visit.

VIII.—The total period to be spent on deputation will not, as a rule, exceed six months. At the end of that period the officer selected will submit to the India Office a diary showing how his time has been spent, and a report which should indicate fully the nature of the operations studied, and which should also include suggestions as to the application of such operations to India. The Secretary of State will decide whether the diary and the report show that the time of the officer has been properly employed, and will determine accordingly for what period the daily allowance admissible under Rule IX may reasonably be granted.

IX.—Each officer will be paid, through the India Office, the cost of a 1st class return-ticket between London and the place to which he may be initially deputed, and will also, subject to the preceding rule, be granted a daily allowance of 10 shillings during his stay in the Continental forests. Travelling allowance bills in full detail must be submitted to the Revenue Secretary at the India Office.

X.—The reports, notes, and drawings submitted by an officer may not, without the previous permission of the Government of India, be communicated to any professional journal or institution; and the Government of India will be at liberty to print, publish or circulate them should they think fit to do so.

4. The Major Works show an improvement in gross revenue collected, and a diminution in working expenses compared with the figures for 1889 90, the net revenue being more by Rs. 34,851.

The interest charges for the year on account of the Major Works amounted to Rs. 6,73,971, so that the net revenue failed to meet these charges by a sum of Rs. 4,87,712. The deficit on account of interest charges at the end of the year amounted to Rs. 83,67,825.

The Minor Works of which Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept, also show an improvement in net revenue amounting to Rs. 10,614.

5. The irrigation revenue from the Major and Minor Works of which Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept, as shown in column 3 of the last statement, was made up as follows:—

| | Rs. |
|---|---|
| Water-rates directly paid . . . . . . | 3,23,155 |
| Share of Land Revenue . . . . . . . | 11,425 |
| | 3,34,580 |
| Deduct—Refunds . . . . . . . . . | 1,582 |
| | 3,32,998 |

6. The miscellaneous receipts in column 4 of the same statement were made up of:—

| | Rs |
|---|---|
| Plantations . . . . . . . . . . | 16,837 |
| Water-power . . . . . . . . . | 7,050 |
| Miscellaneous . . . . . . . . | 1,03,928 |
| | 1,27,815 |

There were no receipts from navigation.

Of the miscellaneous receipts Rs. 88,043 were derived from the Mutha Canals on account of the water-supply of Poona. The question of the rate at which the Poona Municipality receives the supply, which was referred to in para. 5 of the Review for the previous year, is stated to be under consideration. The amount of water supplied amounted to a daily average of 23·04 gallons per head of population.

7. In para. 6 of the Review of the Report for the previous year, the Government of India commented on the charge made against the Mutha Canals for the maintenance of some tanks and wells in the Poona Cantonment. The Bombay Government subsequently explained that this charge was made in consideration of the book credit afforded to the canals of the savings represented by the difference between the former cost of supplying the troops with water and the present cost of supplying them from the Mutha Canals. This book credit was approved by the Government of India in letter No. 385 A. I., dated 31st October 1876. The credit to the canals on account of this saving during the year under review was Rs. 22,854, but the outlay on the maintenance of the tanks and wells in the Cantonment is not stated.

8. The following statement gives the revenue assessed for the year under review, and compares the assessment with the area irrigated, individually for the Major Works, and collectively for the Minor Works and those for which only revenue accounts are kept:—

9. The decrease in the irrigated area as compared with the figures for the previous year is said to be due to the exceptionally good rainfall during the rabi season, which led to a reduced demand for water.

The figures representing assessments cannot be compared with those showing the actual collections given in para 3, as a portion of the revenue collected during the year is based on the rabi assessment of 1889-90.

10. The demands unrealised at the close of the year from works of which Capital and Revenue accounts are kept, amounted to Rs. 34,330 against Rs. 40,550 at the beginning.

The principal crops irrigated were as follows:—

| | Acres. |
|---|---|
| Jowár | 11,417 |
| Bájri | 10,954 |
| Ground nut | 10,527 |
| Wheat | 10,343 |
| Sugarcane | 6,769 |

The aggregate estimated value of the crops irrigated by the Major and Minor Works was 40 lakhs.

11. The working expenses as shown in columns 6—8 of the statement in para. 3 were distributed as follows:—

13. Part II of the Report deals with the works for which only revenue accounts are kept, the figures relating to which have been given in the aggregate in the preceding statements. These works, which taken collectively are of much importance, are now noticed in greater detail than in the reports for preceding years, the account of irrigation in the Khandesh district being especially full. The total revenue derived from the 1,270 works, for which revenue accounts are kept, was Rs 7,86,022. This is the net consolidated assessment, of which Rs. 5,23,079 represents the irrigation share, and Rs. 2,62,943 the land share. The direct irrigation receipts amounted to Rs. 3,197, which added to the irrigation share of the land assessment and deducting Rs. 45 on account of refunds of revenue, makes up the total of Rs. 5,26,231 entered in the statement in para. 3. The works are situated principally in the following districts :—

| | Number of works. |
|---|---|
| Ahmedabad . . . . . . . . . . . . | 66 |
| Surat . . . . . . . . . . . . | 287 |
| Nasik . . . . . . . . . . . . | 271 |
| Khandesh . . . . . . . . . . . . | 82 |
| Dharwar . . . . . . . . . . . . | 471 |

14. The question of systematically maintaining, and improving the efficiency of. this class of works is said to be still under consideration. It would appear from what is said in the detailed district reports that works of this class are steadily deteriorating owing to the difficulty of arranging for their repair. This difficulty in the case of small and scattered works has been met in the Madras Presidency by handing over their maintenance to the Revenue authorities, and it is possible that a similar system might be introduced with advantage into Bombay.

15. The question of closing or transferring to the Revenue authorities some of the Minor Works for which Capital and Revenue Accounts are now kept, but which cannot be profitably maintained, such as the Koregaon, Muchkundi, and Asundi Tanks, referred to in Reviews for the two previous years, is also said to be still under consideration.

16. The Revenue Report was received by the Government of India on 14th January, which is earlier than that for 1889-90. It has been correctly prepared, and is accompanied by a useful series of maps of the different districts.

ORDER.—Ordered, that copies of this Review and of the Report be forwarded to the Revenue and Agricultural Department for information.

Ordered also, that copies of this Review be forwarded to the Government of Bombay for information and guidance, and that copies of the Report and of the Review be forwarded to the Local Governments and Administrations, in the Public Works Department, noted in the margin, for information.

The Governments of Madras, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab.

RESOLUTION.—The salient points of the year's operations are brought out in the general remarks prefacing the report.

2. The number of works in operation, included in Part I., is the same as in the previous year. The capital expenditure amounted to R6,33,872, and was incurred principally on the Nira Canal, the Gokak Canal Storage Works, the Mutha Canals and Maini Tank. That on the Nira Canal was mainly on the Storage Works at Bhatghar: the Gokak Storage Works were practically completed: a new set of pumps for the Poona Water-supply was purchased at the cost of the Mutha Canals capital account, and the head-works of the Maini Tank were rendered more secure.

3. The entire capital outlay at the end of the year stood at R2,49,15,334, including R2,90,679 on three projects which are still in abeyance.

4. The net irrigable area under command was increased from 533,313 to 535,762, or by 2,449 acres only.

5. The area irrigated by all the works taken together was 75,901 acres as compared with 86,599 acres in the previous year, showing a falling off of 10,698 acres, which was due to favourable rainfall and principally to exceptionally favorable rainfall in the rabi season in the tracts commanded by the Nira and Mutha Canals.

6. The principal crops irrigated were jowari and bajri (22,371 acres), groundnut (10,527 acres), wheat (10,343 acres), sugarcane, garden and orchards (9,874 acres), gram (5,332 acres), and rice (4,809 acres). The falling off as compared with the previous year was principally in the areas of jowari and bajri (8,514 acres), wheat (1,911 acres), and gram (1,001 acres). There was a further slight falling off in the area of sugarcane and an increase in the areas of groundnut and rice.

7. The assessed revenue amounted to R4,44,281 against R4,49,838 in the previous year. The decrease of R5,557, or 1¼ per cent., was in the water-rate assessments on the irrigated lands, and is accounted for by the decrease in area. The average water-rate per acre was R4·09 as compared with R3·66 in the previous year, the increase being due to the increases in the higher classes of crops, such as gardens, rice and groundnut. The receipts from plantations again show some improvement, but the total under other receipts is practically the same as in the previous year.

8. The total revenue realised was R4,60,813, and the outstandings at the end of 1890-91 amounted to R34,330 as compared with R40,550 at the commencement of the year.

9. The working expenses during the year amounted to R2,39,615 as compared with R2,47,126 in the previous year, showing a decrease of R7,511, which was principally in the charge for repairs, and is satisfactory.

10. The net revenue of the year was—

| | R |
|---|---|
| (1) on basis of assessments . . . . . . . . . . | 2,04,666 |
| (2) on basis of realisations . . . . . . . . . | 2,21,198 |

as compared with R2,02,712 and R1,75,733, respectively, in 1889-90.

11. The Nira Canal and Mhaswad Tank show a profit of R12,304 as compared with R6,320 in the previous year.

12. The Productive Works show a profit of R1,73,955 as compared with R1,45,088 in 1889-90. The state of the canals leading from the Ekruk Tank is receiving consideration.

13. The Minor Works, taken all together, but excluding Gokak, show a profit of R28,955 as compared with a profit in 1889-90 of R18,103 and with a loss in 1888-89 of R13,499, but some of the works, and notably the Jamda Canals, still show disappointing direct results. But little direct use was made of the large volume of water stored in the Ashti Tank. On the Gokak works there was a profit of R5,984: the completion of the Storage Works improved the rabi supply to the canal, but the improvement in receipts due to this cause will not appear until the accounts for 1891-92 are ready.

14. A somewhat fuller account is given in Part II. of the Report relating to works for which only Revenue Accounts are kept and agricultural works. The figures of area irrigated, revenue and expenditure, correspond closely with those of the previous year and call for no special comment, pending a decision on the question, which is still under consideration, of increased effort to systematically maintain and improve the efficiency of the works.

15. Copies of the report and of this review should be forwarded to the Government of India and Secretary of State.

OBSERVATIONS—By the Government of India, Public Works Department.

Read—

The Revenue Report of Irrigation Works in Bengal for 1890-91 and the Resolution thereon by the Government of Bengal, No. 24 I. A., dated 11th January 1892.

OBSERVATIONS.—The works in operation in Bengal remain as stated in paragraph 1 of the Review of the operations for the previous year. The following statement shows the capital outlay during and to the end of 1890-91 on the works for which capital accounts are kept :—

2. The sanctioned estimates for the Sone Canal System have been closed with effect from 31st March 1891, subsequent expenditure from the balance of the sanctioned estimates being met under the rules for "open capital" outlay.

3. The principal capital outlay was incurred on the Orissa system, on which it amounted to Rs. 3,38,268. Progress was made with the Taldundah Extension Canal, and distributaries on all the canals were in hand. No addition was made to the actual length of completed distributary, but between 70 and 80 miles of new distributary were so far advanced as to be ready to carry a supply during the ensuing rabi season. Estimates for an additional length of 252 miles of distributary were also sanctioned.

On the Hidgellee Tidal Canal the capital outlay amounted to Rs. 1,57,921, which was incurred on the remodelling works.

On the Sone Canal system the capital outlay amounted to Rs. 1,74,154; the principal works executed being the Chowri and Chowsa drainage cuts and the Kuttea escape.

4. The actual financial results for the year of the works in operation are shown in the following statement :—

5. The returns from the Major Works are much less favourable than those for the previous year, exhibiting a deficit of Rs. 92,995 compared with a profit in 1889-90 of Rs. 82,106. The principal factor in this decrease is to be found in the diminished return from the Sone Canals, a net revenue of Rs. 1,51,045 in 1889-90 being reduced to Rs. 27,071 in the year under review. The reason assigned for this decrease is the favourable character of the rainfall, which led to a smaller demand for water for irrigation.

6. The balance of demand remaining unrealised at the close of the year under review was still very large; the following being the figures for the three principal irrigation systems. The figures given include miscellaneous demands, but are principally on account of water-rate :—

| CANALS. | Balance unrealized at beginning of year. | Demands of year. | TOTAL. | Less collections and remissions. | Balance unrealized at close of year. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Rs. | Rs. | Rs. | Rs. | Rs. |
| Orissa . . . . | 1,76,762 | 4,04,856 | 5,81,618 | 3,83,254 | 1,98,364 |
| Midnapore . . . | 50,644 | 2,52,353 | 3,02,997 | 2,38,030 | 64,967 |
| Sone . . . . | 2,81,782 | 7,20 881 | 10,02,663 | 7,57,935 | 2,44,728 |

7. The receipts from the minor works for which Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept, show an improvement over the figures for the previous year, but this is more than counterbalanced by an increase in working expenses, principally due to extensive silt clearances on the Calcutta and Eastern Canals.

8. The balance of simple interest to the debit of the canals amounted, at the close of the year, to Rs. 4,02,95,964.

9. The following figures exhibit the area irrigated by the three major irrigation systems and the revenue assessed thereon during the past two years :—

| CANALS. | AREA IRRIGATED. | | ASSESSED WATER-RATES. | | RATE PER ACRE IRRIGATED. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 1890-91. | 1889-90. | 1890-91. | 1889-90. | 1890-91. | 1889-90. |
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 |
| | Acres. | Acres. | Rs. | Rs. | Rs. | Rs. |
| Orissa Canal . . | 180,299 | 186,627 | 2,69,310 | 2,82,737 | 1·49 | 1·51 |
| Midnapore Canal . | 82,002 | 68,810 | 1,23,043 | 1,03,404 | 1·50 | 1·50 |
| Sone Canal . . | 281,014 | 305,282 | 5,92,847 | 6,92,162 | 2·11 | 2·27 |
| TOTAL . | 543,315 | 560,719 | 9,85,200 | 10,78,303 | 1·81 | 1·92 |

The principal decrease was on the Sone Canals, for the reason explained above.

10. The proportions of kharif and rabi irrigation were as follows :—

| Canals. | Kharif. Acres. | Rabi. Acres. |
|---|---|---|
| Orissa . . . . . . . . | 176,049 | 4,250 |
| Midnapore . . . . . . . | 82,002 | ... |
| Sone . . . . . . . . | 250,457 | 30,557 |
| TOTAL . | 508,508 | 34,807 |

11. The principal crops irrigated were :—

| | Acres. |
|---|---|
| Rice . . . . . . . . . . . . | 469,311 |
| Sugarcane . . . . . . . . . . . | 18,190 |
| Wheat . . . . . . . . . . . | 14,951 |
| Barley . . . . . . . . . . . | 9,314 |

The gross estimated value of all the irrigated crops was 166 lakhs.

12. The details of the working expenses shown in the statement in paragraph 4 are as follows :—

* Irrigation systems only.

Of the works outlay on the Orissa Canals, Rs. 76,334 was on head works and Rs. 99,746 on the main canals. The average cost of maintaining the main canals was Rs. 395 per mile.

On the Midnapore Canal Rs. 93,187 were spent on the head works and main canal, or at the rate of Rs. 1,941 per mile.

On the Sone Canals Rs. 20,353 were spent on the head works, Rs. 1,78,593 on the main canals and branches, and Rs. 67,616 on the distributaries.

13. The charge for establishment in the last statement is made up thus :—

| | Rs. |
|---|---|
| Direction | 23,461 |
| Executive | 2,17,431 |
| Revenue, including collection | 4,61,821 |
| Navigation | 1,09,086 |
| Total | 8,11,799 |

The debit to establishment on revenue account is, however, arbitrary, 23 per cent. on the works outlay being charged against capital expenditure on major works and against civil works, and the balance of the aggregate establishment charge being debited against the revenue account of the canals.

14. The following figures relate to the complaints that were received and disposed of on the three major irrigation systems :—

|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Orissa | 3,170 | 3,185 | 6,355 | 4,934 | 1,421 |
| Midnapore | 148 | 1,250 | 1,398 | 1,228 | 170 |
| Sone | 746 | 3,151 | 3,897 | 3,784 | 113 |

15. In the following statement are given the figures showing the navigation receipts and outlay :—

(a) Includes 20 miles of Kaorapookhur Khall.

There was a considerable increase in the working expenses over the figures for the previous year.

16. The receipts were divided thus—

| | Rs. |
|---|---|
| Tollage on private boats . . . . . . . | 10,45,118 |
| ,, Government boats . . . . . . . | 20,149 |
| ,, rafts . . . . . . . . | 15,735 |
| Transport service . . . . . . . . | 23,159 |
| Fines and sundries . . . . . . . . | 6,444 |
| TOTAL . | 11,10,605 |

The aggregate ton-mileage amounted to 51 millions, the estimated value of cargoes to 1,360 lakhs, and the number of passengers carried to 581,000.

17. The Sarun Canals, the annually recurring deficit on which has been commented upon in previous Reviews, did much better in 1890-91, the deficit amounting to Rs. 1,898 only.

18. The average discharge at head during the kharif season from the Orissa Canals amounted to 2,237 cubic feet per second, the amount utilised being 1,935 cubic feet. The duty realised by these two discharges was 78·69 acres and 90·99 acres, respectively. The corresponding figures for the Sone Canals are, discharge at head, 3,0ç4 cubic feet per second, and utilised 2,596 cubic feet; the duties being 74·24 acres and 88·48 acres, respectively.

19. Crop experiments were again carried out. On the Orissa Canals the average of 161 experiments gave 20·76 maunds of paddy and 22·59 of straw per acre, of the gross value of Rs. 23·27, as the return from irrigated land, the outturn from unirrigated land being 15·05 maunds of paddy and 16·12 maunds of straw, of the value of Rs. 16·84. On the Sone Canals the outturn figures were, for selected crops, 32 maunds of paddy and 82 maunds of straw; and for average crops 21 maunds of paddy and 49 maunds of straw per acre. The difference in the outturn of straw in the two sets of experiments is very marked.

20. The Irrigation Revenue Report was received by the Government of India on January 16th, which is about the same date as that for the previous year. It is observed that future reports are promised with more punctuality.

21. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in the Resolution on the Report, notices with approval the services rendered by Colonel J. M. McNeile, R.E., Chief Engineer for Irrigation, who is about to retire from the service. The Governor-General in Council is happy to add his testimony to that of the Lieutenant-Governor to the efficient manner in which Colonel McNeile has discharged his duties.

ORDER.—Ordered, that copies of this Review and of the Report be forwarded to the Revenue and Agricultural Department for information.

Ordered also, that copies of this Review be forwarded to the Government of Bengal for information and guidance, and to the Local Governments and Administrations, in the Public Works Department, noted in the margin, for information.

The Governments of Madras, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab.
The Chief Commissioners, Central Provinces, Burma, Assam, and Coorg.
The Residents at Hyderabad and in Mysore.
The Agents to the Governor General in Central India and Rajputana.

Ordered further, that this Review and the Resolution by the Local Government be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India, and that copies of this Review and of the Report be forwarded to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

READ—

The Canal Revenue Reports for 1890-91 and Chief Engineer's Note on the same.

RESOLUTION.—His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor regrets the delay in the submission of this Canal Revenue Report, which is due on the 15th November, to the Government of India, and expects that in future it will be prepared with greater punctuality.

Major Works. 2. There are in Bengal four canal systems which are classed as Major Works. Three of these combine Irrigation with Navigation, and the fourth (Hidgellee Tidal Canal) is purely a Navigation work. The Midnapore Canal system is complete, and no further expenditure on the Capital Account will be incurred from Imperial funds. The Sone Canal system is practically complete and in full work. Expenditure on subsidiary works, chiefly connected with drainage, on improvements to the outlets, and on masonry road-crossings required for village channels continues against the unspent balances of estimates sanctioned before 31st March 1891. No further sanctions will be given debitable to Imperial funds. On the Orissa Canal system there is still a good deal to be done to complete the distributaries and minor channels, and it will be some years before the system is fully developed. The Hidgellee Tidal Canal was completed in 1874, but is now being remodelled. The funds required had been advanced by the Imperial Government, and interest is payable by the Local Government at 4 per cent.

Minor Works. 3. The works classed as "Minor Works and Navigation" are divided under three heads—(1) those for which both Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept, (2) those for which only Revenue Accounts are kept, (3) those for which neither Capital nor Revenue Accounts are kept.

Under the first head there are three projects in operation, viz., the Calcutta and Eastern Canals, the Orissa Coast Canal, and the Sarun Canals. The two former are Navigation works. By the first, communication is maintained between Calcutta and Eastern Bengal through the Sundarbans, and the second is, in combination with the Hidgellee Canal, the main highway between Bengal and Orissa, and the only means at present by which food could be thrown into Orissa in time of famine, except by sea. The object of the Sarun Canals is to supply water from the Gandak to the Sarun district, partly for irrigation and partly for the manufacture of indigo.

Under the second head there is only the Nuddea rivers, the work on which consists of the improvement and maintenance of the river channels to secure a continuous supply of water from the Ganges to the Hooghly, and to facilitate navigation.

Under the third head there are the Eden Canal and the Madhuban Canal. The former is a small work for flushing some of the nullahs in the Burdwan district with water from the river Damooda, chiefly to give a supply of good drinking water. The canal is also in dry years used for irrigation. The latter is a small irrigation work in the Chumparun district.

4. The outlay of the last two years and the total outlay to date on the Capital Account is shown in the following table :— Capital Account.

The Taldundah Extension Canal, which was shown as in progress in the report for last year, was proceeded with and was very nearly complete at the close of the year.

The lock at Paradeep, which is the outfall lock for this canal, was practically complete within the year, as at the close only the coping had to be put on and the gates to be hung.

Distributaries were in progress on all the canals, and though no addition was made to the completed length during the year, work was so far advanced that water could have been given if necessary during the current year from a length of 70 to 80 miles of new distributaries.

During the year estimates were submitted and sanctioned for 252 miles of distributaries and for 27 miles of embankments.

The Daid protective embankment was fully completed.

There is now no reason for further delay in completing the Orissa project so far as regards detailed sanctioned estimates, but progress continues slow owing to the want of labour. During the year under review work was also hindered by rain in February and March.

Midnapore Canal. 6. The transactions of the year (direct charges) affecting the Capital account of the Midnapore Canal were the following:—

As all further outlay on this canal has, under recent orders from the Government of India, to be met from Provincial Revenues, it was necessary to write back the suspense or stock balance from head 49—Major Works to head 43—Minor Works and Navigation, so effecting a reduction to that extent in the sum at charge. The amount of R3,300 spent in works was used mainly on the improvement and extension of the Jakhpur drainage channel.

Hidgellee Tidal Canal. 7. The sum of R1,52,884, by which the Capital account of the Hidgellee Canal was increased (direct charges), was distributed as follows:—

| | R |

| Works | 99,423 |

| Tools and Plant | 17,483 |
| TOTAL | 1,52,884 |

The alterations or remodelling of this canal with a view of preventing the frequent closures for the removal of silt, which had been commenced in the preceding year, were proceeded with. The main object of these works is to lower the bed of the canal in order to provide waterway in spite of accumulations of silt, and to admit the drainage of the country across the canal by inlet and escape, also to provide duplicate supply channels in order to admit the river water in the canal free from silt. The supply sluice for Range I at Gewankhally was built up to floor level, and the supply channel from it was about three-fourths completed. In Range II the lowering of the bed of the canal was taken in hand, and about one-third of the work was done.

Sone Canals. 8. The Capital account of the Sone Canals was increased during the year by the amount of R1,71,361 (direct charges) distributed as follows:—

| | R |

| Works | 1,32,699 |

The expenditure on these canals from Imperial funds is about to be closed, and will be limited to those works sanctioned before 1st April 1890 and not then completed. The unspent balance of such estimates amounted on that date to R6,16,7 3.

The most important works done during the year were the Chowri and Chowsa drainage cuts, and an escape from the Kuttea distributary. Progress was also made in the provision of permanent outlets and in constructing crossings for village channels under the district roads. An important drainage cut in the Buxar Division and an additional weir on the Patna Canal at lock No. II were in progress at the end of the year. The latter work was completed in May.

9. On the Calcutta and Eastern Canals the Capital account was increased by R5,613 (direct charges) as under— Calcutta and Eastern Canals.

The works constructed were two additional buildings for storing wreckage, while a portable engine was received from the Orissa Coast Canal and its value adjusted.

The expenditure on works was incurred on clearing several brickfields, on the construction of toll-houses and sheds for khallasies, on excavation of tanks for drinking water at locks, and on the purchase of a house for the Executive Engineer's Office.

The cost of repairs was less in 1890-91 than in any of the previous four years. This is, however, met by heavier charges for establishment (Direction, Accounts and Executive). Owing to the varied nature of the work in Bengal, the total charges for the establishment employed in the Irrigation Branch of the Public Works Department have to be distributed among various heads, including Civil Works (Provincial and Imperial), Agricultural (embankments and drainage), Major Works (Capital and Revenue), and Minor Works. Up to 1886-87 this distribution was effected by charging a fixed percentage against Canal Revenue and other heads while the balance was debited to Provincial Roads and Buildings. Since 1887-88 a fixed percentage has been charged against Capital Expenditure on Major Works and against Civil Works, the balance being allotted to Canal Revenue. Hence it follows that without any increase in the total establishment charge of the Province the amount debited against the Revenue account of the Marjor Works may increase owing to smaller charges being made under other heads.

The net result of the year's working resulted in a loss of R92,995. The interest charges of the year were R23,87,119. The total to be made good by the Province was R24,80,114. From the commencement up to the close of the year 1890-91, the total charge to Provincial revenues on account of Major Irrigation Works has been R4,02,95,964.

The net result of the year combining Major and Minor Works was as follows :—

13. The main source of revenue from the Major Works is the amount received as water-rates. The following will show the area irrigated, the water-rates earned on such area, and the amounts collected for the year under review and for the preceding year :— Areas and water-rates.

Note.—In the above the earnings show the assessed amount due on account of the irrigation of the year, part of which falls due after the 31st March, and the collections are the gross totals, deducting refunds.

The collections in any year depend to some extent on the assessments of the previous year, more especially on the Sone system, where the assessments for rabi irrigation and half of the assessments on long leases fall due after the close of the financial year.

14. On the Orissa system the area irrigated was somewhat less than in 1889-90, but was greater than in any previous year, and the area leased at the end of the year, 184,418 acres, was greater than that irrigated during the year, which indicates that the demand for irrigation is increasing. There has been a satisfactory decrease in the area assessed for unauthorised irrigation, and the assessments for the year were completed and the demands sent in with greater punctuality than before. On the other hand, the collections of water-rates are still unsatisfactory, being much less than the annual demand, so that the amount in arrear is greater at the end of the year than it was at the beginning; but in spite of this some improvement in collection is observed, and the amount collected was larger than in any previous year. The following figures show how the total demand of the year was constituted and the progress made in realising it :—

| | Demand of year 1890-91. | Collected or remitted. |
|---|---|---|
| | R | R |
| Arrears of 1887-88 and previous years | 19 556 | 10,344 |
| Arrears of 1888-89 | 55,662 | 32,977 |
| Arrears of 1889-90 | 1,01,544 | 43 501 |
| TOTAL ARREARS | 1,76,762 | 86,822 |
| Current demand of 1890-91 | 2 69,650 | 1,61,226 |
| TOTAL | 4,46,412 | 2,48,048 |
| Remissions were | ... | 38,242 |
| Actual collections were | ... | 2,09,806 |

The number of certificates issued during the year was 13,594 as compared with 8,586 in 1889-90. Only 10,928 were disposed of, and the balance outstanding at the end of the year had risen to 9,104. The amount recovered on 10,152 certificates was only R25,000 (approximately), that is, about R2-8 on each certificate.

The statement given in paragraph 26 of the Chief Engineer's Note shows to what extent incorrect demands had been made. The large amount under "Unirrigated crops" is partly due to the recent exemption of low-lying lands, which are included in existing leases and so assessed in the first instance, but the existing system of assessing and collecting water-rates on these canals is in many ways unsatisfactory, and a revised system, based on that in force on the Sone Canals, has been worked out and is shortly to be introduced.

The returns from navigation have advanced considerably, and the collections of the year are the highest yet obtained on these canals.

15. On the Midnapore Canal there was a satisfactory increase in the area irrigated and in the earnings of the year; but the collections of the year were not satisfactory, and the arrear balance increased from R50,644 to R64,967. There was, however, greater activity shown in the certificate work during the past year. Seven thousand six hundred and sixty-four cases were instituted, and 9,150 cases were disposed of, the pending balance being reduced from 3,444 to 1,958. The number of cases is still very high compared with the Sone Canals, on which with three times the area irrigated far fewer certificates are required. The navigation receipts, which are an important item on this canal, fell considerably during the year. This is attributed mainly to dulness in trade and partly to a closure of some of the reaches for repairs.

16. As regards the Hidgellee Canal, the year is marked by increased expenditure and diminished receipts, the former being due to extensive silt clearance, to heavy charges for repairs to dredging plant, and to the cost of constructing a slip for boats at Balasore. The falling off in receipts, which are derived almost exclusively from navigation, is due to the long closure of the canal for silt clearance and in connection with remodelling which is in progress.

17. The decrease in the area irrigated and consequently in the earnings on the Sone Canals is attributable to the more abundant rainfall of 1890-91, which was, as the average of 22 stations on that system, 52·86 inches against 3·27 inches in 1889-90, and against 41·70 inches being the mean of 20 years. Considering this heavy rainfall the area irrigated is large, and it is especially satisfactory to find the area under 5-years leases so well maintained. There is an increase over the preceding year in the area assessed from unauthorised irrigation, which is to be regretted. The area so assessed in 1889-90 was, however, unusually small. The collections, though considerably less than in 1889-90, when they were inflated by the recovery of heavy arrears, are still greater than the demand of the year, and show progress in reducing the arrear balance. In the Patna district, however, the collections, were very bad. Here the arrears had greatly increased and the accounts were in confusion owing to the scandalous incompetence of the circle officer, who was then in charge, and has since died. Since the close of the year vigorous measures have been taken, and the balance outstanding has been much reduced.

The amounts remitted for incorrect demands and written off as irrecoverable were R5,324 and R16,136, respectively, and are smaller than in any of the four previous years. The chief causes of remissions were mistakes in assessment, owing to their having been made without sufficient proof of the land having been irrigated or of its being liable to assessment.

The work done in disposing of certificate cases has also been good. Four thousand eight hundred and ninty-one cases were instituted as against 5,577 in 1889-90. Five thousand three hundred and eleven cases were disposed of at the close of the year, the balance pending was only 1,586, and has since been still further reduced.

The receipts from navigation have been satisfactory, and show a steady, if slow, increase.

18. The Lieutenant-Governor made a close inspection of this canal in November last, and has nothing but approval to record of the system on which it is now being worked and of the spirit which animates its staff. Complaints of wrongful assessment and of non-receipt of water, which once were numerous, are now reduced to a minimum, and when made are disposed of rapidly and in a liberal spirit: the utmost care is taken to secure accuracy in the leases and assessments and punctuality in the payments: the arrears which on the 1st April were over R2,10,000 had been brought down to about R55,000: the pending certificates were 1,586 at the end of March and 445 at the end of November. The irrigated lands stood out long lines of greenness and fertility a startling contrast to the parched and impoverished tracts which they intersect. As long as the principle is upheld which Mr. Odling has inculcated on his engineers that the first duty of a Canal Officer is to show good irrigated crops so long may it be safely said that the canal is an unmixed blessing to the country.

19. Turning now to the Minor Works, the revenue from which is almost entirely derived from navigation, the following brief remarks may be made:— Revenue, Minor Works.

On the Calcutta and Eastern Canals there has been a fair increase in the receipts, but this has been counterbalanced by increased charges, especially for establishment, which item is higher this year than in any previous one. The net revenue, R2,01,128, is lower than it has been since 1881-82. The working of the system of toll collections was good as noticed in paragraph 108 of the Chief Engineer's Note. The method of charging tolls according to measurement and the rates of toll on this system of canals are now under revision with the view of making the payments fall more equally on the various kinds of boats and classes of goods.

On the Orissa Coast Canal there is a very slight increase in the receipts. The net revenue is, however, less than in the previous year owing to the extra charge for establishment. When the works now in progress on the Hidgellee Tidal Canal are completed, it is hoped that the returns from the Orissa Coast Canal will improve. The want of roads in the country adjoining this canal is also an impediment to expansion of traffic. Two feeder roads are now being taken up by the District Board of Balasore, towards which the Local Government has contributed R7,000.

The receipts from the Nuddea Rivers have increased slightly, but owing to increased charges for repairs and establishment the net revenue has decreased from R92,834 to R90,588.

The Sarun, Madhuban, and Eden Canals are small works which ordinarily bring in a very slight revenue, while they are a source of expense to maintain. On the other hand, in a dry season like that of the present year, they are of considerable value to the parts of the country in which they are situated.

20. The figures in Appendix I, which record the number of days spent by each Irrigation Officer on tour, show that while some have been active and energetic in the work of inspection, others have fallen far short of the standard which ought to be attained. The attention of all officers in the Department should be called to this table, and Chief Engineer is requested to mention in next year's report the names of those officers who have been most remiss in this branch of their duties.

21. This is the last Canal Revenue Report which will be issued over the signature of Colonel J. M. McNeile, who will retire from the Government service shortly after the Report is published. Sir Charles Elliott cannot allow this distinguished officer to leave the Province without putting on record his high appreciation of his services through a long and honourable career, and his indebtedness to him for his assistance in the administration of the Public Works Department during the past year. He desires also to thank Mr. Odling, Superintending Engineer, for his excellent work on the Sone Canals.

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, February 20th, 1892.

The unsettled weather, which prevailed throughout Northern and Central India during last week, continued during the first half of the week under review. The depression, which had been traced across the western desert and into the central parts of the country, was shown near Allahabad on the 14th, and rain was falling over the north of the Punjab, the west of Bengal and the greater part of the North-Western and Central Provinces. Subsequently the rainfall extended into Central Bengal, while it continued over the North-Western Provinces and along the line of the hills in the Punjab. On this day, the 15th, the depression had practically disappeared, but a fresh disturbance was appearing over the Indus Valley. The second depression advanced very slowly eastward or north-eastward, but its effect on the weather was very slight compared with that exercised by the former storm, and rainfall was confined to the Punjab and even there was very small in amount. By the 20th the weather was fine everywhere.

The chart of the 14th showed a well defined depression lying to the south of the North-Western Provinces, the centre being between Sutna, Nowgong, and Cawnpore. Readings were relatively high over Guzerat, but gradients were everywhere slight. Rain was reported from the Central and North-Western Provinces, from parts of Bengal, and from the line of the hills in the Punjab. The heaviest fall was at Sutna. The winds were cyclonic in the neighbourhood of the disturbance. By the morning of the 15th the depression as a distinct disturbance had disappeared, but the weather remained unsettled over a large part of Northern India and rain was reported from several stations in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and Rajputana. A fresh depression was shown crossing the Indus Valley. On the 16th the barometer was rising briskly to rapidly almost everywhere, and a large area of relatively high pressure overlay Northern and Central India. The depression over the western desert was, however, still distinctly shown Showers of rain were reported from Bengal and from a few places in north-west India and Madras On the 17th there was very little change in the general distribution of pressure. Readings remained high over a large part of Northern India, and the depression continued to be shown over the western desert. The rainfall had, however, ceased in Bengal, though scattered snowers continued to be reported from a few places in the extreme north-west of India and from the south of the Peninsula The chart of the 18th showed that the barometer was rising in the Indus Valley, the south of the Peninsula and Lower Burma, and was falling elsewhere. The depression in north-west India had moved very slowly eastward or north-eastward and the centre was close to Bikanir. Light general showers were reported from Upper Sind, from Baluchistan, and from the Punjab, but elsewhere the weather was fine. By the morning of the 19th the depression had reached the North-Western Provinces. The disturbance had, if anything, become slighter, and its effect on the weather was inconsiderable. Light showers were reported from the north of the Punjab and from Quetta, but elsewhere the weather was fine. On the 20th the barometer was falling everywhere. A large shallow area of low pressure covered Bengal, the east of the North-Western Provinces and the Central Provinces, but gradients were everywhere slight, and the weather was fine.

Temperature—Has again been higher than usual, but the excess is less than in the preceding week. The following table shows the variations of temperature from the normal average on each day of the week for the principal provinces of India :—

| Province. | 14th. | 15th. | 16th. | 17th. | 18th. | 19th. | 20th. | Mean variation of week. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Burma | +1·8 | +0·6 | +2·3 | +1·4 | −0·2 | −1·2 | −1·7 | +0·4 |
| Bengal and Assam | +4·3 | +2·0 | −1·7 | −3·1 | −1·6 | −0·5 | +2·5 | +0·3 |
| North-Western Provinces and Oudh | +3·9 | −2·4 | −2·6 | −0·6 | +1·1 | +3·4 | +5·3 | +1·2 |
| Punjab | +0·8 | +0·8 | +2·6 | +3·8 | +3·9 | +1·5 | +3·8 | +2·5 |
| Bombay | −0·1 | −2·9 | −0·9 | +1·2 | +2·3 | +1·9 | +1·3 | +0·4 |
| Berar and Central Provinces | +1·8 | −2·6 | −4·3 | −1·2 | +1·1 | +2·9 | +5·1 | +0·4 |
| Guzerat and Central India | +2·8 | −2·3 | −1·4 | +0·8 | +3·6 | +4·4 | +5·1 | +1·9 |
| Sind and Rajputana | +3·2 | +1·5 | +3·8 | +5·1 | +5·2 | +5·0 | +3·9 | +4·0 |
| Madras | +1·4 | +2·4 | +2·0 | +1·8 | −0·4 | −1·3 | −0·7 | +0·7 |
| MEAN FOR WHOLE INDIA | +2·2 | −0·3 | 0 | +1·0 | +1·7 | +1·8 | +2·7 | +1·3 |

The above figures show that for the whole of India there was an average diurnal excess of 1·3°. On the 15th the mean temperature of the whole country was 0·3° below the normal average, and on the 16th the mean temperature exactly equalled the normal, but on the 17th temperature rose and the abnormal excess increased till it became 2·7° on the 20th. The provincial variations show that on the mean of the week temperature was higher in all provinces than is normally the case. The excess equalled 4° in Sind and Rajputana, 2½° in the Punjab, 1·9° in Guzerat and Central India, and 1·2° in the North-Western Provinces, but elsewhere the variations were small.

Rain—The general distribution of rainfall has been described in the earlier paragraphs. The first depression described, occasioned rain in nearly all parts of Northern and a great part of Central India, while the second gave rain to the Punjab, Sind, and Baluchistan only. In addition showers occurred in the south of the Peninsula.

The concluding table shows that rain has been very general throughout India. Of the fifty-one rainfall divisions thirty-seven have received rain the average amount for the division ranging from only 0·01" in Tenasserim and the west of the Central Provinces to 1·23" in the Hill districts of the Punjab. Of the thirty-seven divisions which received rain thirteen had an average fall for the week of less than one-tenth of an inch, but all the other divisions received effective rainfall. The regions which had no rain include all the Burma divisions except Tenasserim, Coorg, the centre of the Peninsula, Bombay, Guzerat, Kattiawar, Berar, and the west of Rajputana, all the other parts of the Indian region reporting more or less rain. Of the thirty-seven divisions reporting rainfall twenty-eight had more and eight less than the amount usually received during the week. In the Punjab (west) there was no difference. Tenasserim, the Assam Valley, all the Bengal divisions except Bengal East and Orissa, all the North-Western Provinces divisions, all the Punjab divisions except the north-west and west Malabar, Madras (south, central), Mysore, the Central Provinces (central and east) Sind, Central India, the east of Rajputana, Madras (central and south), and the East coast (central), all had more or less abnormally heavy rain. In the North-Western Provinces (east), the Hill districts of the Punjab, and Madras (south, central) this excess was more than ½ inch.

The columns showing the state of the seasonal rainfall exhibit an excess of rain between January the 3rd and the present date, in the Assam Valley, Chota Nagpur, the North-Western Provinces (east, central and west divisions), the Punjab (south and central divisions), Madras (south, central division), the Central Provinces (central and west divisions), Central India, and Rajputana (east). In all the other divisions there is a deficiency which is most marked in Burma, Coorg, the Konkan, the Deccan, Khandeish and Kattiawar, where there has been no rain.

The returns of heavy falls show several considerable amounts thus in—

Madras.—For week ending 27th February.—Some local showers in Tinnevelly and Nilgiris. Agricultural prospects unaltered. Harvest still going on in Southern districts; outturn moderate. Deccan districts and Nellore—fodder still scarce, and cattle suffering in many parts; water-supply also decreasing.. Prices generally easier except in Vizagapatam and Kurnool where rise slight, and in South Arcot; marked fall in Bellary. Principal food-grains now above scarcity rates only in Nellore, Cuddapah, North Arcot. Numbers on works:—Deccan—men 7,927, women 11,076, children 4,621; East Coast—men 1,980, women 2,035, children 551; South Central—men 1,171, women 2,742, children 752; total 32,855 against 35,646 last week; decrease chiefly in Cumbum not explained. Gratuitous relief:—Deccan—men 76, women 160, children 734; South Central—men 35, women 84, children 129; total 1,218 against 1,221 last week. Loans for construction and repair of wells:—Deccan, R1,62,518; East Coast, R2,60,000; South Central, R2,92,266, disbursed. Wells constructed:—89, 1,850, and 286; under construction 1,349, 3,216, 1,471 in respective blocks. Agricultural Loans Act—R30,690, R28,395, R76,713, disbursed in respective blocks.

Bombay.—For week ending 2nd March.—Slight rain in parts of Karachi. Standing crops withered in parts of Deccan and Karnatak and damaged by frost, blight, or insects in parts of five districts. Poppy plants in Baroda slightly diseased. Fodder scarce in parts of nine and water in parts of four districts. Cattle distressed in parts of five districts. Prices generally steady. Harvesting of late crops and cotton-picking progressing. Preparations for next season commenced in three districts. Numbers on relief works:—Professional agency -Bijapur 23, Belgaum 78, and Dharwar 5,273; Civil agency—Belgaum 1,511, Dharwar 4,886.

Bengal.—For week ending 1st March.—Light showers fell in a few localities during the week. Weather fairly cool. Rabi crops are being harvested, but the outturn does not promise well generally owing to want of rain, and in some parts will be very poor. The recent rain has facilitated cultivation for early rice and jute, but more is still required. Indigo sowings are progressing favourably. Spring rice is doing well. Sugarcane is still being harvested, and the general yield is satisfactory. The tobacco harvest is giving a good outturn. Opium collection is in fair progress, but the high west wind during the past week has been injurious to the poppy in Monghyr and Saran. Mango and mahua prospects are promising. Cattle are generally doing well, and there are good supplies of fodder and water, which are said to have been materially increased by the recent rain. Prices are still steady in most places. The condition of affairs in the districts of Monghyr, Bhagalpur, and Purnea, has not undergone any marked change. In Monghyr relief works have been started on two roads in the Bukhtearpur tract, but very few persons have resorted to them, the daily average attendance for the week ending 13th February being only 170. In Bhagalpur there are two road works and one embankment work open, and the latest report, dated the 16th February, states that 2,300 persons were then employed on them. On these works famine wages were not given, and numbers are expected to diminish under stricter supervision. In Purneah about 2,000 persons have come to the three road works opened in thana Amour, where a small amount of gratuitous relief has also been given. In the Patna and Rajshahi Divisions there has been some improvement in the situation. The late rain is said to have done good to almost every crop, and prices have slightly fallen. There are as yet no signs of distress anywhere in these two divisions. In the Patna Division the rabi harvest is expected to give employment to the people and tide them over for at least another month even in the worst tracts.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

[Revised Advertisement.]

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in seven volumes during the current year, but an eighth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Rangoon Port Commissioners Act, 1879, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1892:—

From D. D. Coath, Esq., A.M.I.C.E., Vice-President, Rangoon Municipality, to the Hon'ble H. W. Bliss, dated 21st January, 1892 [Paper No. 1].
From Junior Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 356—1-P.-5, dated 11th February, 1892, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Rangoon Port Commissioners Act, 1879, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

2. To obviate the inconvenience caused by section 5 of the Act, which requires ex-officio as well as other Commissioners to be re-appointed every two years, we have, at the suggestion of the Chief Commissioner, amended the section so as to permit of ex-officio appointments holding good, notwithstanding a change in the holder of the office, until the Local Government otherwise directs.

3. Having regard to the fact that the Rangoon Port Commissioners form a public body, administering public affairs and public funds, and to the privilege which this Bill confers on members of that body, we have thought it right to add to section 60 of the Act a new clause declaring that all meetings of the Commissioners shall be open to the public. At the same time, in order to permit of secrecy in cases in which it may for any special reason be expedient or necessary, we have reserved power to the President to issue special directions in particular cases.

4. In accordance with a proposal made by the Chief Commissioner we have added words to section 63 of the Act which will empower the Commissioners to employ temporary establishments without reference to the Local Government, but we have deemed it advisable to limit this power to employment for not more than three consecutive months at any one time of officers on a salary not exceeding Rs. 100 a month.

Bills introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for making Laws and Regulations, Reports of Select Committees presented to the Council, and Bills published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Court of Wards Act, 1879 (B. C.), was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1892:—

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Court of Wards Act, 1879 (B C.), was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 852-L. R., dated 4th March, 1892 [Paper No. 1].

2. In the new clause (f) added to section 9 of the Act by section 5 of the Bill we have omitted certain words which seemed to give to persons disqualified under section 6, clause (e), power as of right to require the Court to release the estate from its charge.

3. The object of the words which we have inserted in the proviso to the same clause is to make it clear that the question whether any debt or liability of a deceased proprietor is binding on his representative should be decided by a competent Civil Court and not by the Court of Wards.

4. We have omitted sections 7, 11 and 12 of the Bill as introduced because it seems desirable that legislation on the subject of grant of probate and letters of administration to the Court of Wards should be postponed until certain questions relating to the issue of certificates under the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880 (B. C.), which are now under discussion have been finally settled.

5. For section 8 of the Bill as introduced, which amended section 11 of the Act, we have by section 7 of the amended Bill substituted a new section with the modifications necessary to meet the alteration in the law made by section 2 of the Bill.

6. It seems to us unnecessary to retain section 10 of the Bill as introduced, because in our opinion the addition to section 9 of the Act contained in the new clause (f) renders the proposed section superfluous.

7. We have altered the form of the addition to the Act made by section 16 of the Bill as introduced, making its second portion into a new section, numbered 60A. In this new section we have provided that the property of the ward may at any time be taken in execution under a decree with the permission of the Court of Wards.

8. The Bill was published under rule 22 of the Rules for the Conduct of Legislative Business as follows :—

"The provisions of section 424 of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not apply to any such suit. XIV of 1882

When Collector may be cited.

(2) If such suit is solely to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested, the Collector shall not be cited as a defendant, but the Court shall nevertheless at once send him notice of the institution of the suit.

"20. (1) On receipt of a summons under section 64 of the Code of Civil Procedure to appear as a defendant or of a notice of the institution of a suit under section 19 (2), the Collector shall, within fourteen days, deposit in the Court the compensation awarded by him together with a further sum amounting to fifteen per centum on the market-value mentioned in section 24 or so much of the said sums as shall not already have been paid to persons interested under Part V. XIV of 1882

Deposit by Collector and disposal of amount of compensation.

(2) If the suit is solely to enhance the compensation awarded by the Collector, the Court which tries the suit may deal with the sums so deposited under the provisions of section 377 (but not of sections 378 and 379) of the Code of Civil Procedure; but

(3) If the suit is also, or solely, to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested, the Court shall retain the sums so deposited pending the decision of the suit, and shall then pay them to the parties in such proportions as may be ordered by the decree; and for this purpose may transfer them to the Court which tries the suit:

Provided that, if the Court which tries the suit shall decide that the compensation awarded by the Collector was in excess of the compensation which should properly have been awarded for the land, the said Court shall in its decree order that the plaintiff shall refund to the Collector any sum which, either under Part V or under section 377 of the Code of Civil Procedure, he may have been paid in excess of the sum which the said Court shall decide to be the compensation which should properly have been awarded for the land; and such excess so paid shall be recoverable by the Collector as costs in the suit.

21. If the Local Government shall be of opinion that the compensation awarded by the Collector is excessive, it may institute a suit in the Court against the persons interested, or any one or more of them, either to alter the award of the Collector by the reduction of the compensation awarded by him, if the amount so awarded (including the additional sum of fifteen per centum directed to be paid by section 41), or so much thereof as is not in excess of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) has not been paid to persons interested; or, if the amount of the award (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum), or any portion thereof in excess of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) has been paid to persons interested, to recover the excess of such amount, or portion thereof, as the case may be, over the total of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) from the persons to whom such excess has been paid:

Suit by Government to alter the Collector's award or for refund of compensation.

Provided that every such suit shall be instituted within not more than three months from the date of the Collector's award.

VII of 1870. 22. (1) For the purposes of the Court-fees Act, 1870, the value of a suit to alter the award of the Collector by the enhancement or reduction of the compensation awarded by him shall be taken to be the sum by which it is sought to enhance or reduce such compensation, as the case may be; and the value of a suit to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested shall be taken to be the total amount of the compensation.

Valuation of suits and determination of jurisdiction.

(2) For the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto, the value of a suit instituted under this Part shall be taken to be the total amount of the compensation awarded by the Collector.

"23. The Court may transfer for trial any suit instituted under this Part to any Court subordinate to itself, and competent to try the same in respect of its nature, and of the amount or value of its subject-matter:

Transfer of suits.

Provided that, except under the written permission of the Local Government, no such suit shall be transferred for trial to any Court which is not stationed at the head-quarter station of the land-revenue district in which the land is situated.

"Such written permission may be either general or special, and may at any time be annulled by the Local Government.

"24. In a suit to alter the amount of compensation awarded by the Collector, the Court which tries the suit shall take into consideration—

Matters to be considered in determining compensation.

First, the market-value of the land at the date of the publication of the declaration relating thereto under section 6;

Secondly, the damage (if any) sustained by the person interested, at the time of the Collector's taking possession of the land, by reason of severing such land from his other land;

Thirdly, the damage (if any) sustained by the person interested, at the time of the Collector's taking possession of the land, by reason of the acquisition injuriously affecting his other property, whether moveable or immoveable, in any other manner, or his earnings; and Fourthly, if, in consequence of the acquisition of the land by the Collector, the person interested is compelled to change his residence or place of business, the reasonable expenses (if any) incidental to such change.

Explanation.—By 'market-value' is meant the sum for which the land might reasonably have been expected to have been sold, if put up to auction on the spot, without undue haste and under ordinary circumstances, immediately before the publication of the declaration relating thereto under section 6.

"25. But in such a suit the Court which tries the suit shall not take into consideration—

Matters to be neglected in determining compensation.

First, the degree of urgency which has led to the acquisition;

Secondly, any disinclination of the person interested to part with the land acquired;

Thirdly, any damage sustained by him which, if caused by a private person, would not render such person liable to a suit;

Fourthly, any damage which, after the date of the publication of the declaration under section 6, is likely to be caused to the land by or in consequence of the use to which the land acquired will be put;

Fifthly, any increase to the value of the land acquired likely to accrue from the use to which it will be put when acquired;

Seventhly, any outlay or improvements on the land acquired commenced, made or effected after the date of the publication of the declaration under section 6.

"26. The decree in a suit to alter the amount of compensation awarded by the Collector shall state—

Matters to be stated in decree.

First, the sum which, in the opinion of the Court which tries the suit, the Collector ought to have awarded as compensation; and

Secondly, the sum or sums which, after the addition to the said sum of fifteen per centum on the market-value of the land mentioned in section 24, shall be paid by, or to, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or any of them, to, or by, the defendant or defendants, or any of them.

"27. (1) If the sum which, in the opinion of the Court which tries the suit, the Collector ought to have awarded as compensation, is in excess of the sum which the Collector did award as compensation, the decree may direct that the Collector shall pay interest on such excess at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date on which he took possession of the land to the date of payment of such excess into Court.

Collector may be directed to pay interest on excess compensation.

(2) The decree shall not otherwise direct that the Collector shall pay interest, save under section 222 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

XIV of 1882.

28. Save in so far as inconsistent with anything contained in this Act, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply to suits instituted under this Part.

Code of Civil Procedure to apply.

XIV of 1882.

"29. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the decree, or from any part of the decree, in any suit instituted under this Part, of a judicial officer appointed by the Local Government under section 3, either specially for any case, or generally within any special local limits, to perform the functions of a Judge under this Act, against whose decisions no appeal lies under any law for the time being in force relating to his exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction."

11. Part IV of the said Act is hereby repealed.

Provided that nothing herein contained shall affect the liability of any person, who may receive the whole or any part of any compensation awarded under this Act, to pay the same to the person lawfully entitled thereto.

"41. (1) In addition to the amount of any compensation awarded under Part II, the Collector shall, in consideration of the compulsory nature of the acquisition, pay fifteen per centum on the market-value mentioned in section 24.

Percentage on market-value.

(2) When the amount of such compensation is not paid or payment thereof tendered on or before taking possession of the land, the Collector shall pay the amount awarded and the said percentage with interest on such amount and percentage at the rate of six per centum per annum from the time of so taking possession."

13. In section 45 of the said Act, the words "and on such reference, or on a reference under section 43, the Judge sitting alone shall decide the difference referred" are repealed.

"The provisions of section 424 of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not apply to any such suit. XIV of 1882.

"19. (1) If such suit is either solely or partly to enhance the compensation awarded by the Collector, the Collector shall be cited as the defendant or as one of the defendants.

When Collector may be cited.

(2) If such suit is solely to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested, the Collector shall not be cited as a defendant, but the Court shall nevertheless at once send him notice of the institution of the suit.

"20. (1) On receipt of a summons under section 64 of the Code of Civil Procedure to appear as a defendant or of a notice of the institution of a suit under section 19 (2), the Collector shall, within fourteen days, deposit in the Court the compensation awarded by him together with a further sum amounting to fifteen per centum on the market-value mentioned in section 24 or so much of the said sums as shall not already have been paid to persons interested under Part V. XIV of 1882.

Deposit by Collector and disposal of amount of compensation.

(2) If the suit is solely to enhance the compensation awarded by the Collector, the Court which tries the suit may deal with the sums so deposited under the provisions of section 377 (but not of sections 378 and 379) of the Code of Civil Procedure; but

(3) If the suit is also, or solely, to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested, the Court shall retain the sums so deposited pending the decision of the suit, and shall then pay them to the parties in such proportions as may be ordered by the decree; and for this purpose may transfer them to the Court which tries the suit:

Provided that, if the Court which tries the suit shall decide that the compensation awarded by the Collector was in excess of the compensation which should properly have been awarded for the land, the said Court shall in its decree order that the plaintiff shall refund to the Collector any sum which, either under Part V or under section 377 of the Code of Civil Procedure, he may have been paid in excess of the sum which the said Court shall decide to be the compensation which should properly have been awarded for the land; and such excess so paid shall be recoverable by the Collector as costs in the suit.

21. If the Local Government shall be of opinion that the compensation awarded by the Collector is excessive, it may institute a suit in the Court against the persons interested, or any one or more of them, either to alter the award of the Collector by the reduction of the compensation awarded by him, if the amount so awarded (including the additional sum of fifteen per centum directed to be paid by section 41), or so much thereof as is not in excess of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) has not been paid to persons interested; or, if the amount of the award (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum), or any portion thereof in excess of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) has been paid to persons interested, to recover the excess of such amount, or portion thereof, as the case may be, over the total of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) from the persons to whom such excess has been paid:

Suit by Government to alter the Collector's award or for refund of compensation.

Provided that every such suit shall be instituted within not more than three months from the date of the Collector's award.

22. (1) For the purposes of the Court-fees Act, 1870, the value of a suit to alter the award of the Collector by the enhancement or reduction of the compensation awarded by him shall be taken to be the sum by which it is sought to enhance or reduce such compensation, as the case may be; and the value of a suit to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested shall be taken to be the total amount of the compensation.

Valuation of suits and determination of jurisdiction.

[VII] of 1870.

(2) For the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto, the value of a suit instituted under this Part shall be taken to be the total amount of the compensation awarded by the Collector.

"23. The Court may transfer for trial any suit instituted under this Part to any Court subordinate to itself, and competent to try the same in respect of its nature, and of the amount or value of its subject-matter:

Transfer of suits.

Provided that, except under the written permission of the Local Government, no such suit shall be transferred for trial to any Court which is not stationed at the head-quarter station of the land-revenue district in which the land is situated.

"Such written permission may be either general or special, and may at any time be annulled by the Local Government.

"24. In a suit to alter the amount of compensation awarded by the Collector, the Court which tries the suit shall take into consideration—

Matters to be considered in determining compensation.

First, the market-value of the land at the date of the publication of the declaration relating thereto under section 6;

Secondly, the damage (if any) sustained by the person interested, at the time of the Collector's taking possession of the land, by reason of severing such land from his other land;

Thirdly, the damage (if any) sustained by the person interested, at the time of the Collector's taking possession of the land, by reason of the acquisition injuriously affecting his other property, whether moveable or immoveable, in any other manner, or his earnings; and Fourthly, if, in consequence of the acquisition of the land by the Collector, the person interested is compelled to change his residence or place of business, the reasonable expenses (if any) incidental to such change.

Explanation.—By 'market-value' is meant the sum for which the land might reasonably have been expected to have been sold, if put up to auction on the spot, without undue haste and under ordinary circumstances, immediately before the publication of the declaration relating thereto under section 6.

"25. But in such a suit the Court which tries the suit shall not take into consideration—

Matters to be neglected in determining compensation.

First, the degree of urgency which has led to the acquisition;

Secondly, any disinclination of the person interested to part with the land acquired;

Thirdly, any damage sustained by him which, if caused by a private person, would not render such person liable to a suit;

Fourthly, any damage which, after the date of the publication of the declaration under section 6, is likely to be caused to the land by or in consequence of the use to which the land acquired will be put;

Fifthly, any increase to the value of the land acquired likely to accrue from the use to which it will be put when acquired;

Seventhly, any outlay or improvements on the land acquired commenced, made or effected after the date of the publication of the declaration under section 6.

"26. The decree in a suit to alter the amount of compensation awarded by the Collector shall state—

Matters to be stated in decree.

First, the sum which, in the opinion of the Court which tries the suit, the Collector ought to have awarded as compensation; and

Secondly, the sum or sums which, after the addition to the said sum of fifteen per centum on the market-value of the land mentioned in section 24, shall be paid by, or to, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or any of them, to, or by, the defendant or defendants, or any of them.

"27. (1) If the sum which, in the opinion of the Court which tries the suit, the Collector ought to have awarded as compensation, is in excess of the sum which the Collector did award as compensation, the decree may direct that the Collector shall pay interest on such excess at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date on which he took possession of the land to the date of payment of such excess into Court.

Collector may be directed to pay interest on excess compensation.

(2) The decree shall not otherwise direct that the Collector shall pay interest, save under section 222 of the Code of Civil Procedure. XIV of 1882.

28. Save in so far as inconsistent with anything contained in this Act, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply to suits instituted under this Part.

Code of Civil Procedure to apply. XIV of 1882.

"29. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the decree, or from any part of the decree, in any suit instituted under this Part, of a judicial officer appointed by the Local Government under section 3, either specially for any case, or generally within any special local limits, to perform the functions of a Judge under this Act, against whose decisions no appeal lies under any law for the time being in force relating to his exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

FOR several years past the amendment of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, has been under consideration by the Government of India in communication with Local Governments.

2. Before the passing of that Act, the valuation of the lands, which it was found necessary to take up for the execution of public works, was entirely in the hands of Arbitrators, from whose decision there was no appeal. This system led to a lamentable waste of the public money, both because the Arbitrators were incompetent, and sometimes, it is to be feared, corrupt, and also because the law, as it then stood, laid down no instructions for their guidance in the performance of their duties. This latter defect, among others, was remedied by the Act of 1870, which it is now proposed to amend, and which contains detailed instructions as to the matters which are to be considered, and which are to be neglected, in awards of compensation for lands acquired under its provisions The Act of 1870 also provided for the abolition of the system under which uncontrolled discretion was entrusted to Arbitrators; and, in lieu thereof, required the Collector, when unable to come to terms with the persons interested in land which it was desired to take up, to refer the difference for the decision of a Civil Court, usually that of the District Judge. In the disposal of such references, the Court is aided by Assessors, and its finding is final if the Judge and one or more of the Assessors agree. If, however, the Judge and the Assessors disagree, an appeal is allowed, which usually lies to the High Court.

3. The Act of 1870 has not, in practice, been found entirely effective for the protection either of the persons interested in lands taken up or of the public purse. The requirement that the Collector shall refer for the decision of the Court every petty difference of opinion as to value, and every case in which any one of perhaps a large number of persons fails to attend before him, has involved in litigation, with all its trouble and delay and expense, a great number of persons whose interest in the land was extremely insignificant. It has, in fact, frequently been the case that the owners of small pieces of land have had to pay Court costs to an amount far exceeding the value of the land itself.

4. On the other hand, the provisions of the Act as to the incidence of costs, the whole of which fall on the Collector if the final award is ever so little in excess of the amount of his tender, are such as to encourage extravagant and speculative claims. The chance of altogether escaping the payment of costs is so great, that claimants are in the position of risking very little in order to gain very much, and have, therefore, every motive to refuse even liberal offers made by the Collector, and to try their luck by compelling a reference to the Court. Much the same may be said as to the provisions of the existing law regarding the payment of interest. No matter how fair the original offer of the Collector and how groundless the refusal to accept the compensation he has tendered, interest is payable on the amount of the award finally arrived at from the date of the Collector's taking possession of the land. This may be for a period of two or three years, and, as interest continues to run until the litigation is finally completed, it is to the advantage of the land-owner to protract the proceedings to the utmost. All this casts a very heavy and undeserved burden on the public purse.

5. It is proposed, therefore, to amend the law by making the Collector's award final, unless altered by the decree in a regular suit. Persons interested in land taken up for public works will thus still have the opportunity, if they desire it, of preferring to an authority quite independent of the Collector their claims to more substantial compensation than the Collector has awarded; and will in all cases have a further right of appeal to the regular appellate courts. They will no longer, however, be encouraged to litigate by the feeling that they can hardly lose, but may make a great gain by doing so.

6. This change in the procedure for determining the valuation of lands taken up for public works will also render it possible to dispense with the services of the Assessors, who are now supposed to assist the Court. Considering the difficulty, almost throughout the country, of obtaining the services of such Assessors as are really qualified to form a sound opinion on the subject of the valuation of land, it is believed that the proposal to dispense with them, and to leave the matter to the sole arbitrament, first of the Collector, and then of the Judge, will in no way diminish the efficiency of the Courts in enquiries in which the value of lands is in issue. It will certainly tend to shorten litigation and to diminish its expense.

7. Several minor amendments in the law, which experience has shown to be desirable, are included in the Bill.

8. A copy of the Act of 1870, as it will stand if amended as proposed by the Bill, is annexed.

Declaration that land is required for a public purpose.

6. Subject to the provisions of Part VII of this Act, whenever it appears to the Local Government that any particular land is needed for a public purpose, or for a Company, a declaration shall be made to that effect under the signature of a Secretary to such Government or of some officer duly authorized to certify its orders:

Provided that no such declaration shall be made unless the compensation to be awarded for such property is to be paid out of public revenues, or out of some fund controlled or managed by a local authority as defined in section 3 (6) of the General Clauses

I of 1887. Act, 1887, or by a Company.

Contents of declaration.

The declaration shall be published in the local official gazette and shall state the district or other territorial division in which the land is situate, the purpose for which it is needed, its approximate area, and, where a plan shall have been made of the land, the place where such plan may be inspected.

Declaration to be evidence.

The said declaration shall be conclusive evidence that the land is needed for a public purpose or for a Company, as the case may be; and after making such declaration, the Local Government may acquire the land in manner hereinafter appearing.

After declaration, Collector to take order for acquisition.

7. Whenever any land shall have been so declared to be needed for a public purpose or for a Company, the Local Government, or some officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, shall direct the Collector to take order for the acquisition of the land.

Land to be marked out and measured. Plan.

8. The Collector shall thereupon cause the land (unless it has been already marked out under section 4) to be marked out. He shall also cause it to be measured, and (if no plan has been made thereof) a plan to be made of the same.

9. The Collector shall then cause public notice to be given at convenient places on or near the land to be taken, stating that the Government intends to take possession of the land, and that claims to compensation for all interests in such land may be made to him.

Contents of notice.

Such notice shall state the particulars of the land so needed and shall require all persons interested in the land to appear personally or by agent before the Collector at a time and place therein mentioned (such time not being earlier than fifteen days after the date of publication of the notice) and to state the nature of their respective interests in the land and the amount and particulars of their claims to compensation for such interests, and their objections (if any) to the measurements made under section 8.

Notice to occupiers.

The Collector shall also serve notice to the same effect on the occupier (if any) of such land and on all such persons known or believed to be interested therein, or to be entitled to act for persons so interested, as reside, or have agents authorised to receive service on their behalf, within the Revenue District in which the land is situate.

In case any person so interested resides elsewhere, and has no such agent, the notice shall be sent to him by post, registered.

Power to require statements as to interests.

10. The Collector may also require any such person to make or deliver to him at a time and place mentioned (such time not being earlier than fifteen days after the date of the requisition) a statement containing, so far as may be practicable, the name of every other person possessing any interest in the land or any part thereof as co-proprietor, sub-proprietor, mortgagee, tenant or otherwise, and of the nature of such interest, and of the rents and profits (if any) received or receivable on account thereof for the year next preceding the date of the statement.

Persons required to make statements to be deemed legally bound to do so.

Every person required to make or deliver a statement under this section or section 9 shall be deemed to be legally bound to do so within the meaning of sections 175 and 176 of the Indian Penal Code.

Enquiry into Measurements, Value and Claims and Award by the Collector.

Enquiry and award by Collector.

11. On the day so fixed or on any other day to which the enquiry has been adjourned, the Collector shall proceed to enquire into the objections (if any) which any person interested has stated under section 9 to the measurements made under section 8, and into the value of the land, and shall make an award under his hand of—

(i) the true measurements of the land;

(ii) the compensation which in his opinion should be allowed for the land; and

(iii) the apportionment of the said compensation among all the persons known or believed to be interested in the land, of whom, or of whose claims, he has information, whether or not they have respectively appeared before him.

Award of Collector when to be final.

12. Such award shall be filed in the Collector's office and shall be final and conclusive evidence as between the Collector and the persons interested, whether they have respectively appeared before the Collector or not,—

(i) of the true measurements of the land;

(ii) unless altered in the manner hereinafter provided, also of the value of the land and of the apportionment of the compensation among the persons interested.

Adjournment of enquiry.

13. The Collector may, for any cause he thinks fit, from time to time adjourn the enquiry to a day to be fixed by him.

Power to summon and enforce attendance of witnesses and production of documents.

14. For the purpose of enquiries under this Act, the Collector shall have power to summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and to compel the production of documents by the same means, and (so far as may be) in the same manner, as is provided in the case of a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure. XIV of 1882.

Matters to be considered and neglected.

15. In determining the amount of compensation, the Collector shall take into consideration the matters mentioned in section 24, and shall not take into consideration any of the matters mentioned in section 25.

Taking Possession.

Power to take possession.

16. When the Collector has made an award under section 11, he shall take possession of the land, which shall thereupon vest absolutely in the Government free from all encumbrances :

Provided that, in any case where immediate possession is not required, the Collector may allow the occupants (if any) of the land to remain in the occupation of the same upon such terms as he and they may agree on until possession of the land is required.

Power to take possession in cases of urgency.

17. In cases of urgency, whenever the Local Government so directs, the Collector (though no such award has been made) may, on the expiration of fifteen days from the publication of the notice mentioned in the first paragraph of section 9, take possession of any wasfe or arable land needed for public purposes or for a Company.

Such land shall thereupon vest absolutely in the Government free from all encumbrances.

The Collector shall offer to the persons interested compensation for the standing crops and trees (if any) on such land and for any other damage sustained by them; and in case such offer is not accepted, the value of such crops and trees and the amount of such other damage shall be allowed for in awarding compensation for the land under the provisions herein contained.

PART III.

SUITS TO ALTER THE COLLECTOR'S AWARD.

Suits by persons interested to alter Collector's award.

18. A person interested may institute a suit in the Court to alter the award of the Collector under section 11, by the enhancement of the compensation awarded by the Collector or by the alteration of the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested, or in both ways:

Provided that every such suit shall be instituted within not more than three months from the date of the Collector's award if the person interested instituting it received a notice from the Collector under the third paragraph of section 9, or within not more than six months from the date of the Collector's award if the person or persons instituting it, or any of them, did not receive a notice from the Collector under the third paragraph of section 9.

XIV of 1882. The provisions of section 424 of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not apply to any such suit.

When Collector may be cited.

19. (1) If such suit is either solely or partly to enhance the compensation awarded by the Collector, the Collector shall be cited as the defendant or as one of the defendants.

(2) If such suit is solely to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested, the Collector shall not be cited as a defendant, but the Court shall nevertheless at once send him notice of the institution of the suit.

XIV of 1882.

Deposit by Collector and disposal of amount of compensation.

20. (1) On receipt of a summons under section 64 of the Code of Civil Procedure to appear as a defendant or of a notice of the institution of a suit under section 19 (2), the Collector shall, within fourteen days, deposit in the Court the compensation awarded by him together with a further sum amounting to 15 per centum on the market-value mentioned in section 24, or so much of the said sums as shall not already have been paid to persons interested under Part V.

(2) If the suit is solely to enhance the compensation awarded by the Collector, the Court which tries the suit may deal with the sums so deposited under the provisions of section 377 (but not of sections 378 and 379) of the Code of Civil Procedure; but

(3) If the suit is also, or solely, to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested, the Court shall retain the sums so deposited pending the decision of the suit, and shall then pay them to the parties in such proportions as may be ordered by the decree; and for this purpose may transfer them to the Court which tries the suit

Provided that, if the Court which tries the suit shall decide that the compensation awarded by the Collector was in excess of the compensation which should properly have been awarded for the land, the said Court shall in its decree order that the plaintiff shall refund to the Collector any sum which, either under Part V or under section 377 of the Code of Civil Procedure, he may have been paid in excess of the sum which the said Court shall decide to be the compensation which should properly have been awarded for the land; and such excess so paid shall be recoverable by the Collector as costs in the suit.

Suit by Government to alter the Collector's award or for refund of compensation.

21. If the Local Government shall be of opinion that the compensation awarded by the Collector is excessive, it may institute a suit in the Court against the persons interested, on any one or more of them, either to alter the award of the Collector by the reduction of the compensation awarded by him, if the amount so awarded (including the additional sum of fifteen per centum directed to be paid by section 41), or so much thereof as is not in excess of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) has not been paid to the persons interested; or,

If the amount of the award (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum), or any portion thereof in excess of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) has been paid to persons interested, to recover the excess of such amount, or portion thereof, as the case may be, over the total of the sum which the Local Government admits to be the proper compensation for the land (including the said additional sum of fifteen per centum) from the persons to whom such excess has been paid:

Provided that every such suit shall be instituted within not more than three months from the date of the Collector's award.

Valuation of suits and determination of jurisdiction.

22. (1) For the purposes of the Court-fees Act, 1870, the value of a suit to alter the award of the Collector by the enhancement or reduction of the compensation awarded by him shall be taken to be the sum by which it is sought to enhance or reduce such compensation, as the case may be; and the value of a suit to alter the apportionment, made by the Collector, of the compensation among the persons interested, shall be taken to be the total amount of the compensation. VII of 1870.

(2) For the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto the value of a suit instituted under this Part shall be taken to be the total amount of the compensation awarded by the Collector.

Transfer of suits.

23. The Court may transfer for trial any suit instituted under this Part to any Court subordinate to itself, and competent to try the same in respect of its nature, and of the amount or value of its subject-matter:

Provided that, except under the written permission of the Local Government, no such suit shall be transferred for trial to any Court which is not stationed at the head-quarter station of the land-revenue district in which the land is situated.

Such written permission may be either general or special and may at any time be annulled by the Local Government.

Matters to be considered in determining compensation.

24. In a suit to alter the amount of compensation awarded by the Collector, the Court which tries the suit shall take into consideration—

First the market-value of the land at the date of the publication of the declaration relating thereto under section 6;

Secondly, the damage (if any) sustained by the person interested, at the time of the Collector's taking possession of the land, by reason of severing such land from his other land;

Thirdly, the damage (if any) sustained by the person interested, at the time of the Collector's taking possession of the land, by reason of the acquisition injuriously affecting his other property, whether moveable or immoveable, in any other manner or his earnings; and Fourthly, if, in consequence of the acquisition of the land by the Collector, the person interested is compelled to change his residence or place of business, the reasonable expenses (if any) incidental to such change.

Explanation.—By 'market-value' is meant the sum for which the land might reasonably have been expected to have been sold, if put up to auction on the spot, without undue haste and under ordinary circumstances, immediately before the publication of the declaration relating thereto under section 6.

Matters to be neglected in determining compensation.

25. But in such a suit the Court which tries the suit shall not take into consideration—

First, the degree of urgency which has led to the acquisition;

Secondly, any disinclination of the person interested to part with the land acquired;

Thirdly, any damage sustained by him which, if caused by a private person, would not render such person liable to a suit;

Fourthly, any damage which, after the date of the publication of the declaration under section 6, is likely to be caused to the land by or in consequence of the use to which the land acquired will be put;

Fifthly, any increase to the value of the land acquired likely to accrue from the use to which it will be put when acquired;

Sixthly, any increase to the value of the other land of the person interested likely to accrue from the use to which the land acquired will be put; or

Seventhly, any outlay or improvements on the land acquired commenced, made or effected after the date of the publication of the declaration under section 6.

Matters to be stated in decree.

26. The decree in a suit to alter the amount of compensation awarded by the Collector shall state—

First, the sum which, in the opinion of the Court which tries the suit, the Collector ought to have awarded as compensation; and

Secondly, the sum or sums which, after the addition to the said sum of fifteen per centum on the market-value of the land mentioned in section 24, shall be paid by, or to, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or any of them, to, or by, the defendant or defendants, or any of them.

Collector may be directed to pay interest on excess compensation.

27. (1) If the sum which, in the opinion of the Court which tries the suit, the Collector ought to have awarded as compensation, is in excess of the sum which the Collector did award as compensation, the decree may direct that the Collector shall pay interest on such excess at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date on which he took possession of the land to the date of payment of such excess into Court.

(2) The decree shall not otherwise direct that the Collector shall pay interest, save under section 222 of the Code of Civil Procedure. XIV of 1882.

Code of Civil Procedure to apply.

28. Save in so far as inconsistent with anything contained in this Act, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply to suits instituted under this Part. XIV of 1882.

Appeals in certain cases.

29. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the decree, or from any part of the decree, in any suit instituted under this Part, of a Judicial Officer appointed by the Local Government under section 3, either specially for any case or generally within any special local limits, to perform the functions of a Judge under this Act, against whose decisions no appeal lies under any law for the time being in force relating to his exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction.

PART V.

Payment.

Payment of compensation to whom to be made.

40 On making an award under section 11 the Collector shall tender payment of the compensation awarded by him to the persons interested entitled thereto according to the award, and shall pay it to them if they shall consent to receive it :

Provided that nothing herein contained shall affect the liability of any person, who may receive the whole or any part of any compensation awarded under this Act, to pay the same to the person lawfully entitled thereto.

Percentage on market-value.

41. (1) In addition to the amount of any compensation awarded under Part II, the Collector shall, in consideration of the compulsory nature of the acquisition, pay fifteen per centum on the market-value mentioned in section 24.

(2) When the amount of such compensation is not paid or payment thereof tendered on or before taking possession of the land, the Collector shall pay the amount awarded and the said percentage with interest on such amount and percentage at the rate of six per centum per annum from the time of so taking possession.

PART VI.

TEMPORARY OCCUPATION OF LAND.

Temporary occupation of waste or arable land.

43. Subject to the provisions of Part VII of this Act, whenever it appears to the Local Government that the temporary occupation and use of any waste or arable land are needed for any public purpose, or for a Company, the Local Government may direct the Collector to procure the occupation and use of the same for such term as it shall think fit, not exceeding three years from the commencement of such occupation.

The Collector shall thereupon give notice in writing to the persons interested in such land of the purpose for which the same is needed, and shall, for the occupation and use thereof for such term as aforesaid, and for the materials (if any) to be taken therefrom, pay to them such compensation, either in a gross sum of money, or by monthly or other periodical payments, as shall be agreed upon in writing between him and such persons respectively.

Difference as to compensation.

In case the Collector and the persons interested differ as to the sufficiency of the compensation, the Collector shall refer such difference for the final order of the Court.

Power to enter and take possession.

44. On payment of such compensation, or on executing such agreement,

or on making a reference under section 43,

the Collector may enter upon and take possession of the land, and use or permit the use thereof in accordance with the terms of the said notice.

Restoration of land taken.

And, on the expiration of the term, the Collector shall make or tender to the persons interested compensation for the damage (if any) done to the land and not provided for by the agreement, and shall restore the land to the persons interested therein :

Provided that, if the land has become permanently unfit to be used for the purpose for which it was used immediately before the commencement of such term, and if the persons interested shall so require, the Local Government shall proceed under this Act to acquire the land as if it was needed permanently for a public purpose or for a Company.

Difference as to condition of land.

45. In case the Collector and persons interested differ as to the condition of the land at the expiration of the term, or as to any matter connected with the said agreement, the Collector shall refer such difference for the final order of the Court.

Costs on references under this Part.

45A. The Judge may pass such order as he may think fit in regard to the costs of a reference made under this Part, and from such order there shall be no appeal.

48. Such consent shall not be given unless the Local Government be satisfied, by an enquiry held as hereinafter provided—

(1) that such acquisition is needed for the construction of some work, and

(2) that such work is likely to prove useful to the public.

Such enquiry shall be held by such officer and at such time and place as the Local Government shall appoint.

50. Every such agreement shall, as soon as may be after its execution, be published in the Gazette of India and also in the local official gazette and shall thereupon (so far as regards the terms on which the public shall be entitled to use the work) have the same effect as if it had formed part of this Act.

Sections 47 to 50 not to apply where Government bound by agreement to provide land for Companies.

MADRAS SMALL CAUSE COURT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR PHILIP HUTCHINS said:—

"I was to have presented to-day the final Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes of Madras, but I regret to say that it is not ready. The papers did not arrive from Madras till Monday, and then they had to be printed, as there was only one copy. The Committee has, however, held one meeting, at which it discussed, as far as time permitted, a long list of suggestions upon points in which the draft has been thought to be defective. Some of these defects undoubtedly exist, and as to one at least, which is likely to have a material effect on the constitution of the new Court, our opinions were equally divided. All these suggestions emanate from the High Court or Government, and ought, in our opinion, to be seen and considered by the people with whose interests the new Court will have to deal. Moreover, there has been a very general complaint that the time allowed for scrutiny of the Bill has been too short. In these circumstances we are unanimously of opinion that it will be better not to take the Bill into final consideration within the short remainder of the present session, and that it ought when fully revised to be re-published.

"In lieu, therefore, of the motion standing opposite my name I will now, with Your Excellency's permission, move:—

That the Select Committee on the Bill to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes of Madras be allowed to present a further Report on or before the 25th instant and to defer its final Report sine die."

The Hon'ble SIR ALEXANDER MILLER said:—

"I should like before the motion is put to say one word with regard to the point upon which it has been mentioned that our opinion was equally divided, and to explain that in giving the casting vote which it became my duty to give I did so not with reference to my own opinion but following the view taken by the Government of Madras. It occurred to me that that was the proper way to exercise the casting vote where the Committee was equally divided, and therefore I should be glad that the point in question should be re-submitted to the Government of Madras, because, if they should alter their opinion, it may alter that of the Select Committee."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

RANGOON PORT COMMISSIONERS ACT, 1879, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BLISS moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Rangoon Port Commissioners Act, 1879, be taken into consideration. He said:—

"I have little to add to the Report of the Select Committee which is before the Council.

"The proposal that the meetings of the Rangoon Port Commissioners should be open to the public came from a private source, and seemed worthy of adoption. The Select Committee was, however, unable to accept the proposal without any qualification. Even in respect to the transaction of such business as the consideration of tenders put in by members of the Port Commission with the permission of the Local Government, for which it is now proposed to provide, it is evident that public debates might be most inconvenient. Members of the Port Commission may not be the only tenderers; other tenders may be put in by persons who are less well known; and in such cases it may be necessary to consider both the pecuniary and the professional competence of such other persons. The conduct and character of subordinates is another matter which it may at any time be necessary for the Port Commissioners to discuss. No doubt, in all such cases a bonâ fide discussion would be privileged; but it would none the less be most inconvenient and injurious to the free expression of opinion, and therefore prejudicial to the interests of the port, that such discussions should take place in the presence of reporters and be spread all over the place in the next morning's papers. The Select Committee was therefore of opinion that a legal power of declaring meetings of the Port Commissioners closed to the public should be reserved, and should be vested in the person presiding at the time, who will be responsible for the proper exercise of the discretion entrusted to him.

"The other additions now made to the Bill as it originally stood either emanated from the Local Government or are in accordance with the recommendations of the Port Commissioners supported by the Local Government. They will save a good deal of trouble and will facilitate the working of the port; and, as they do not go beyond the provisions of law applicable to other similar cases, it appeared to the Select Committee that they were not likely to be objected to by the public. Hence the recommendation that the Bill should be passed without re-publication.

"I may add that, on careful consideration, it appeared to the Select Committee inadvisable to adopt a proposal of the Port Commissioners that their power of sanctioning new works, without reference to the Local Government, should be considerably enhanced. A reference to the Local Government should never cause serious delay, and secures the advantage that all considerable projects must be reviewed by competent professional authorities, independent of those responsible for their preparation."

The Hon'ble MR. MACKAY said:—

"My Lord, the Bill now before your Excellency's Council contains a provision which, I believe, is foreign to all other Indian Port Trust Acts, and in this way it marks a new departure. Sub-section (g), which it is proposed to add to section 60 of the Act, provides that the meetings of the Commissioners shall be thrown open to the public except in such particular cases as the President may otherwise direct, and the provision, in my opinion, with the reservation, is a salutary one. The more light that is let in on the proceedings and projects of public bodies such as Port Commissioners, whose operations may do much to forward or retard the prosperity of the country and the progress of trade, the more likely are we to find prudence guiding their counsels, and I am therefore in favour of the new departure now proposed."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BLISS also moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

COURT OF WARDS ACT, 1879 (B.C.), AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR JOHN EDGAR presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Court of Wards Act, 1879 (B.C.).

LAND ACQUISITION ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BLISS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Land Acquisition Act, 1870. He said:—

"I must begin by explaining that I have not undertaken the preparation and introduction of this Bill on my own initiative, but at the request of my hon'ble friend Sir Philip Hutchins, and with the advantage of access to the reports which have been received from Local Governments, and to the communications which have passed between the different departments of the Government of India, during a period of nearly ten years, on the question of the amendment of the Land Acquisition Act.

"The subject of the acquisition of land for public purposes and for Companies is one of considerable importance, both to the public fisc and to the proprietors and occupiers of land throughout the country. The system under which land is acquired and compensation settled is peculiar and somewhat complicated. It may, therefore, be convenient that I should give some account of preceding and existing legislation dealing with the subject, before stating the defects which have been found, in practice, in the latter, and the remedies which it is proposed to apply.

"The earliest Act dealing with the subject which it is necessary to mention was Act VI of 1857, which was repealed by the law now in force. The method therein adopted of assessing compensation in disputed cases was an unfortunate one. The Act left the whole matter to the judgment of arbitrators, against whose decision there was no appeal whatever, unless upon the ground of corruption or misconduct, which were practically impossible of proof. The law contained, moreover, no statement of the principles which should guide the arbitrators in their awards, and imposed on them no obligation to give any reasons for their findings. The result was that, in the words of the then Advocate General, the public money was absolutely thrown away; indeed, in one case, he went further and said that the practical working of the law had led to something like robbery of the public money.

" In moving for leave to introduce, and also in introducing, the Bill which, after many changes and much consideration, ultimately became Act X of 1870, the Hon'ble Mr. (now Sir John) Strachey gave illustrations of the waste of the public money to which this system of unqualified arbitration had led, and proposed, first, that, instead of arbitrators, against whose decision there was no appeal, selected judicial officers, assisted by assessors, should determine the value of the land to be acquired in all cases in which it was disputed; secondly, that if the Judge differed from the majority of the assessors as to the value of the land, an appeal should be allowed to the High Court, whose decision would be final; and, thirdly, that the law should distinctly prescribe those considerations which should, respectively, be taken into account, and be neglected, in determining the amount of compensation which should be allowed. These proposals form a principal part of the law as it now stands. They were a great improvement on the law previously in force, but have not, in practice, worked in an entirely satisfactory manner.

" The procedure for the acquisition of land under the existing law is as follows :—

" On its appearing to the Local Government that land in any locality is likely to be required for a public purpose, a notification to that effect is published; and the proper officers are thereupon authorised to enter upon any land in that locality, to survey the same, to examine the sub-soil and to do all other acts, including the marking-out of the land, necessary to determine the fitness of the land for the proposed public purpose and the boundaries of the precise area which will be needed therefor; and for all damage done by such entry on and marking-out of the land the officers entering thereon are required at once to pay such sum as may be agreed upon, or as, in case of dispute, shall be decided by the Collector to be proper. This part of the Act may be extended to the entry on, and marking-out of, land by the officers of Companies.

" The particular land which will be needed having been thus ascertained, a formal declaration has to be published by the Local Government that it is so needed, and for what purpose it is needed; and it is provided that such declaration shall be conclusive evidence that the land is needed for a public purpose, or for a Company, but shall not be made unless the compensation to be awarded is to be paid out of the public revenues, or from some Municipal Fund, or by a Company. Herein is a matter in regard to which an amendment of the existing law seems desirable. When the Act was passed, District or Local Funds hardly existed. They were therefore not mentioned. Now, their operations extend to almost, or quite, the whole of India. But it has been held by the Law Officers of the Bombay Government that the Act, as it stands, does not warrant the compulsory acquisition of land for such purposes as the construction of a local road or the erection of a school-house from Local Funds. Obviously it should do so.

" The declaration having been issued, the Collector proceeds to have the land measured and sends notices to all persons interested therein to appear before him and state their claims to compensation. This part of the Act also needs amendment, to enable land-owners to object, if they think fit, to the measurement of the land made under the Collector's orders.

" The next step is that the Collector proceeds to enquire into the value of the land and to determine the amount of compensation which should be allowed for it. In doing so, he is guided by the principles laid down for the guidance of the Court in sections 24 and 25, to which I shall refer again. His award is final, only if he and the persons interested agree as to the amount and apportionment of the compensation. If not, or if any one of the persons interested, no matter to how small an extent, fails to attend in obedience to the Collector's summons, or if any question of title arises, the Collector has no option but to refer to the Court the whole case of the settlement and distribution of the compensation. Pending the decision of the Court, however, the Collector may take possession of the land. To this part of the Act serious practical objections exist, to which I will revert.

"The procedure of the Court, on a reference being made to it by the Collector, is regulated by Part III of the Act, and is peculiar. The Collector on the one hand, and the persons interested on the other, are required each to appoint one qualified Assessor; and the two Assessors and the Judge, sitting together, then proceed to determine the amount of the compensation to be allowed. For their guidance in doing so, sections 24 and 25 of the Act lay down what matters they are to consider, and what matters they are to neglect. Among the matters to be considered are the market-value and the damage caused by severance, by the injurious effects of the acquisition on the other property of the person interested and by the expense of a change of residence, if such is necessitated. The time as at which all these matters are to be valued is the time of awarding compensation. Among the matters to be neglected are, the degree of urgency which has led to the acquisition, the disinclination of the person interested to part with his property, and any increase in the value either of the land acquired, or of the other land of the person interested, which is likely to accrue from the use to which the land acquired will be put. It is then provided that the compensation awarded shall not be less than the amount tendered by the Collector, nor more than the amount claimed by the person interested; that if the Judge and one or both of the assessors agree as to the amount of compensation, their decision shall be final; that, if the Judge and the assessors disagree, the opinion of the former shall prevail, subject to an appeal, which usually lies to the High Court; that the assessors shall be paid fees not exceeding Rs. 500 each; that the Collector shall pay all the costs pendente lite; and that the Collector shall be finally cast in all costs, if the amount ultimately awarded exceeds, by ever so little, the amount of his original tender. In a separate part of the Act (Part IV), it is provided that disputes as to the apportionment of the Collector's award shall be settled by the Judge sitting alone.

"Part V of the Act deals with the payment of the compensation by the Collector, and provides that, in consideration of the compulsory nature of the acquisition, the Collector shall pay, in addition to the amount of compensation awarded, whether by himself or by the Court, a further sum of 15 per cent. on the market-value of the land. To this provision for the compensation of land-holders, so far as is possible, for the sentimental injuries often inflicted on them by depriving them of their property for the public benefit, there can be no objection. But to the further provision of section 42, that the Collector shall pay interest on the amount of the compensation (including the addition of 15 per cent.) from the time he has taken possession of the land, it seems to me that objections may justly be felt from the point of view of the public revenue. In nine cases out of ten—I might almost say in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred—the fact that compensation is not paid at the time possession is taken is due to the default of the persons interested in the land. Sometimes they raise unreasonable, and even frivolous, objections to the amount or the apportionment of the Collector's award. Sometimes they fail to attend at his enquiry, and thus compel him to throw the matter into Court. I cannot see why, in such cases, the public revenues should be burdened by the necessity of the payment of interest. Provided that the right is reserved to the persons interested to question the Collector's award, without prejudice from the fact that they have received its amount as a part payment, no liability to pay interest should subsist because they have declined to accept part payment or because they have been unwilling to agree among themselves as to the proportions in which they should share the payment tendered to them. In other words, interest should be payable only on any addition which the Court may make to the amount of compensation tendered by the Collector, on the amount of compensation by any accident not tendered at the time possession is taken of the land, and on the amount of the costs which the Collector may ultimately be ordered to pay to the persons interested. The Bill provides for the alteration of the law in accordance with these views.

"Part VI of the Act provides a simpler procedure for the acquisition of land, the temporary use only of which is desired, as, for instance for the excavation or storage of materials in the case of the construction of a railway. In case of disputes arising in consequence of such temporary acquisitions, as to the amount of compensation to be paid, the Judge, sitting alone, is empowered to give a final decision. To this procedure no objection has been raised or can reasonably be felt. The Act makes no provision for the costs of references under this Part. The Bill supplies this omission, which was apparently accidental.

"Part VII of the Act lays down the procedure to be adopted when it is sought to acquire land for Companies. It indicates, though perhaps not so clearly as is desirable, that it is not intended that the law shall be put in force for the acquisition of land for all Companies, even though registered under the Indian Companies' Act of 1882, or formed in pursuance of an Act of Parliament or by Royal Charter or Letters Patent. It is not intended, that is to say, that the Act shall be used for the acquisition of land for any Company in which the public has merely an indirect interest and of the works carried out by which the public can make no direct use. The Act cannot therefore be put in motion for the benefit of such a Company as a Spinning or Weaving Company or as an Iron Foundry, for although the works of such Companies are distinctly "likely to prove useful to the public" (to use the words of section 48), it is not possible to predicate of them "the terms on which the public shall be entitled to use" them, a condition precedent to the acquisition of land laid down in section 49. On the other hand, if the Government determined to entrust to a Company the working of coal or other minerals owned by it, on such conditions as to the payment of royalties or otherwise as it might deem fit, the operations of such a Company would be for a public purpose, for the furtherance of which the provisions of the Act might properly be applied. I mention this point because the question of the kind of Companies, for the purposes of which land may be acquired under the Act, has more than once been raised; and it is important both that the public should understand that the Act will not be used in furtherance of private speculations and that the Local Governments should not be subject to pressure, which it might possibly sometimes be difficult to resist, on behalf of enterprises in which the public have no direct interest. The only defect which has been found in this part of the Act is that its terms are such as to throw unnecessary difficulties in the way of the acquisition of land for companies, such as railway companies, for the purposes of which the Government has contracted to provide land, and which are therefore, so far, Government undertakings. The Bill contains provisions which are designed to obviate those difficulties and to simplify the procedure applicable to such cases.

"Part VIII of the Act contains the usual miscellaneous provisions, two only of which are of present interest. One of these relates to the right of Government to withdraw from an acquisition of land once embarked upon. As the law now stands, it cannot do so, if the Collector has made an award or a reference to the Court. But this seems an unnecessary restriction. A case has been reported by the Bengal Board of Revenue in which it was sought to acquire for the purposes of a Railway Company a small piece of land, of which it was already in occupation as a tenant at a yearly rent of Rs. 12-10-5. The value of the land was estimated at Rs. 330, for which sum it might have been worth while to acquire the freehold. When, however, the Collector came to enquire into the claims of the persons interested in the land, whose interests turned out to be complicated and conflicting, and undefined to an extent not known, or at least not recognized, at the time the estimate was framed, he awarded no less a sum for the land than Rs. 6,859. In such a case the Government should certainly be allowed to withdraw from the acquisition of land on payment of all costs and damages incurred and sustained by the other side; and I have so provided in the Bill.

"The other point in regard to which this Part needs alteration is with respect to the powers of Government in cases in which exorbitant damages are claimed on account of severance. It is considered that, in such cases, the Government should have the power of, at any time, deciding to take up the whole property. A provision to this effect appears to be the proper correlative to the existing provision of law that the owner of property, a part only of which it is proposed to take up, may compel the Government to acquire the whole.

" I must now revert to those parts of the Act which deal with the Collector's enquiry and award and with references to the Court and the procedure of the Court thereon. The first objection to be taken to them is that the power of the Collector is injuriously limited. The average Collector is probably better qualified than the average District Judge to form a correct opinion as to the value of land; he is quite as much to be trusted as the Judge to do justice between the Government and the claimants, and is in most cases not less capable of fairly deciding how the compensation should be distributed; and, at least as far as regards the agricultural classes, he is more in touch with the people than the Judge, and his decision is more likely to be received by them with acquiescence. Nevertheless, he has no real power under the Act. No matter how trivial or how absurd the difference of opinion as to the value of the land, or how palpably exorbitant the demands made, he cannot enforce his award, but is obliged to make a reference to the Court. The same rule applies, both if, out of fifty persons interested, one only fails to attend—a common case when it is sought to acquire land belonging to a village community, the presence of every member of which it is practically impossible to secure;—and also if the interest of any person affected is so slight that he will not take the trouble to attend before the Collector, even though legally punishable for neglect to do so, also a very common case. A good instance of this is given in the papers to which I have had access. In a case referred to the Court of Mr. Charles, the Additional Judge of the 24-Parganas, specially appointed for the disposal of land-acquisition cases arising out of the construction of the Kidderpore Docks, the compensation awarded amounted to 2 annas 9 pies. Naturally enough, the parties interested in these few feet, or yards, of land did not appear before the Collector. The consequence was that they had to pay Court costs amounting to Rs. 2-8, or fourteen times the value of the land; and if the Judge had not disposed of the case (illegally, as it seems to me) by himself, instead of appointing assessors, the costs would have been ten times as much as they were. Nor is this a solitary instance of an absolutely trivial case being perforce referred to this same officer. Within a period of eighteen months, all the elaborate machinery of his Court, aided by assessors, was set in motion in eleven cases in which the compensation awarded was less than Rs. 10 and in 29 cases in which it was less than Rs. 20. Mr. Heysham, a Deputy Collector who was for twelve years employed on land acquisition in, and in the neighbourhood of, Calcutta, and who has furnished a valuable report on the working of the Act, reports such cases to be numerous, and points out that the Act gives the Collector no option but to drive defaulters into the Civil Court against their own will and much to their detriment, and also to the inconvenience of the Collector and the unnecessary increase of, and delay in, business in the Civil Courts. Nor is this all. The whole of this, in many cases quite unnecessary, business, that is thus thrust upon the Civil Courts, has to be transacted at the sole cost of Government, for in no case are any court-fees charged, not even when the questions referred are as to the title to the land or any rights thereto or interests therein, regarding which conflicting claims are set up, or are as to the apportionment among the persons interested of the compensation awarded by the Collector, all of which are questions of purely private interest, in which the Government, as the custodian of the public interests, is in no way concerned. And the injustice, as I consider it, to the Government does not end here. The Collector is burdened with the whole of the costs of the Court's enquiry—often a very considerable sum—if his award is enhanced by ever so small a sum. A man might, for instance, be offered by the Collector seventy thousand rupees for a piece of land sought to be acquired; he might claim a lakh; and the Court might award him R70,050 only. Yet the Collector would have to pay the whole of the costs, not to speak of interest on the whole sum, for a period which might extend to two or three years. I cannot consider this just. The community has its rights in such matters, as well as the private individuals with whom it deals through the agency of the officers of Government. It is obvious also that the direct and strong tendency of the existing provisions as to costs is to stimulate claimants to object to the Collector's award and to encourage them in preferring extravagant claims. The law should not lend itself to this.

"Then there is the question of the employment of assessors to aid the Court. The Act provides for the appointment of qualified assessors, but it omits to define the word "qualified," and it must be obvious to every one who is acquainted with the circumstances of this country that "qualified" assessors are not obtainable here, in the sense in which the word "qualified" will usually be understood, that is, qualified by education and by practical experience of the matters on which they are required to pronounce opinions. In England there are many men, in all parts of the country, who make land valuation the business of their lives. In this country, there are no such persons, save perhaps a very few in three or four of the larger towns. What happens in practice is that the person interested appoints an assessor, who is virtually pledged beforehand to endeavour to protect and advance his interests. The Collector's assessor is under no such understanding, it is true, but is very probably indisposed to go against the Collector. The assessors are supposed to be remunerated by the fees provided for by the Act, but it is credibly reported that in heavy cases the claimant's assessors receive additional fees by private arrangement, while it is certain that the Collector cannot secure the services of competent persons from want of power to grant them adequate remuneration. Under all the circumstances, it seems to me idle to suppose that the employment of assessors can in any way lighten the labours of the Court, or relieve it of responsibility, or ensure justice as between the Government and the persons interested.

"Another point as to which difficulties have arisen is that of the determination of the market-value of the land to be acquired. This has to be fixed as at the time of awarding compensation. But the award of compensation may not, frequently does not, take place for two or three years after the land has been taken possession of by the Collector. In the meantime, on the one hand, the buildings on the land, which constituted its main value, may have been removed to make room for a railway; or, on the other hand, a spacious public office may have been erected on what was a mere rubbish depôt at the time when the Collector took possession. Can any one argue that such alterations ought to affect the amount of compensation to be paid for the land? Certainly not. Yet they undoubtedly must, as the law now stands. It is clear, in my opinion, that the market-value should be fixed as at the date on which the Government gave notice of its intention to acquire the land. Nothing occurring subsequently to that date should be allowed to affect the question. Neither should the market value be lessened by the destruction by the Government of the buildings then standing on the land, nor should the owner be allowed to do anything to enhance the market-value before the date on which the Collector takes possession, as, for instance, by the erection of new buildings or by the execution of leases for fancy rents. In this respect, evidently, the law requires amendment. A definition also seems to be needed of the word "market-value." In the case of Prem Chand Burral and another versus the Collector of Calcutta (Indian Law Reports 2, Calcutta, 103), it was held that "the fairest principle was to ascertain what is the market-value of the property, not according to its present disposition, but laid out in the most lucrative and advantageous way in which the owners could dispose of it." As to this, I will only say that, if this is indeed the proper interpretation of the existing law, it is high time that the law was altered and the word "market-value" clearly defined for the guidance of the Courts. I consider that it means, or at least ought to mean, no more than the sum for which the land might reasonably have been expected to have been sold, if put up to auction, without undue haste and under ordinary circumstances, immediately before the Government signified its intention to acquire it; and I have so provided in the Bill. But the definition of this term is not altogether free from doubt, for I understand that in some parts of the country the circumstances are such that really valuable lands are not readily saleable and have therefore but a small "market-value" in the sense in which I should understand the term. The matter will no doubt receive careful consideration at the hands of the Select Committee to which the Bill is referred.

"A further ground of objection to the existing law is that, if the Judge and one of the assessors are agreed, there are no means of appealing, or even of obtaining a review of judgment, even in cases in which the award is based on a palpable error as to the facts. In one case which has been reported, the Judge confused local and standard bighas, one of which was double the area of the other, and applied the rates of value estimated for one standard to the other. In another case, the Judge illegally appointed four assessors, and, in agreement with one only of them, enhanced the Collector's award from Rs. 665 to Rs. 2,374. In neither of these cases could the Government obtain any redress, but was forced to pay the amount awarded.

"I could cite, from the papers placed in my hands, numerous other instances of hardship, and even of injustice, due to the provisions of the existing law, and affecting, sometimes property-owners, but more often the public, whose money is wasted. But I think I have said enough to convince both the Council and the public that the amendment of the law is urgently required. As to the form which that amendment should assume, it has been decided, after full and careful consideration, that the best plan will be to dispense with the necessity of the Collector's reference to the Court and with the employment of assessors, and to empower the Collector to make an award, which shall be binding on all concerned, both as to the amount and as to the apportionment of the compensation, unless altered by the decree of a competent Court in a regular suit. It may be objected to this proposal that the Collector is an executive officer, appointed by and the creature of the Local Government, to whom it is not proper to assign such extensive powers relating to private property. But I know no reason why an executive officer should not be as careful and as just a man as a judicial officer; and if the Collector is appointed, and may be removed, by the Local Government, the same may be said of every District Judge in the country. I am pleased also to be able to say that the earliest proposal to enhance the Collector's jurisdiction in the way proposed came from a Bengali gentleman, Babu Mohiny Mohun Roy, who has published a useful pamphlet on the subject of the Land Acquisition Act, with suggestions for its amendment. But, in truth, there is no novelty in the proposal to permit executive officers to make awards which shall be binding unless set aside by a regular suit. By Act XXVIII of 1860, for example, relating to the survey of the Madras Presidency, if a boundary is in dispute, and if the disputing parties do not agree to go to arbitration or fail to attend for the investigation of the dispute, the survey officer may dispose of the case ex parte, and his decision is final until set aside by the decree in a regular suit; and there are similar provisions in most, if not all, of the Forest Acts in force in different parts of India. For instance, under the Indian Forest Act (VII of 1878), the only appeal allowed to persons who are dissatisfied with the decision of the Forest Settlement officer (an officer appointed ad hoc by the Local Government) in regard to claims to rights of pasture or to forest produce, is either to a Revenue officer (of not lower rank than a Collector or a Deputy Commissioner), appointed by the Local Government to hear such appeals, or to a Forest Court, consisting of three persons, appointed by the Local Government for the special purpose of hearing such appeals. Now it cannot be denied that rights of pasture or to forest produce may be as valuable as any other rights of property, or that it is going a long way to empower Local Governments to appoint the judges in their own causes. Yet I do not remember hearing of any complaints of injustice being done in these Forest cases. There are similar provisions in the Forest Acts in force in Madras and Burma. To boundary disputes, the Government is a party oftener than not; and it will not be denied that the determination of a boundary dispute may involve enquiries into the ownership of property of quite as much value as any that is likely to be taken up under the Land Acquisition Act. There have been recently, to my personal knowledge, several such cases in which the ownership of very valuable forests, extending over hundreds of square miles, has come before the courts in the shape of suits to set aside the decisions of survey or forest-settlement officers. I have never heard any complaints of this procedure, or that it has in any way worked injustice. The same kind of procedure also prevails, I understand, in the case of land revenue settlements in several provinces, and with excellent effect, the decisions of the settlement officers being, as a rule, accepted without question. And there is in Burma an exact precedent for the course I advocate, of giving Collectors greater power under the Land Acquisition Act. By the Upper Burma Land Acquisition Regulation (IX of 1886), the Collector decides not only the amount of compensation (sections 11—13), but also (section 17) the apportionment of the compensation; and from his decision no appeal lies (section 37), though the Local Government may revise or cancel any order passed by him or may refer any point for decision by any Civil Court. If this procedure is not unjust in Burma, a fortiori it is not unjust to vest Collectors generally with the full powers I propose to give them, subject to the right of appeal, by either side, by the institution of a suit in a Civil Court. I feel therefore that I can with confidence recommend the proposed change in the law to the acceptance of the Council, especially as I understand that there will be no objection on the part of my hon'ble friend Sir David Barbour to my proposal that, in relation to the Court-fees Act, the measure of value of suits to enhance the amount of a Collector's award shall be only the excess claimed over the amount of the award, not the total amount of the claim. While, then, the law will no longer positively encourage extravagant claims to the injury of the public, and will put no unfair burden on the Government, it will but lightly press on those who think that the Collector's award has not done them justice. Suits as to title and as to the apportionment of compensation are private matters, of course, with which the Government is in no way concerned, and will be governed by the ordinary rules of valuation. I am sanguine that the result will be seen in a great decrease in the number of land-acquisition cases brought before the Courts, and in the consequent more speedy administration of justice in those Courts, in the suits between private persons which it is their primary duty to determine; while the petty landholders, whose interests are now so injuriously affected by the necessity imposed on the Collector of referring to the Court every trifling dispute and every ex parte case, will obtain a very great and welcome relief.

"I regret that I have been obliged to occupy the attention of the Council for so long a time, but I have been anxious to make it quite clear that the amendment of the existing law is essential in order to protect the public revenue. No doubt it will be necessary, with this object, to restrict the faciliti s now enjoyed by landholders, whose property is acquired by Government for the construction of public works, for obtaining compensation on a scale entirely satisfactory to themselves. But I trust that the public generally will remember that, in such a matter as this, the Government is not a separate entity, dealing with funds with which they have no concern, but their own representative, dealing with their own money, and bound to protect their interests against extravagant and unscrupulous claims.

"I may add that it is not proposed to proceed with the Bill until ample opportunity has been allowed to the Local Governments, and to others interested in the subject, to consider it and to express their views upon it."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BLISS also introduced the Bill.

The Hon'ble MR. BLISS also moved that the Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons be published in the Gazette of India in English, and in the local official Gazettes in English and in such other languages as the Local Governments think fit.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

APPROPRIATION REPORT ON THE ACCOUNTS OF 1890-91.

GENERAL REVIEW.

Throughout the report the figures are tens of rupees (Rx. 1 = R10) with the last two figures cut off for brevity, thus, 149,7 reads one hundred and forty-nine thousand seven hundred tens of rupees.

The Budget Estimates for 1890-91 showed a small surplus of 270,4. Credit was taken in the estimate of revenue for the special contribution of 490,0 from Provincial revenues originally estimated for as a receipt of 1889-90, but subsequently postponed to the next year, and the extra taxation imposed on imported spirits and Indian brewed beer was expected to bring in an additional revenue of 100,0; but these special assets were swallowed up by a heavy increase in the Army Expenditure which was estimated at about 1,203,3 more than the expenditure in 1888-89, owing chiefly to the contemplated re-armament to be carried out in the year. The expenditure for Defence Works was also taken at a high figure 892,3; and the Famine Relief and Insurance Grant was maintained at 600,0 or including the net charge for Protective Railways, 1,032,8. The final result shows the unusually large surplus of 3,688,2. The higher rate of Exchange obtained for Secretary of State's bills, which was the most remarkable feature of the year, effected a saving of 1,870,5 on the net sterling expenditure and thus contributed more than half of this large improvement. In the Budget Estimate the rate of Exchange was taken at 1*s* 4·55*d* per rupee, while the average rate obtained during the year amounted to 1*s* 6·089*d* an increase of 1·539*d* per rupee. The other portion of the improvement occurred partly in the Railway Revenue Account, partly in the expenditure on special Defence Works and partly in the Salt, Customs and Land Revenue, being counterbalanced to some extent by a falling off in the Opium Revenue. The actual revenue and expenditure of the year under the different groups are compared in detail in the following paragraphs with the actuals of the previous year and the Budget Estimates.

2. No important changes of classification of revenue and expenditure, requiring special notice here, were made during the year.

3. The following summary gives the Budget and Account figures of 1890-91 to be reviewed in this report and the details will be found in the statements on pages 138 to 150.

Comparison with the year 1889-90.

4. The comparison in respect of revenues with the year 1889-90 is as follows:—

| Revenues. | 1889-90. | 1890-91. | Difference, 1890-91, greater (+) or less (—). |
|---|---|---|---|
| Principal Heads of Revenue . . . | 58,861,8 | 58,890,2 | +28,4 |
| Interest . . . . . . . | 873,2 | 931,1 | +57,9 |
| Post Office, Telegraph, and Mint . . | 2,337,6 | 2,537,7 | +200,1 |
| Civil Departments . . . . | 1,556,4 | 1,612,1 | +55,7 |
| Miscellaneous . . . . . | 1,264,4 | 927,1 | —337,3 |
| Railways . . . . . . | 16,605,6 | 17,236,0 | +630,4 |
| Irrigation . . . . . . | 1,991,1 | 2,172,6 | +181,5 |
| Buildings and Roads . . . . | 650,4 | 649,3 | —1,1 |
| Army Services . . . . . | 944,7 | 785 6 | —159,1 |
| | 85,085,2 | 85,741,7 | +656,5 |

5. The important variations under Principal Heads of Revenue are the following:—

|---|---|
| Land Revenue . . . . . . . . . . | + 63,8 |
| Opium . . . . . . . . . . . | — 703,8 |
| Salt . . . . . . . . . . . | + 335,7 |
| Excise . . . . . . . . . . . | + 55,9 |
| Provincial Rates . . . . . . . . | + 81,1 |
| Customs . . . . . . . . . . | + 236,5 |
| | + 69,2 |

The collections of Land revenue in 1889-90 included large arrears on account of the previous year. In 1890-91 there was a large falling off in Madras and the N.-W. P. and Oudh owing to an unfavourable season, but the deficiencies were more than counterbalanced by an increase in the other Provinces notably in Burma where the increase was 210,1 including 76,4 for Upper Burma, and was due partly to extended cultivation and partly to a revision of settlements. In the Opium revenue the decrease was due partly to a heavy decline in the price obtained at the sales of Bengal opium and partly to a reduction in the duty on Malwa opium rendered necessary by the competition of the indigenous drug in China. The increase in the Salt revenue resulted mainly from an exceptional increase in the cash sales in Madras and Bombay owing to the high price of Government Securities having induced the salt purchasers in those Provinces to pay the duty on their salt in cash instead of deferring payment on lodging Government Promissory Notes as security. The improvement under Excise represents the normal growth of the revenue due partly to general prosperity and partly to more efficient administration, while the advance in Provincial Rates occurred chiefly in Madras. The large improvement under Customs was obtained partly from an exceptionally large export of rice from Burma and Bengal and partly from the enhancement of the duty on spirits before the commencement of the year.

6. The improvement under Interest was obtained chiefly from the investment of larger cash balances in England at better rates of interest and from large loans recently granted to Municipal and other public bodies in India. The Post Office revenue of 1889-90 was largely reduced by a special adjustment in that year, but apart from this, there was a further improvement in 1890-91 due to the normal expansion of the operations of the Department; while an exceptionally high silver coinage raised the Mint receipts of the year. The sale of the Royal Lunatic Asylum Estate at Ealing produced a special receipt under Civil Departments. The heavy falling off under Miscellaneous occurred chiefly under Gain by Exchange owing to smaller withdrawals of capital by Railway Companies in India, in remitting which the gain arises, and to the gain having been still further reduced by the rise in the rate of exchange. The increase in the Railway revenue was partly nominal, being due to the inclusion, for the last nine months of the year, of the receipts of the Bengal and North Western Railway and for the last three months of the gross traffic receipts of the South Indian Railway instead of the net receipts, it having been a guaranteed line before. The increase was also partly due to larger traffic on some of the lines, chiefly the Great Indian Peninsula Railway and to additions to the open mileage of some others. The larger receipts under Irrigation were obtained chiefly from some of the canals in the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. Under Army Services a smaller consumption of malt liquor and the introduction of a system in Madras and Bombay under which regiments were allowed to make their own arrangements for the supply of this liquor reduced the Commissariat receipts, but there was a corresponding reduction in the charges for Commissariat supplies also.

7. The comparison of the Expenditure side is given below. As there was an exceptionally large difference in the rates of Exchange of the two years, the improvements under the different heads due to the rise in the rate of Exchange are shown separately—

| | 1889-90. | 1890-91. | Difference 1890-91 greater + or less — Due to Exchange. | Due to other causes. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Direct Demands on the Revenue | 8,909,6 | 9,536,0 | —4,5 | +630,9 | +626,4 |
| Interest | 4,241,0 | 4,195,3 | —306,6 | +260,9 | —45,7 |
| Post Office, Telegraph, and Mint | 2,228,5 | 2,282,6 | —26,0 | +80,1 | +54,1 |
| Civil Departments | 13,235,4 | 13,386,3 | —50,9 | +201,8 | +150,9 |
| Miscellaneous | 4,814,3 | 4,678,5 | —237,4 | +101,6 | —135,8 |
| Famine | 600,0 | 600,0 | ... | ... | ... |
| Construction of Railways | 5,0 | —4,8 | ... | —9,8 | —9,8 |
| Railways | 18,458,2 | 17,923,3 | —695,7 | +160,8 | —534,9 |
| Irrigation | 2,652,7 | 2,742,1 | —3 | +89,7 | +89,4 |
| Buildings and Roads | 5,412,2 | 5,730,9 | —14,3 | +333,0 | +318,7 |
| Army Services | 20,677,8 | 20,690,1 | —541,7 | +554,0 | +12,3 |
| Special Defence Works | 689,5 | 491,8 | —22,0 | —175,7 | —197,7 |
| | 81,924,2 | 82,252,1 | —1,899,4 | +2,227,3 | +327,9 |

The variations due to the rise in the rate of Exchange require no special explanation, and it is necessary to explain only the differences shown above as due to other causes.

8. The large increase in the Direct Demands on the Revenue is accounted for mainly by the Opium Expenditure of 1889-90 having been unusually low owing to the total failure of the crops. The interest and discount on the new loan raised in England during 1890-91 and the extra payments involved by the conversion operations in India enhanced the charges under Interest, while the excess under Post Office, Telegraph and Mint arose out of the extended operations of the departments concerned and was met by a larger increase in the receipts. In the Civil Departments the Political charges were higher owing to the payment of large arrears of subsidy to the Ameer of Kabul, and the expenditure connected with the Census increased the charges of the Scientific and other Minor Departments; the Educational charges also had their normal growth, but these excesses were partially counterbalanced by a decrease in the Marine Expenditure, which was unusually high in the previous year owing to the purchase of two steamers, and by a reduction in the upper Burma Police charges. In the group Miscellaneous the normal growth of the retired list and the payment in England of the pensions of the uncovenanted service at the minimum rate of exchange of 1*s*. 9*d*. swelled the superannuation charges, while under Stationery and Printing there was a large increase owing to the heavy requirements of the census. In the Railway Revenue Account there was a large decrease in the working expenses chiefly of the East Indian, Rajputana-Malwa and North-Western Railways, but this was more than counterbalanced by increased working expenses on other lines by the inclusion of the Bengal North Western Railway and the South Indian Railway for a part of the year and by larger charges for interest owing to additional capital outlay on Railways. As regards Irrigation, extensive repairs were necessary to some canals, and larger grants were made for minor works in Madras and Bengal, while the interest charges were enhanced by additional capital outlay. Under Buildings and Roads there was a large increase owing to the affluent circumstances of the Provincial Governments having enabled them to assign larger funds for expenditure on Provincial buildings and roads. The Army expenditure of 1889-90 included a large outlay for the rapid mobilisation of an Army Corps: the charges for the pay of the European Army were also high on account of the lower rate of exchange for the payment of British Troops, and there were larger payments for arrears of home charges of British Troops. Nevertheless there was an increase in the expenditure of 1890-91 owing to an exceptionally heavy outlay on the rearmament of a part of the European Army in India. As regards Special Defence Works there was some delay in supplying guns and stores, and the progress on some of the projects was retarded owing to the revision of details.

Comparison of Accounts with Budget Estimates of 1890-91.

9. The following figures exhibit the differences in the net accounts, the improvements due to the rise in the rate of exchange being shown in a separate column. The comparison of the gross figures has been given before under paragraph 3:—

| | Better + Worse — Due to rise in exchange. | Due to other causes. | Net. |

| Principal Heads of Revenue . . . | + 4,6 | + 929,2 | + 933,8 |

| Post Office, Telegraph, and Mint . . | + 24,4 | + 135,9 | + 160,3 |
| Civil Administration . . . . | + 47,2 | + 253,9 | + 301,1 |
| Miscellaneous . . . . . . | + 226,5 | — 275,5 | — 49,0 |
| Construction of Railways . . . | ... | + 9,6 | + 9,6 |
| Railways . . . . . . . | + 702,7 | + 476,5 | +1,179,2 |
| Irrigation . . . . . . . | + 3 | + 134,6 | + 134,9 |
| Buildings and Roads . . . . | + 11,3 | + 35,0 | + 46,3 |
| Army Services . . . . . | + 542,1 | + 75,9 | + 618,0 |
| Special Defence Works . . . | + 22,2 | + 378,3 | + 400,5 |
| | 1,870,5 | 2,106,4 | |
| Combined Surplus, Imperial and Provincial | ... | ... | 3,976,9 |

10. The net improvement of 529,2 under the Principal Heads of Revenue is made up of an increase in the revenue of 694,3 and a saving in the expenditure of 234,9. As explained in paragraph 13 the improvement in revenue occurred principally in Salt, Land Revenue, Excise, Provincial Rates and Customs, partly counterbalanced by a falling off in the Opium revenue, while the saving in expenditure occurred mainly in the Opium, Forest and Land Revenue charges. Under Interest there was a large increase owing to the conversion operations in India and the discount on the new loan raised in England, but the greater portion of these extra charges was met from the interest realised by the investment of the large cash balances in England at high rates of interest. The improvement under Post Office, Telegraph, and Mint was obtained chiefly from an exceptionally high silver coinage. The better result under Civil Administration was obtained from an increase in the receipts of 94,8 and a reduction in the expenditure of 159,1. The improvements are distributed over a number of heads, but the noteworthy items are the sale proceeds of the Lunatic Asylum estate at Ealing in England, a saving in the Marine expenditure and reduction in the Burma Police. The falling off in the Miscellaneous section resulted from the diminished remittances of the Railway Companies and the rise in the rate of exchange as explained in paragraph 139. The improvement in the Railway Revenue Account was derived chiefly from a reduction in the working expenses of some of the Railways and an improvement in the traffic on some of the lines towards the close of the year. The greater part of the improvement under Irrigation was obtained from the Western Jumna, Sirhind and Ganges Canals. Under Army Services there was a large falling off in the receipts in India chiefly owing to smaller sales of malt liquor to British troops, and there was some special expenditure on punitive expeditions for which either insufficient or no provision was made in the Budget. There was also a special payment in England on account of arrears of the Home charges of British Forces. But these were more than counterbalanced by a large saving in the Commissariat expenditure in India and a still larger saving in England on the provision for magazine rifles, which were not supplied as speedily as was expected. The lapse under Special Defence Works was caused by smaller payments in England for armaments and stores and by the progress on some of the projects in India having been retarded owing to the revision of details.

11. The Budget estimated for an excess expenditure of 487,3 on the whole account, but a sum of 757,7 out of the Provincial and Local Expenditure was payable from past accumulations of Balances, leaving a net surplus in the Imperial account of 270,4. The accounts close with a surplus of 3,688,2 in the Imperial account, and a deficit in the Provincial and Local account of 198,6. The net Imperial Revenue has, therefore, been better than the Budget by 3,688,2 —270,4 or 3,417,8, and the Provincial and Local Revenues by 757,7 —198,6 or 559,1. The details of these fluctuations are given below, the sign + meaning better and — worse than the estimate.

12. The improvement in the Provincial Section occurs mainly in the Principal Heads of Revenue and the Railway Revenue Account. The notable items making up the difference in the Imperial Section are indicated in the following table:—

13. Of the total improvement of 694,3 over the Budget Estimate, 289,9 occurred under Salt, owing mainly to an exceptional increase in the cash sales in Madras and Bombay, and 170,8 under Land Revenue, the improvement occurring in all Provinces, except the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Punjab and Madras, where the collections were specially low owing to an unfavourable season, and being largest in Bombay and Burma. Excise and Provincial Rates also contributed 103,3 and 141,8 respectively, the improvements having occurred chiefly in Madras, while an unusually large export of rice from Burma brought in the bulk of the excess of 182,1 under Customs. The Opium revenue, however, fell short of the estimate by 324,1, owing partly to a fall in the price of Bengal opium, and partly to a reduction in the duty on Malwa opium. Compared with 1889-90 there was a falling off of 703,8 in the opium revenue owing to the causes just mentioned, but this was more than counterbalanced by improvements under some of the other heads, notably Salt (335,7), Customs (236,5), Provincial Rates (81,1), and Land Revenue (63,8).

14. The bulk of the improvement occurred in Burma and Bombay, and was partly counterbalanced by a large falling off in Madras and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

15. In India the ordinary collections exceeded the Budget Estimate, by 2,2 in Beluchistan, while they fell short of it by 2,6 in Coorg, owing partly to remissions and postponements rendered necessary by an unfavourable season, and partly to the receipts from the sale of waste lands having been erroneously included in the Budget under this head. The improvement in the Central Provinces is the result of revised settlements, the full effect of which was not foreseen when the Budget was framed. The Revised was framed with reference to the low collections of the first eleven months of the year consequent upon the Revenue establishments having been largely engaged in the census work. The collections in March, however, exceeded the expectations. Extended cultivation and the assessment of a larger area owing to new surveys produced a large increase in Burma. There were also some arrear collections in the Moulmein district. In Assam also there was a small improvement due to extension of cultivation and progressive enhanced rate of assessment on waste lands and jungleburi tenures. As regards Bengal, the Budget was based on the collections of 1889-90, after making allowance for some large arrears collected in that year, notably one of 45,0 on account of the Burdwan Raj. The actual collections, however, approached the total receipts of that year, as a favourable harvest led to the realisation of nearly the full demand of the year together with a large proportion of arrears. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the deficiency was caused by suspensions of revenue, the kharif crop having failed in several districts in consequence of floods. In the Punjab there was no falling as compared with the previous year, but the effect of the revision of settlements in some districts, which was allowed for in the Budget, was to some extent neutralised by remissions and suspensions necessitated by damage done by locusts. In Madras, an exceptionally favourable season and some advance collections produced an unusually high revenue in 1889-90, while large remissions and slackness of collection consequent upon an unfavourable season in most districts reduced the collections of the following year. The large improvement in Bombay is attributed to the revision of settlements in some districts, to the collection of the second instalment of revenue in Broach in March, instead of in April, owing to an early season for cotton, and to extensive rabi and kharif cultivation in Sind consequent upon good floods and the improvement of the water-supply owing to the opening of the Pritchard canal and other irrigational works in the Shikarpur and Upper Sind Frontier Districts.

16. As regards the other heads, enhanced survey rates account for the increase in Bombay under Assessment of Alienated Lands, less quit rents, while a larger influx of emigrants from Upper Burma and the Shan States augmented the receipts from the Capitation tax in Burma. Under Sale of Proprietary Right, &c., the low Budget Estimate in India has already been explained to be due to the receipts from the sale of waste lands in Coorg having been estimated for under ordinary revenue instead of under this head. Under Fisheries and Miscellaneous, in India the Actuals include 16,5 on account of the revenue of the newly acquired Zhob country for which 5,0 only was included in the Budget in the absence of any data regarding the amount likely to be realised; the remainder of the excess over both the Budget and the Actuals of 1889-90 has resulted from larger land and excise revenue of the Quetta Assigned tracts and from the cattle grazing fees levied in Quetta. In Burma, the leases of some fisheries which fell in during the year fetched better prices. In the Punjab, the Estimates of both mutation fees and grazing dues were framed too low. The collection of large arrears on account of the Village Service Fund in South Arcot enhanced the receipts in Madras. The Upper Burma revenue showed the usual steady development, the increase being mainly in the Thathameda (capitation); the gradual restoration of order in the country is leading to the return of those who had deserted their homes when the country was in a disturbed state, and in consequence, the number of families liable to assessment is increased, while cultivation is also extended.

19. The average price realised from the sale of Bengal opium in 1890-91 was R1,037 per chest against R1,136 realised in 1889-90, and R1,060 assumed in the Budget. The Budget was framed with reference to the market prices ruling at the end of 1889-90; but from the beginning of the year the price fell almost continuously till, at the end, it reached R1,001 per chest. As regards Malwa opium, the exports from Bombay fell off considerably in the earlier part of the year, but the deficiency was very nearly made good towards the end of it. The large falling off in revenue compared with both the Budget Estimate and the Actuals of 1889-90 was due chiefly to the reduction of duty from R650 to R600 a chest from the 5th July 1890.

20. The following table gives the usual statistics of the produce and sales in Bengal and the exports from Bombay. The season in Bengal was again a bad one:—

21. As regards Excise Opium, the revenue in Burma increases owing partly to the larger influx of Indians into the country and partly to the stricter application of the law against smuggling. In Assam, as explained in last year's report, the revenue in 1889-90 was specially high owing to large purchases by vendors at the end of the year in anticipation of the enhancement in the treasury selling price of opium from the beginning of 1890-91, and also to large purchases by the hill tribes in anticipation of the blockade which commenced in November 1889. In consequence of this and of the expected decrease in consumption on account of the increase in the price, the Budget Estimate of 1890-91 was placed at a comparatively low figure, which was only slightly exceeded by the Actuals. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, also the receipts for 1889-90 were specially high. The decline in the Punjab compared with 1889-90 is due to the gradual replacement of Ghazipur opium by the Malwa drug, the receipts from which are shown under Excise. Under Miscellaneous no allowance was made in the Budget for the change of classification made in Bengal in 1889-90, and mentioned in last year's report, by which recoveries of advances to cultivators are now deducted from expenditure instead of being credited as revenue.

22. The salt revenue of the year considerably exceeded both the Budget and the Actuals of 1889-90 owing, to a small extent, to an increase in the consumption of salt in Burma, Bengal and Bombay, and, to a much larger extent, to an increase in the cash sales in Madras and Bombay. Owing to the high price of Government Securities which ruled during the year, purchasers of salt in those provinces availed themselves to a much smaller extent than usual of the option of deferring payment of duty on lodging Government Promissory Notes as security.

23. In India the sales fell short of those of the previous year, although the Budget Estimate had been framed in the expectation of an increase. There was a rise on the whole in the sale of Rajputana salt, though the opening of the Indian Midland Railway led to a variation in the amounts sold from the various salt sources; but the improvement was more than counterbalanced by a falling off in the sales of Punjab salt, and a reduction in the sale price also reduced the total collections. In the Punjab decline occurred both in the demand for the Punjab mines rock salt and in the sales at the Kohat mines; the falling off in the latter being due (1) to a deficiency in the means of transport, all available carriage having been requisitioned for the Khairabad Camp of Exercise and later on for the Miranzai Expedition, and (2) to heavy and continued falls of snow having prevented the Kabul traders from making their usual annual purchases. In Burma the rate of composition duty on local manufacture was raised during the year, while the imports also considerably exceeded those of 1889-90, a part of the increase having been anticipated in the Budget. In Bengal, the imports were less than those of the previous year, but the quantity taken out of bond was larger, a fall in the price having stimulated the clearances. A reduction in the rate of rent of the warehouses led to their increased use, and consequently raised the revenue derived from them, which is credited under Miscellaneous. In Madras there was a decrease in the sale of Government salt, but it was more than compensated for by the increase in the cash sales of excise salt. In Bombay also an increased revenue was produced by the same cause.

24. The steady growth of the revenue under this head appears to have received a check in 1890-91 in some of the provinces, notably in the Central Provinces and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. There was a decline in the receipts from the sale of Court-fee Stamps in all provinces, except Burma and Bombay. In the Central Provinces, this was due to the Civil Courts having been closed on account of the usual summer vacation in January and February 1891, instead of as usual in May and June, in order to facilitate the census operations. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and Madras, the exceptionally large rise in 1889-90 was not maintained. In Assam and Bengal, the revenue has been practically stationary during the last few years, having fluctuate.l both above and below the receipts of 1890-91. The Bombay figure includes 6,9 on account of the probate duty on the estate of a millionare. Under Commercial and other Stamps, the increase over both the Actuals of 1889-90 and the Budget has occurred principally in Bengal owing to the execution of a large number of deeds in consequence of the gold speculations in Chota-Nagpur. In the Central Provinces and Burma, the Budget anticipated an increase owing to the excellent agricultural prospects and the rapid expansion of trade, but the anticipations were not realised. In Assam, North-Western Provinces and Oudh and Madras the Budget was framed too low. The increase in Upper Burma was due to the gradual settling down of the country and to the people resorting to the Law Courts more freely in consequence

25. The excise revenue showed an advance in the Central Provinces, Assam, Punjab, Madras, and Bombay, the increase being largest as usual in Madras. In Bengal, Burma, and India the revenue was practically stationary, while in the North-Western Provinces there was a large falling off.

26. In India the falling off is only nominal being due to a larger collection of arrears in 1889-90. The Budget Estimate provided for the transit duty on opium exported from Ajmere to the Punjab, but, as explained in last year's report, the amount was finally brought to credit in the Punjab accounts. In the Central Provinces the revenue has steadily increased since 1888-89; the increase in 1890-91 is not due to increased facilities for the supply of liquor but to the enhanced prices paid for licenses. The decline under opium was due partly to a decrease in cholera having reduced to some extent the demand for the drug and partly to smaller sales to Feudatory States. In Burma the very large imports of Madras liquor in 1889-90, in anticipation of the increase in the duty, affected the imports in 1890-91 more unfavourably than was expected; there was also a large falling off in the prices obtained at the sales of the licenses for the retail vend of foreign spirits and drugs; but the revenue though falling below the high standard of 1889-90 was considerably in excess of that for 1888-89; the excise opium revenue in Burma has been steadily increasing with the increase in the non-Burman population of the country. The Upper Burma Budget was framed too high. The falling off compared with the previous year is attributed to the suppression of outstills. The increase in Assam is said to have resulted chiefly from the special enquiries made in the cold season of 1889-90, which led to a revision of the lists of shops for the sale of both country spirits and opium and to the fixing of proper upset prices prior to settlement of the leases. An increase in the consumption of ganja and opium and in the rate of duty on churgunja from R6-8 to R7 per seer with effect from 1st April 1890 also contributed to the improvement. As regards Bengal the Budget was framed low, as it was anticipated that the intended extension of the central distillery system and the additional restrictions, which were at the time being imposed on outstills, would lead to a diminution of the receipts from license fees; in the end, however, the enhanced collections under still-head duty almost entirely counterbalanced the loss under license fees. The large decrease in the revenue under this head in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh is attributed, as in last year, to the continued high prices of food grains and to the success of the temperance movement in some of the large cities. The increase in the Punjab is ascribed to the suppression of illicit practices, the increased consumption of licit liquor, the enhancement of fees for licenses to sell imported liquor, and the extension of the system of auction sale to licenses for the vend of all Indo-European spirits other than rum. The opium receipts have also risen in consequence partly of increased consumption and partly of the operation of the new opium rules, which have checked the consumption of their own crops by poppy cultivators, thereby increasing the value of the vend licenses. In Madras the revenue has been increasing rapidly during the last few years, the Budget Estimates having been always considerably exceeded by the actuals. As explained in previous reports this increase is due to the improved system of administration, chiefly in connection with country spirits and toddy, to the promptitude with which the demand is collected and to the extension of the tree-tax system. The Bombay figures also indicate continued development of the excise revenue owing partly to efficient administration and partly to general prosperity.

27. The improvement has occurred principally in Madras.

28. As stated in previous reports, the receipts under this head are largely subject to the same influences as the collections of Land Revenue, and the explanations given for variations in the amounts of the latter apply generally to the former, except (1) in Madras where the steady growth of the revenue under this head was not retarded during the year by the scarcity which prevailed in most of the districts, and seriously affected the collections of Land Revenue, and (2) in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh where the increase resulting from the revision of settlements and the continued extension of the village watch system in Oudh more than covered the reduction caused by an unfavourable season. In the Punjab the actuals under "Village Service" would have shown a large increase over those of 1889-90, if the latter had not included 8,8 on account of remuneration to village headmen and patwaris for collecting the rate credited to this head by per contra debit to 8-Provincial Rates. The remuneration having been discontinued, nothing is included on account of it in the actuals of 1890-91. The receipts from the Rate on Wards' Estates fell off in the Central Provinces and Bengal owing to the release of a number of estates from the management of the Court of Wards. In the Punjab an enhancement of the rates produced an increase. The collections of the District Post Cess in Bengal in 1889-90 included some arrears.

29. There was an improvement everywhere, except in Madras, but the bulk of the improvement arose from larger exports of rice from Burma.

30. Under Import duties there was a large decrease in the importation of Kerosine oil into Burma owing to large stocks, but this decrease was more than covered by an increase in the other Provinces. There was a slight decrease in the imports of spirits, except in Bengal, and the additional revenue expected from the increased rate of duty was not fully realised. As regards Export Duties an exceptionally good rice crop and a large demand from Japan and other Eastern Countries gave an unusual stimulus to the exports of rice from Burma, which were the largest yet recorded. The exports from Bengal also were much larger than both the anticipations in the Budget and the actuals of 1889-90. In Madras and Bombay, however, the exports fell off owing mainly to an unfavourable season. Under Other Receipts the large revenue in Madras in 1889-90 was due to the unusually large export of rice to Ceylon in that year from Tanjore viâ Karikal, while the receipts in Bombay included a special item, namely, the balance of extra work and Sunday fees recovered during several years by the Commissioner and Collector of Customs from shipowners and others.

31. The revenue shows a tendency to increase in most of the Provinces. As usual, the India figures include, in addition to the collections made in the districts directly administered by the Government of India, the recoveries in the Non-Civil Departments from the salaries of Government officers. The details are given below :—

| 1889-90. Accounts. | | 1890-91. Budget. | 1890-91. Revised. | 1890-91. Accounts. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 94,8 | Civil Department, India | 96,3 | 95,3 | 98,5 |
| 51,5 | Military Department | 52,7 | 52,0 | 51,5 |
| 47,6 | Public Works Department | 46,3 | 47,5 | 49,1 |

| 7,5 | Telegraph Department | 7,6 | 7,6 | 7,6 |
| 210,0 | TOTAL AS ABOVE | 211,5 | 211,0 | 215,3 |

32. As regards the Civil Department, the India estimate was exceeded mainly on account of the tax levied on the anticipation interest paid on the conversion of securities of the 4½ per cent. loans of 1878 and 1879 into the 4 per cent. loan of 1854-55; while the improvement in the other Provinces generally resulted from a careful revision of assessments. In Madras the improvement in the current collections was more than counterbalanced by the large collections of arrears in 1889-90. In Bombay there was a heavy decrease in the tax levied on the surplus profits of the Railway Companies owing to a falling off in the earnings of the guaranteed Railways. The differences under Non-Civil Departments do not require any special notice.

33. In India the revenue from timber removed by Government Agency was less than was anticipated owing to smaller sales of timber from the Chatham and Portable Saw Mills in the Andamans, and to unfavourable weather in Beluchistan. On the other hand, in Coorg and Beluchistan, the realizations from the sales of timber removed by consumers and purchasers exceeded expectations. The excess in Coorg was caused by an increased demand for poles from Mysore and by sales of timber on waste lands, while that in Beluchistan resulted from an unexpected sale of young plants from the Quetta Nursery for plantations. The improvement under "Other Receipts" occurred mainly in the receipts from shared and private forests in Beluchistan.

34. Timber operations by Government Agency were largely curtailed in the Central Provinces, particularly in Chanda, but the revenue from sales of timber, bamboos, grazing and fodder grass to consumers and purchasers showed a large improvement. The receipts from shared and private forests fell off slightly during the year.

35. In Lower Burma there was an improvement in the Pegu Circle owing to unexpected sales of timber extracted by Government, but this was partly counterbalanced by smaller receipts in the Tenasserim Circle. The revenue of the previous year as explained in last year's report was exceptionally high. As regards revenue derived from timber, etc., removed by consumers and purchasers, there was an increase in the demand for licenses for extracting unreserved woods in the Tenasserim Circle, while larger sales of cutch and the extraction of teak by Messrs. McGregor & Co under their contract swelled the receipts in the Pegu Circle. Receipts from drift timber operations were also higher in the Tenasserim Circle. In Upper Burma the revenue in 1889-90 was exceptionally high owing to unusually favourable floods; a considerable falling off was consequently anticipated in 1890-91. The result was, however, better than was expected chiefly owing to the sale of timber worked out by the lessee of the Upper Irrawaddy Forest, the timber extracted by him having lapsed to Government in consequence of his bankruptcy. There was also an improvement in the revenue derived from cutch and rubber.

36. In Assam the variations from the Budget are slight and unimportant. The fall in the actuals as compared with the previous year was due to the slackness in the timber trade in the Cachar, Goalpara and Lakhimpur divisions, and to the Lakhimpur rubber mahal having been withheld from sale in 1890-91 owing to the inadequacy of the bids offered.

37. There was a slight decline in revenue in Bengal which is due to various causes; but chiefly to the glut of sundri timber on stock in the Sundarbans division, consequent on excessive previous exports and to the prevalence in Jalpaiguri and Buxa of cattle disease which interfered seriously with timber work.

38. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh there was a larger demand for railway sleepers and scantlings, and the shrinkage in the revenue derived from the operations conducted by Government Agency was only due to the sleepers supplied to the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway not having been paid for during the year. Under other heads the actuals exceeded the Budget mainly owing to the collection of previous years' outstandings and the realization of royalty on catechu kilns and of Jumna river dues.

39 The decrease of 21,2 in the Punjab under head I compared with the Budget was mainly due to a slackness in the demand for timber, to the curtailment of exploitation in Changa Manga for want of labour, and to a reduction in the deliveries of fuel to the North-Western Railway. The other heads show a slight improvement.

40. In Madras the receipts were higher than the actuals of the previous year under all heads and than the Budget Estimate save under head I. The falling off under this head compared with the Budget occurred in connection with timber operations there having been an increase under other heads. It was, however, more than compensated for by the increased timber operations under head II; but the main improvement under this head occurred under minor produce and was largely due to the transfer from the Land Revenue head to Forests of the revenue from tree rents, including some arrears.

IX.—Forest Revenue—concluded.

41. In Bombay the Budget for 1890-91 took credit under head I for a very considerable increase over the actuals of 1889-90, only a portion of which was realized; the falling off occurred chiefly in the Southern Circle (22,1), due to (a) decreased sales of timber owing to insufficient means of transport, and (b) smaller cuttings of firewood and charcoal than were orginally anticipated—the quantity of fuel supplied to the Southern Maratha Railway Company having been, it is reported, 4,319 tons only against 20,000 tons provided for in the Budget. The Revised proved low in the Sind and Southern Circles owing to too great a reduction having been made on the basis indicated by the actuals at the time the estimate was framed. Compared with the actuals of 1889-90, increases occurred chiefly in Sind and the Southern Circle, due, in the former case, to the supply of extra timber to the Gun Carriage Factory at Bombay, and of more fuel to the Railway, and to the enhanced demand for fuel for steam machinery and private individuals enhanced; and, in the latter case, to a large increase in fuel supply and myrabollams and better prices for the latter. The improvement under head II, as compared with the Budget, occurred chiefly in the Northern and, to a less extent, in the Southern Circle. The increase in the former was due to (1) a large number of cattle having entered the forests for grazing, (2) a brisker manufacture of Rosha oil in West Khandesh leading to a larger revenue, and (3) a more profitable farming of the hirda crop of the Poona Division; and in the case of the Southern Circle to a greater supply of jungle wood sold for export, and to higher rates having been obtained for firewood. Compared with the actuals of the previous year, the improvement was in the Northern Circle and arose from the causes just stated.

42. The figures generally indicate a tendency to rise, but the improvement is nowhere large.

43. The largest increase occurred in Bengal and Madras. In Bengal it arose from the execution of a larger number of deeds connected with immoveable property, while in Madras it resulted from the collection of a large amount on account of search fees in connection with the Land Improvement and the Agriculturists' Loans Acts.

44. The actuals fell short of the Budget in Upper Burma, Punjab, and Bombay. The Central Provinces figure includes some advance collections for 1891-92. In Upper Burma there is great difficulty in realising the tributes from the Shan States, which were roughly fixed on the annexation of the province without full enquiry into the resources of the different States. In the Punjab the small deficiency is due to the recovery of a portion of the tribute due from the Chamba State having been deferred till 1891-92. In Bombay a portion of the Kathiawar tributes was not realised during the year. Of the Baroda tribute, 3,6 was realised in advance in the previous year and 9 remained outstanding at the end of the year, while out of the 5,3 deducted in the Budget from the amount due, owing to the expected refund to the Gaekwar of certain charges incurred by him in connection with the late Gaekwar Contingent, 3,9 only were paid.

45. The principal differences in this group occurred in the opium charges which fell short of the Budget Estimate by 124,0, the total produce of Bengal opium having been smaller than was anticipated when the Budget was framed, but, as it was considerably in excess of the total outturn of the previous year, in which there was a total failure of the crops, the expenditure in 1890-91 exceeded that of 1889-90 by 575,7. The only other noteworthy differences in this group are savings of 63,8 and 36,8 on the Budget Estimate, under Forest and Land Revenue.

46. These refunds being liable to considerable fluctuations are not amenable to any accurate forecast. In Burma the refunds under Salt and Customs rose with the larger receipts under those heads. Under Assessed Taxes there was an unexpected refund of 1,2 to the Irrawaddy Flotilla Company and of 6 to certain chetties in Rangoon and Moulmein. The bulk of the excess in Assam occurred under Excise and Forest refunds. In Bengal the actuals of 1889-90 included some large refunds of license fees paid in advance owing to the non-completion of excise settlements, as also a large refund of Public Works Cess wrongly credited; but the saving under these heads was more than counterbalanced by an increase in the refunds of the customs duty on arms and rice. The Excise and Forest refunds in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh were under-estimated. The Land Revenue refunds of 1889-90 in the Punjab were specially high, while the excise refunds of 1890-91 include a sum of 1,4 refunded to some Native States on account of the duty on Malwa opium imported into their territories. Provision for this was not made in the estimates. The Madras figures do not call for any remarks except that the actuals of 1889-90 included some special Land Revenue refunds as explained in last year's report. As regards Bombay the reduction in the customs refunds is chiefly due to the Portuguese share of the common customs revenue having been paid for one year only in 1890-91, while in 1889-90 the share for two years was paid. The Budget Estimate also provided for the payment of this share for two years, but only one year's share was actually paid. The saving on the Budget was, however, more than counterbalanced by increased refunds under the other heads, chiefly Land Revenue and Salt.

47. In India the payments to Meywar include an arrear payment of 2 and an advance payment of 3,3. The North-Western Provinces and Oudh Budget Estimate provided for a considerable increase in the malikana payments, specially in the Gorakhpur District, in view of the revision of settlement, but the actual payments fell considerably short of the estimate. The Revised Estimate provided 9,0 for the commutation of an annual remission sanctioned by the Government of India, but no payment was made during the year on account of it. In Madras the saving under salt compensation to the French Government arose from an advance payment in the previous year, while that under Allowances to Inamdars and other Grantees resulted from arrears outstanding at the end of the year. The actuals of 1889-90 under Other Compensations included compensation for two years to the Pudukota State for the suppression of earth-salt manufacture in that state. As regards Bombay the payments of pensions in lieu of resumed lands fell into arrears, while under Inamdars and other Grantees there was an excess, being the net result of an increase under Alienated Land Revenue, the adjustments having been made at enhanced survey rates, and of a saving under cash allowances which are irregularly paid. There was an excess of 3,9 under Goa salt compensations, but this was more than counterbalanced by the non-payment during the year of the Goa Customs Tariff compensation of 5,9 for one of the two years, provision for which was made in the Budget. The actuals of the previous year included the Customs Tariff compensation for two years, but the salt compensations were smaller by 6,2. Under Excise and other Compensations the Budget was exceeded by the payment of some comparatively small arrears, while the actuals of 1889-90 included 29,4 on account of the arrears of opium compensation due to the Palanpur Darbar for 10½ years.

48. As usual the Charges of District Administration were over-estimated in all the provinces except the Punjab, and in most cases this was due to sufficient allowance not having been made for the savings which occurred on account of the absence of officers on leave and deputation. In India it was also due to the pay of certain Revenue Inspectors and peons having been transferred to Survey and Settlement. In the Central Provinces 4,8 of the savings occurred in the Patwari Fund charges owing chiefly to the Patwaris and additional Inspectors not having been entertained to the extent provided for in the estimate. In Burma the savings would have been larger, if a number of officers had not elected to draw their leave allowances in India owing to the current rate of exchange having been for a time more favorable than the official rate. A part of the saving in Assam was due to a Deputy Commissioner having been placed in charge of the Lushai Hills, his pay and allowances being debited to 25—Political. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh there was a large saving in the Kanungo Establishment, the estimate for which was placed too high; but this was partly counterbalanced by an increase under Salaries, too large a deduction having been made on account of probable savings. In the Punjab the excess over the Budget occurred mainly in the salaries and travelling allowances of Tehsildars and Naib-Tehsildars; and the increase compared with the previous year was due partly to the same cause and partly to larger payments for salaries and office expenses, the number of officers being increased. In Madras, besides general savings under salaries as mentioned above, the provision made in the Budget for the regrading of Revenue Inspectors was not fully utilised, but these savings were partly counterbalanced by an increase under Supplies and Services, chiefly in the payment of search fees in Registration Offices which was more than covered by receipts under X—Registration. In Bombay the savings would have been greater, if they had not been partially balanced by the transfer to this head of the charges in connection with the Deputy Commissioner, Thar and Parker, and his establishment formerly charged under 25—Political, a moiety of the Deputy Commissic .er's salary and travelling allowances being taken under 19—Law and Justice.

49. The Survey and Settlement charges are shewn below separately, according as they appertain to professional surveys or district settlements—

50. The Professional Survey Charges represent the amount payable by the Provincial Governments on account of work done for them by the Survey Department, except in Madras and Bombay, which have their own Revenue Survey Establishment. In the Central Provinces the cadastral survey was completed in the preceding year. The small charge in 1890-91 represents the cost of maps supplied. The differences in Burma, Assam and the Punjab are small and do not call for any special remarks. In Bengal the survey of the Cuttack and Pooree districts, which was commenced in 1889-90, was in full operation during 1890-91, but the provision for this in the budget proved slightly too high. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the excess over the actuals of the previous year occurred in the charges for the Survey of Garhwal, a hilly district. Savings in temporary establishments account for the comparatively low expenditure in Madras. In Bombay the savings occurred principally in Sind owing to a reduction in the Survey Staff there from 1st November 1890, and to a large saving in the expenditure on boundary marks for which 14,0 was provided in the Budget, while the actual expenditure amounted to 3,2 only. This decrease was due to sufficient allowance not having been made in the Budget for arrear recoveries, &c., from land-holders, which are brought to account by deduction from the charges, and for the Survey drawing to a close. The difference between the actuals of the two years is also on account of boundary marks, the expenditure on which in 1889-90 amounted to 24,7, as the whole of the outstanding balance of advances drawn in previous years was charged as expenditure in that year. As regards District Settlement Charges, the Budget Estimates were framed unnecessarily high in most of the provinces. The decreased charge in the North-Western Provinces as compared with the previous year was due to the settlements in Basti, Gorakhpur and Bulandshahr having been almost completed in 1889-90, while the new settlements in Unao, Jhansi and Partabgarh had not come into full operation, so that the expenditure on them was not at its miximum.

51. Under Land Records and Agriculture the Budget was exceeded in Burma owing to revision of establishments and to absence of provision in the Budget for the Akyab supplementary survey. The differences in the other provinces were small. Under Government Estates in Bengal the difference in the expenditure of the two years is more than accounted for by the reduction in the outlay on improvements; the Budget, however, estimated for a still greater reduction under this head, and partly for this reason and partly because of higher charges for commission on the collection of rents and for office and ground rent it fell short of the actuals. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh there were savings in the grants for collection of Revenue and for improvements. The payments for Commission on Collections necessarily vary with the collections, and these were higher in Burma in 1890-91 than in the previous year. The actuals in Madras in 1889-90 included Pearl Fishery charges which are now taken under the major head 32—Miscellaneous. The excess under Allowances to District and Village Officers was due, in the Punjab, to revision of assessments and to unexpected charges for the construction of Patwar-khanas and the purchase of a superior description of paper for the use of Patwaris. In Madras it arose from the gradual introduction of the scheme for the revision of village establishments, under which they are paid by fixed salaries, covered by a village cess credited under VI—Provincial Rates. The variation in Bombay as compared with the Budget occurred in the cash allowances which are irregularly paid; the excess over the actuals of the previous year was chiefly under Alienated Land Revenue and arose from Revision of Settlement.

52. The details of the Upper Burma, Charges are given below:—

| 1889-90. Accounts. | | 1890-91. Budget. | 1890-91. Revised. | 1890-91. Accounts. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 74,1 | Charges of District Administration | 81,5 | 76,7 | 74,9 |
| 15,1 | Survey and Settlement | 24,1 | 34,9 | 36,6 |
| 69,1 | Land Records and Agriculture | 8 | 7 | 7 |
| 41,1 | Commission on Collections | 47,2 | 51,3 | 45,3 |
| 130,4 | TOTAL | 153,6 | 163,6 | 157,5 |

The charges of District Administration were over-estimated in the Budget, and there was a small saving in the payments for commission on collections owing to a change in the rate, but these savings were more than counterbalanced by an increase in the survey charges, caused by the surveys of the oil fields and sisa lands, which were not provided for in the Budget, and which also account for most of the difference between the actuals of the two years.

53. The increase in the Other Charges in India is mainly connected with the administration of Zhob for which no provision was made in the Budget.

In the Benares agency the savings on the Budget also occurred in the charges for Temporary Establishment, Supplies and Services.

55. The details of the Cultivation and Manufacturing Charges are given below. The charges being dependent on the produce of opium are liable to heavy fluctuations from year to year.

55. The Budget for 1890-91 was based on the forecasts of produce of the standing crop furnished by the Opium Agents in January and February 1890, the expected production being taken at 99,903 maunds, but owing to unfavourable weather the actual outturn amounted to 95,867 maunds only. In 1889-90 there was a serious failure of the crops and the outturn was 67,733 maunds only.

56. Under Establishment and Contingencies the savings on the Budget in India occurred in the pay of the Mine Superintendents (those employed being of lower grade than those provided for) and in the temporary establishments of the Internal Branch. In Madras the full strength of sanctioned establishments has not yet been entertained. In Bengal the Budget provided 1,0 for the purchase of Kilby patent scales for weighing salt and 3,6 for the construction of pontoons on the river frontage of the Sulkea salt golahs and a shunting line directly connecting the golahs with the East Indian Railway. The construction of the pontoons was subsequently transferred to the Public Works Department with 2,8 of the grant. The actual expenditure on the purchase of the scales, however, amounted to 3,1 and still larger provision was made in the Revised Estimate on this account, the unexpended portion 5,2 of the allotment of 1889-90 for the purpose having been taken. There was also an excess of 9 over the Budget Estimate under rents, rates and taxes. The Manufacture and Excavation charges at Sambhar and the Punjab Mines exceeded both the Budget Estimate and the actuals of 1889-90. The Purchase and Freight charges were over-estimated both in Madras and Bombay.

57. The only remarks called for are that the charges for stamps supplied from central stores to Bengal, North-Western Provinces and the Punjab fell short of both the Budget Estimate and the actuals of 1889-90 owing partly to smaller issues of stamps and partly to the rise in exchange having diminished their rupee value.

58. In India the Government share of the cost of the distillery establishment at Bangalore was not paid to the Mysore Darbar during the year. The bulk of the saving in the Central Provinces occurred under Rewards for which a comparatively large provision was made consequent on the establishment of a Special Police force in the Nimar District to prevent opium-smuggling. In Burma the charges for Lower Burma rose owing to revision of establishment and to the transfer to this head of charges formerly debited to a Local Fund ; while in Upper Burma the full sanctioned strength of establishment was not entertained. In Assam the Assessing and Inspecting Establishment provided for in the Budget was not entertained during the year, but a part of this saving was counterbalanced by charges for rewards which were formerly debited to 19A.—Law and Justice, Courts of Law. The adjustment of similar rewards in Bengal also accounts for almost the whole of the excess over the Budget. The excess over the actuals of 1889-90 arose from the appointment of a larger number of Deputy Collectors and larger outlay for travelling allowance and construction of distilleries. The continued expansion of departmental operations in Madras accounts for the excess over the estimates and over the actuals of 1889-90.

59. The larger expenditure in Bengal in 1890-91 is due partly to increased charges for Establishments entertained for valuation and revaluation work, for which allowance was not made in the Estimates, and partly to charges on account of arrear contributions paid on behalf of employes of District Boards, whose services have been declared to be qualifying for pension. The saving in the Punjab as compared with 1889-90 is the result of the discontinuance, with effect from 1st October 1889, of the allowances formerly paid to Lumbardars and Patwaris for collecting the Local Rate.

60. The saving in the Calcutta Port occurred in the charges for Establishments; while that in the Bombay Port arose from the appointment of comparatively junior officers as Commissioner and Collector of Land Revenue and Customs. In Madras a reduction in the fees distributed to customs officers for work done out of office hours diminished the charges.

61. The only points noticeable are that the abolition of the office of Collector of Income Tax from May 1890 and smaller payments on account of commission reduced the expenditure in Burma. In Bengal the Budget provided for an increase in consequence of the intended appointment of whole time Income Tax Assessors in place of the officers holding the combined appointments of Income Tax Assessors and Excise Sub-Inspectors in some districts. The full number of Assessors anticipated was not however appointed.

62 In India the charges for the removal of timber were enhanced in consequence of the preparation in the Andamans of two large cargoes of Padouk timber for shipment to England and of the extension of Sandalwood collections in Coorg. Under Other Charges, the increase occurred entirely in the Andamans, where four elephants were purchased for 1,0 for which no provision was made in the Budget, the purchase having been sanctioned during the year. Establishment charges were also higher in Beluchistan owing to the increased pay of the Beluchistan Forest Officer.

63. In the Central Provinces the curtailment of departmental timber operations diminished the Expenditure under Conservancy and Works, while the savings under Establishments were brought about by an extension of the leave of a Senior Conservator who was expected to return to duty during the year, by delay in gazetting certain temporary promotions and by smaller travelling allowances being drawn in consequence of shorter tours of superior officers.

64. Teak operations in Lower Burma not having been satisfactory, the share of the proceeds payable to contractors was smaller. There were also savings in the charges for Temporary Forest subordinate establishments, for drift operations in the Tenasserim Circle and for purchase of cattle and demarcation work in the Pegu Circle. In Upper Burma the estimate provided for the cost of girdling 88,000 teak trees, whereas only 23,000 were girdled during the year, and there were also savings in the charges for extracting timber by Government Agency in the Yaw Division, and in those for Communications and Buildings, Demarcation Works, and Salaries of subordinate establishments.

65. In Assam timber and experimental cutch operations augmented the expenditure, and there was also excess expenditure for temporary establishments. Purchase of elephants for Forest Survey work, extension of fire protection work in the Goalpara Division and a refund of 8 in Luckimpur, mainly account for the increase under Other Charges. In the Establishment charges there were savings in the pay of permanent establishment which counterbalanced the excess under temporary establishment.

66. In Bengal the reasons given for reduced revenue also explain to some extent the decrease in expenditure. The savings under "Other Charges" occured in the expenditure on stores, tools and plant, roads and buildings, and on Forest Survey work in Singbhoom, where it was impeded on account of the unsettled state of the boundary between the Singbhoom District and the tributary state of Keonjhar in Orissa. The savings under "Establishments" were principally in the pay of subordinate establishments.

67. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the decrease in expenditure under head I of Conservancy and Charges occurred mainly in the Central Circle, owing to a smaller supply of fuel to the Commissariat Department, and to a large quantity of dry fallen wood from the ravages of the fire of 1887 having been utilized, thus preventing expenditure on green fellings. The savings in the estimate under Establishment were principally in the pay of the Lower Controlling Staff of the Oudh Circle, for an increase of which provision had been made in anticipation of sanction, which was not, however, given during the year.

68. In the Punjab, the diminished expenditure under head I of Conservancy Charges was principally caused by the Department having been unable to fulfil its contract with the North-Western Railway for supply of fuel, owing to transport difficulties in Montgomery. In Chamba also the progress in working down the Ravi sleepers and scantlings was not satisfactory; and in Lahore fellings, as prescribed by Working-Plans, were not completed, and hay operations were stopped in the Changa Manga plantations. The saving in "Other Charges" was mainly due to the full supply of tramway materials not having been obtained before the close of the year, to the non-construction of a house and coolie lines at Changa Manga, and to the progress in the new Irrigation scheme at Changa Manga having been slower than was anticipated. The savings under "Establishments" were principally in the pay of subordinate forest establishments and in the travelling allowances of superior officers and subordinate employés.

69. In Madras the differences between the estimates and actuals of 1890-91 do not call for any special remarks. The smaller expenditure of the previous year was caused by the restriction of departmental operations, by planting operations having been retarded from want of timely rain and by establishments not having been entertained to the same extent as in 1890-91.

70. In Bombay there was a large saving on the Budget Estimate in the charges for Conservancy and Works. The saving occurred mainly in the Southern and Sind Circle, and was due to the reasons given under receipts. The excess over the actuals of the previous year was due mainly to the charges for the conveyance of a large quantity of timber from the Dangs forests for upwards of 40 miles to a depôt on the Coast and near the Railway. Larger expenditure was also incurred in the Southern Circle on timber and fuel operations in the Northern Division of Kanara, which was necessitated by a combination among the dealers against the Department within the Dangs.

71. The low expenditure under Superintendence in Bengal is due chiefly to the recovery from the salary of the Inspector-General of an advance drawn by him when on leave in England. Larger payments on account of commission in consequence of increased revenue account for the increased District Charges in Bengal, North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and Bombay. In Madras there was a small saving in the provision made in the Budget for the contemplated opening of new Sub-Registry Offices. The increase over 1889-90 was due partly to the opening of these offices but mainly to the revised scale of salaries of Sub Registrars introduced from 10th July 1889.

72. The larger receipts under this head were obtained chiefly from the investment of the cash balances in England, which as well as the rate of interest at which they were invested, were exceptionally high during the year. Compared with the previous year there was also an increase in the receipts from interest on loans to Presidency Corporations and Municipalities owing to fresh loans having been granted to them, but sufficient allowance was made for them in the Budget.

73. The receipts under this head arise in India partly from the paper currency investment and partly from the loans made by Government to municipalities, and other public bodies, Native States and cultivators, etc. The paper currency investment was raised during the year by the purchase of Government Promissory notes of the nominal value of 950,6, but as the investment was made at about the end of the year, no important amount was realised on account of interest on it. The receipts from interest on loans to municipalities, etc., are increasing on account of the large advances made in recent years to the Calcutta and Bombay Port Trusts for the construction of docks, and also on account of the introduction of the Provincial and Local loans scheme described in paragraphs 114 to 118 of the Financial Statement of 1889-90, under which Local Governments are now making large advances to municipalities for constructing water-works and effecting other sanitary improvements. The following statement shows the balances of the different kinds of loans during the last five years:—
